STOCKS RALLY WHILE BEARS BEAT RETREAT

Exchange Inquiry Paired With Proposed Tax Cut Aids Market.

ACTIVE ISSUES RISE $2 TO $20 A SHARE

Traders Cheer at Opening Bids and Customers Smile Again.

REDUCTION IS MADE IN REDISCOUNT RATE

Brokers' Loans Decrease $710,000,000, Lowest Level Since 1928.

New York, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Stock prices rallied $2 to $20 a share, and held most of their gains today as the country's leading financial authorities took steps to restore public confidence.

The stock exchange inquiry into the character and source of recent "short" selling, coupled with the overnight announcement of a proposed cut in Federal income taxes, sent "bear" traders scurrying to cover and attracted a large volume of investment buying by interests who were awaiting indications of a definite turn in the market.

Trading failed to maintain the terrific pace set yesterday, but total sales for the three-hour session ran over five and a half million shares.

Rediscount Rate Cut.

After the market closed, the New York Federal Reserve Bank reduced its rediscount rate from 5 to 4½ per cent, foreshadowing a general reduction throughout the Federal Reserve system, and announced a decrease of $710,000,000 in brokers' loans to $4,172,000,000, the lowest level since June, 1928. This brings the total shrinkage in loans during the past three weeks to nearly $2,500,000,000, the most drastic reduction for any similar period on record.

The rally in stocks today followed a week of almost steadily declining prices during which the market had struck a new bottom on three separate occasions. Prices of many leading issues had been carried to only a small fraction of the year's high levels, quotations of several offering very attractive dividend yields at current rates of payment.

Floor brokers on the New York Stock Exchange, many of whom had been depressed by the destructive wave of liquidation, greeted the opening bids with cheers, which were re-echoed in hundreds of brokerage houses as illuminated stock tickers carried a record of the opening transactions.

Customers Smile Again.

Smiles again appeared on the faces of those who crowded the customers' rooms of the large commission houses.

Initial transactions in the leading issues ranged from 5,000 to 40,000 shares, with the gains running all the way from a few cents to $16 a share. A wave of profit taking followed the initial bulge, and then prices moved upward again, crossing the opening levels and closing around the day's high levels.

Placing of a bid for 1,000,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey at $50 a share just before the close of yesterday's market, coupled with reports that large supporting orders had been placed around yesterday's low level for U. S. Steel, Anaconda and other leading issues, was widely accepted as evidence that powerful financial interests were determined to "peg" those issues, if necessary, until the crisis had passed.

Banking Group Meets.

The New York banking group met briefly today for the first time in ten days but issued no statement beyond the comment of one of its spokesmen that "it noted improvement in the situation."

Industrial executives continued to express their confidence in the general business situation by special dividend payments. General Motors di-

Two Killed by Gas On U. S. Battleship

Seven Others in Hospital After Being Overcome Aboard New York.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Lieut. R. H. Hollenbeck and Boatswain's Mate Thomas George Weber lost their lives, and seven other men, all members of the crew of the battleship New York, are in a hospital as the result of being overcome by a poisonous gas aboard their ship at the Norfolk Navy Yard early tonight.

Weber lost his life when he went to the rescue of Hollenbeck, one of a party of four who were overcome after entering a blister on the side of the ship.

General's Wife, Widow Of Another, Dies Here

Mrs. Alada Miller Married Classmate of Her First Husband in 1924.

Harris & Ewing.
MRS. ALADA MILLER.

Mrs. Alada Thurston Paddock Miller, wife of Brig. Gen. Samuel Warren Miller, retired, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 1661 Crescent place northwest, following a stroke suffered Monday, after which she never regained consciousness. When the end came her husband and other members of the family were at her bedside. She was more than 70 years old.

Prominent in Capital society and in Army circles, Mrs. Miller's death was a shock to her friends, many of whom were unaware of her illness.

When Mrs. Miller and Gen. Miller were married five years ago, she was the widow of Maj. Gen. Albert Mills who was the father of her two surviving children.

Mrs. Miller began life in Army circles with Gen. Mills when he was Cavalry lieutenant in Montana engaged in fighting Indians, and after living at various Army posts she settled permanently here in 1912.

Of a lovable disposition and kindly nature and active up to the day she was stricken, Mrs. Miller's name was to be found on the rolls of many church, patriotic and charitable organizations.

She was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., where her father, Bishop John Pad-

NAVAL PARLEY SNAG REVEALED IN TOKYO

JAPAN IS QUITE CRITICAL

(Associated Press.)

Word from Tokyo that the American and British governments would object to a 10-10-7 ratio in auxiliary naval ships for Japan at the forthcoming naval conference in London was received with complete silence by Washington officialdom.

State Department officials declined to comment, but authoritative circles made it known that the principal objection of the United States to a 10-10-7 ratio is based on the belief that a demand by the Japanese for such an increase over the 5-5-3 ratio set for capital ships at the Washington arms conference might have a generally unfavorable effect on the naval parley.

The question has been discussed between department officials and Ambassador Debuchi of Japan, and it is understood that officials here consider it one for the conference. It also will be taken up with the Japanese delegation when it arrives here en route from Tokyo to London next month.

It was pointed out that the attitude with which the United States is approaching the conference is one favoring reduction in naval tonnage. For one nation, whether it be Japan, Italy or France, to enter the conference with a demand for a higher ratio might lead to similar demands by other powers, it was said. These demands could thus become sufficiently large to cause the agreement to be much higher in the assigned tonnages than had been hoped for under the reduction policy of President Hoover.

The question is considered a particularly delicate one in view of the fact that France and Italy are involved in a similar one.

Tokyo, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Although official confirmation was unavailable, it was learned authoritatively today that Japan's claims for 70 per cent of American strength in cruisers carrying 8-inch guns have met with a discouraging reception both in London and in Washington.

Recent diplomatic correspondence from those capitals has been a closely guarded secret at the foreign office, but this afternoon's papers gave prominence to reports of an Anglo-

SIMMONS FROWNS ON SPENDING ORGY

Representative in Favor of Using District Cash With Wisdom.

WANTS $4,000,000 KEPT

This is the sixth of a series of articles on the fiscal relations of the District written by a staff man who has covered municipal activities for years. The series began in the Sunday issue.

By BERNARD McDONNELL.

Whether the surplus millions in the Treasury to the credit of the District will be appropriated in 1931 will depend on the merit of the various items going to make up the record-breakng $48,500,000 budget submitted to the budget bureau by the District Commissioners, Representative Robert G. Simmons, of Nebraska, chairman of the House District sub-committee on appropriations, declared yesterday.

"The money is there and belongs to the District and should be spent for things that are necessary," Representative Simmons said. "But there is no reason why unwise or uneconomical expenditures should be authorized for the 1931 fiscal year just because there is money in the Treasury."

Representative Simmons is the man who was responsible for increasing the appropriations for this year by something like $1,600,000 above the amount sent to the Congress by the budget bureau. It was Simmons who called a halt to the rapidly growing surplus of District funds in the Treasury. But the House District appropriations chairman is far from approving a sailor-in-port spending orgy for the next fiscal year simply for the purpose of getting rid of the existing surplus.

It may be that the House appropriations committee will cut down the total estimates of the Commissioners, if these are approved by the budget bureau, and leave some of the surplus available for public works the following year. But there is no reason, Simmons believes, why the available funds should not be expended wisely and economically within two years.

District officials and civic leaders who are interested in getting the surplus appropriated for various public works they believe are needed can prepare for one job which will confront them in their arguments before

Two Patrolmen Suspended In Rum Slaying at Border

$2,000 Worth of Liquor Held After Shooting at Crary Mills, N. Y.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Nov. 14 (A.P.). Border Patrolmen E. F. Watrous and H. J Whittam were suspended from service today after a conference between State and Federal officials investigating the fatal shooting at Crary Mills this morning of Ernest Sabray, who died in a Potsdam hospital from a bullet wound alleged to have been received in a clash with the Federal officers.

The conference was attended by District Attorney W. D. Ingram, of St. Lawrence County; John C. Tulloch, collector of the Port of Ogdensburg; Rupert Nesbith, chief of the immigration limit, and Frank G. Henry and Albert O. Hokenson, customs agents.

The two patrolmen were questioned regarding the affair, but nothing

DISCREPANCY IN TIME PRINCIPAL CONFLICT

Mrs. Heavim Fixes Hour of Cab Incident as Prior to 1 o'Clock A. M.

Corroboration of the report that a man wearing a light gray suit alighted from a taxicab at the rear of the Park Lane apartment late on the night of September 12 was given at the new grand jury investigation of the McPherson death mystery yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heavrin, neighbors of the late Virginia Hurley McPherson at the Park Lane.

On the other hand, Mrs. Heavrin contradicted the statement of former Policeman Robert J. Allen that he had seen a man emerge from the window of Mrs. McPherson's apartment that night and run across a low roof. Mrs. Heavrin is understood to have told the jury that she had sat up looking out of her window, which overlooks the roof, until after 3 o'clock on the morning of September 13, and that no one was on the roof during that time.

According to the story Mrs. Heavrin is believed to have related when interrogated by the grand jury for almost an hour yesterday morning, she was in her automobile at the rear of the apartment building between 12:30 and 12:40 o'clock on the morning of September 13, returning from a drive with her husband to Hains Point, when a man wearing "a very light gray suit and hat," but without an overcoat, came to the rear of the Park Lane in a Diamond taxicab, and after paying his fare walked past her car to the rear door of the building, which he opened and entered.

Bears Out Driver's Story.

This is a partial confirmation of the story related by Garnett Melvin Frye, a taxicab driver, who has not yet appeared before the new grand jury, but who has told of driving such a man, whom he has identified positively as Robert A. McPherson, husband of the attractive young nurse, and who is now in the District Jail under a disputed indictment charging him with first-degree murder.

The principal discrepancy between Frye's story and that given to the grand jury yesterday is in the matter of time. Frye has said that he drove the passenger to the Park Lane "some time between 1 o'clock and 3" on the morning of September 13, or at least half an hour later than the arrival of the man in gray seen by Mrs. Heavrin, who was able to fix the time exactly, within a period of ten minutes. Although she thought the man in gray "might have been McPherson," she would not undertake to make any positive identification, it is understood.

While it is believed that Mrs. Heavrin told the Department of Justice about this "mystery man in gray" some time ago, she did not relate this information at the former grand jury hearing for the reason that it was not until after Frye's story was made public that she saw any connection between the man she saw and the death of Mrs. McPherson, the attractive young nurse whose body was found on the bedroom floor of her Park Lane apartment on September 14, about 36 hours after she is believed to have been choked to death.

Screams and Sobs Heard.

Mrs. Heavrin is understood to have told the grand jury yesterday that after putting away her car she and her husband entered their apartment almost directly beneath that of Virginia McPherson, at twenty minutes before 1 o'clock and that shortly afterward she heard noises indicating a heated argument in which it appeared a woman and two men were involved and during which there were sounds as of furniture or other heavy articles being moved or hurled and the woman cried, "Oh, Bob, stop!" Mrs. Heavrin declared the voice was that of Virginia McPherson, she believed.

So impressed was she by the sounds of the argument, punctusted with shrill screams and the sound of a woman sobbing piteously and later groaning, Mrs. Heavrin said, that it was with difficulty that her husband was able to restrain her "Irish temperament" and prevent her from rushing to the aid of the woman in peril and distress.

After a time, Mrs. Heavrin continued, the sounds of the argument subsided, being followed by the noise of much running water from faucets

SENATE BEGINS NIGHT PARLEYS ON TARIFF BILL

WEARY LAWMAKERS RAISE DAIRY RATES

Gentlemen's Agreement on Adjournment Broken, Harrison Says.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate reached the high note of its disorder yesterday when the Republican regulars bolted an agreement their leader had with the Democrats to adjourn. It seemed to be the breaking of the last tradition the august body has ever had, such traditions as senatorial courtesy, ethics and the keeping of confidences having gone off the board early in the present session.

The Democrats, in an effort to get out of the position of seeking adjournment in which they had been placed, immediately moved for night sessions. A motion by Harrison to this end carried overwhelmingly and the night sessions began last night.

Indications that the tired legislators wanted to speed things up were seen in the fact that not a single roll call was taken as raises in farm tariffs on milk, cream and dairy products, proposed by the finance committee Republicans, were approved. The gallery was well filled as the senators bent to their work.

It was more than the body's physician, Senator Copeland, of New York, could stand, and he warned his colleagues that they were no longer either "mentally or physically" capable of acting on the tariff, the matter in hand. It may be, in fact, there are some indications that an adjournment agreement may be reached today, after the doctor's remarks have more fully sunk in.

Progressives Stand Known.

Just what happened in the regular Republican camp could not be fully learned. The Progressives were not concerned. They had made known from the first that they were not in favor of adjourning and would not vote for such a plan.

But among the regulars and the Democrats, those that do not want to adjourn with the realization on all sides that the bill can not possibly be passed before the regular session, can be counted upon the fingers of one hand.

Neither the regulars nor the Democrats, however, have wanted to initiate the adjournment move, not being willing to take what they consider would be the political odium of it.

So a gentleman's agreement was entered into that there would be no politics in the matter, that Senator Jones, the acting Republican leader, would offer an adjournment resolution and the Democrats would publicly agree that it was the best thing to do and vote for it.

Progressives State Views.

The progressives, while making knowm that they would not support the resolution, had agreed to agitate the matter. This vas the situation as the Senate got ready to convene yesterday.

Senator Jones conferred with Senator Simmons, acting Democratic leader, however, and explained that he had encountered a feeling on his side of the chamber that the resolution should come from the Democratic side, but that the Republicans would support it. Senator Simmons readily agreed and said very frankly in offering it that it made no difference who made the first move as the situation in the Senate was well known to every sane person.

Whereupon 20 of the regulars proceeded to desert Senator Jones and vote against the resolution. It was defeated by a vote of 51 to 34. Twelve Democrats also voted against the resolution, but in the subsequent explanations it was agreed that there had been no breaking of faith on their part, that they had told the Democratic leaders that they could not vote for the resolution.

Senator Jones, in fact, took full responsibility for the debacle on his

Flier, Known Here, Finishes First Trip in Far North Drama.

New York, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Three laconic messages from Nome, Alaska, today served as the basis for the reconstruction of a rescue drama in the wilds of Eastern Siberia, whose cast included Carl Ben Eielson, Arctic explorer, in the role of hero, and five men and a girl stranded in the ice-bound motor ship Nanuk.

"Returned today from flight to Cape North, Siberia, after fur, and six passengers for Swenson Fur Co., New York," Eielson telegraphed to the Aviation Corporation, parent organization of an aeronautic group of which he is the Alaskan representative. "Have five more trips to make. Leaving tomorrow on second."

In a subsequent message, he reported that with him from the ship he brought the first of the ice-bound voyagers and part of the vessel's $1,000,000 cargo of furs.

Still later he advised his superiors that bad weather necessitated postponement of the second flight.

PUBLIC, POLITICIANS HOPE FOR TAX CUT

STOCK MARKET REACTS

(Associated Press.)

Another tax reduction—a 1 per cent cut in rates to all individual and corporation income taxpayers on next year's Federal dues—was on its way yesterday with congressional leaders of both parties hopeful of its approval before Christmas.

While the price-collapsing stock market was reacting favorably after this news from the Capital, a new message bearing hope to business went forth from the Treasury late in the day, the Federal Reserve Board announcing a reduction in the rediscount rate of the New York Bank from 5 to 4½ per cent.

Both propositions were regarded by many as the outgrowth of the White House conference Wednesday attended by the Treasury and Reserve Board officials, but Secretary Mellon stated explicitly yesterday that the tax reduction had been considered previously, that its pronouncement was merely a coincidence with the stock market situation; and that it was proposed because of a confidence in the continued prosperity of the country.

The tax reduction is intended to apply only to incomes of this year on which taxes are to be paid during 1930, beginning March 15. For that reason, it is planned to have Congress adopt merely a resolution applying to the one year, rather than authorize a permanent revision of the tax rates.

Recommendation of Secretary Mellon that income taxes be cut $160,000,000 on this year's incomes by congressional resolution was made with the hope that Congress would see fit to include in the revenue law a provision permitting flexibility of the Immediate approval of the Wheeler resolution to investigate conditions in the Southern textile mills was requested of the Senate yesterday in a resolution adopted by a group of union labor officials gathered to form a plan for unionizing the South.

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, author of the resolution, said that had the Senate cast the light of publicity upon conditions in Southern mills by an investigation, the latest tragedy at Marion, N. C., never would have taken place.

The group, consisting chiefly of officers of national and international unions also voted to ask each national group to furnish one or more organizers for unionizing the textile mills. An appeal for funds to carry on the work was also authorized.

Pushing the textile organizations ahead of that in other industries was decided upon in view of the acute conditions prevailing in the mills at

Hope for Secretary Is Not Yet Abandoned, White House Says.

SUDDEN CONFERENCE HELD BY PHYSICIANS

PRESIDENT KEEPS UP CONTINUOUS CONTACT

Same Limitations on News of Patient's Status Are Maintained.

The condition of James W. Good, Secretary of War, took a sudden turn for the worse early last night, but following a consultation of his physicians it was announced at the White House that hope had not been abandoned for his recovery.

At 11:30 o'clock it was announced that the Secretary had lapsed into sleep and was resting comfortably.

The next few hours of today and tonight are likely to determine the life or death of the Cabinet member. If he can continue his valiant fight against the effects of the operation for gangrenous appendicitis until tomorrow morning physicians believe that he will recover.

Only meager details of the consultation were made public last night and none of those attending would comment on the ultimate outcome. The conference was attended by Col. William I. Keller, noted Army surgeon, who performed the dangerous operation, Wednesday morning, his staff of aids, and Dr. Joel T. Boone, personal physician to the President, who has been a frequent visitor at Good's bedside.

The patient's pulse was said to be registering as well as could be expected under the circumstances. No explanation of the sudden consultation was given.

Hoover in Constant Touch.

President Hoover continued in constant touch with his aid's attendants through his secretaries. The same limitation on the sources of news were maintained. Infrequent and irregular verbal reports were given to the White House newspapermen, while the hospital attaches and War Department officials remained silent.

The Secretary, despite his extreme weakness, gave a few orders for work to be done in the War Department. These were transferred by Mrs. Good to John Martyn, his executive secretary, who called at the hospital during the afternoon.

The Cabinet member's wife, who has an adjoining room at the hospital, continued her vigil yesterday, though she did not stay in the sick room.

Has Been Present Constantly.

She has been near him constantly since he went to Walter Reed Tuesday night.

Several more floral tributes were sent to Good yesterday, among them some beautiful roses from the White House garden, which is under the direct supervision of Mrs. Hoover. Other flowers were from intimate friends.

Leut. Comdr. Boone, who participated in the diagnosis with Secretary Wilbur Tuesday night, was a frequent caller at the sick room yesterday. President Hoover has instructed him to lend himself entirely to the aid of Good.

Oddly enough, Secretary Good had just before his illness completed a magazine article on the excellent work being done for World War veterans at Walter Reed Hospital. In this he described Col. Keller and praised him for his splendid work as a surgeon.

The effect of the Cabinet member's illness continued in evidence at the White House yesterday and last night. President Hoover received reports until well on toward midnight and instructed his secretaries to inform him immediately of any serious setback in Good's condition.

All-Night Vigil Kept.

Senators and Representatives at the Capitol also manifested a keen interest in the War Department chief and made frequent telephone calls to the White House.

Newspaper men kept an all-night vigil at the White House pressroom.

Secretary Good was stricken at his home Tuesday night. Following a diagnosis by Dr. Boone and Secretary Wilbur, himself a physician, he was removed to Walter Reed and an operation was ordered for the next morning.

Upon the operating table it was found that gangrene had set in and that the excision would be extremely difficult because of the low position of the appendix. The operation required more than an hour.

JOHN O. SAUNDERS BURIED

Funeral Services for Washington Man Are Held at Newport News.

Washington relatives of John Oscar Saunders, 31 years old, 136 Eleventh street northeast, returned yesterday from Newport News, Va., where funeral and burial services for Saunders were held Tuesday. The funeral was held at the home of his father, George W. Saunders, in Newport News, with burial in Greenlawn Cemetery, where the Masonic Lodge held services. He was a member of East Gate Lodge, No. 34, A. F. and A. M., in this city.

Saunders died Saturday at Providence Hospital here after a two weeks' illness. He was born in Elizabeth City, N. C., and came to Washington nine years ago. He was married to Miss Rosalie E. Umphlett seven years ago. Survivors are his widow, his father and mother, two brothers, George L. Saunders, of Washington, and Gordon T. Saunders, of Newport News, and a sister, Miss Nannie B. Saunders, also of that place.

FUNERAL OF JAMES S BURNS

Retired Street Railway Employe Will Be Buried Today.

Funeral rites for James Samuel Burns, 68 years old, retired employe of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., who died at his residence, 1739 P street, Tuesday, after a lingering illness, will be conducted in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, New Hampshire avenue and V street northwest, this afternoon, following brief ceremonies at the residence of his son, Frank C. Burns, 1120 Buchanan street, at 1:30 o'clock. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Burns was retired from the employ of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. several months ago after 42 years of service. He was a member of the Metropolis Lodge of Odd Fellows, and a lifelong resident of Washington.

His widow, Mrs. Annie Louise Burns, and son, Frank, survive him.

RITES FOR GEORGE PRINCE.

NEWSPAPER ROW SITE

The historical tablet on the National Press Building, commemorating the site, was unveiled yesterday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies in which Washington newspaper men participated. The tablet was erected by the Permanent Committee on Marking Places of Historical Interest in the District of Columbia, and John Clagett Proctor, chairman, presided at the exercises. It reads as follows:

"National Press Building; cornerstone laid April 8, 1926, by President Coolidge; building covers site of Ebbitt House, where resided President William McKinley, while serving in Congress, and other men including such distinguished soldiers and sailors as Rogers, Farragut, Worden, Canby, Thomas, Porter, Winslow, Case and Drayton. The building also covers a part of historic Newspaper Row."

Representative Louis Ludlow, of Indianapolis, president of the National Press Club when the building was finished in 1927; Russell Kent, president of the club, and George Rothwell Brown delivered addresses during the ceremonies and music was furnished by the United States Army Band.

Representative Ludlow predicted that the broad sweep of years will show that the greatest security for the rights of man is to be found at Fourteenth and F streets, rather than at Sixteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.

"I firmly believe," he continued, "that if it were possible for us to envision the far distant future, we should see that in the broad sweep of years the greatest security for the rights of man is to be found, not at Sixteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, as majestic as is the Presidency of our Republic, nor in the vaulted chambers at the other end of the avenue where our legislators sit, nor yet in the Supreme Court where black-robed justices battle to preserve the Nation's conscience, but rather it will be found in the great influence typified by this building at Fourteenth and F streets, the home of the press. Let us hope that throughout the ages to come he who runs may read in this tablet which we are erecting today a symbol of watchful guardianship over the liberties of the people. May this building stand here forever to symbolize the mighty power that throughout the ages to come is destined to protect the cherished guaranties for which our forefathers pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor."

Brown traced the development of newspaper correspondent work in Washington, and the growth of the old Newspaper Row.

The first newspaper correspondent to be assigned definitely to Washington was from the Philadelphia Bulletin in 1809, Brown said. Subsequently with the growth and development of the Morse telegraph, the number of correspondents increased, he said, until about 1869 the old Newspaper Row was definitely established.

"It is particularly fitting," he continued, "that this magnificent press building should be located in the very heart of the old Newspaper Row and on the site of the old Ebbitt House, the famous gathering place of early Washington correspondents and newspaper men."

The ceremonies were held at the Fourteenth street entrance of the building and are the last to be held in connection with the establishment of the $11,000,000 home of the press.

Dry Agent Guilty Of Wounding Man

Shooting to Kill Charge for Ohioan Carries Long Term.

Mansfield, Ohio, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—State Prohibition Agent Edward C. McGaw was convicted late today on a charge of shooting with intent to kill Frank Pillegi. Mansfield restaurant operator. The jury was out one hour and seven minutes.

McGaw will be sentenced tomorrow. He faces a sentence of from one to twenty years under Ohio law.

The charge resulted from the shooting last spring of Pillegi during an alleged liquor raid on his restaurant. McGaw was alleged to have wounded the restaurant man who, the officer said, reached under the counter as though to seize a pistol.

John Kramer, counsel for McGaw, said he would appeal the verdict.

State and defense rested their cases yesterday afternoon after a two-day trial. McGaw concluded the defense testimony with assertions that he showed his badge and threatened to shoot if he was not permitted to leave the restaurant unmolested after purchasing a glass of alleged liquor.

McGaw testified that Pillegi struck at him as he attempted to leave the building to join deputy sheriffs who were waiting outside.

SENATORS TO START COTTON QUIZ TODAY

REPORT SLATED DEC. 20

(Associated Press.)

Investigation of speculative activities on the New York, Chicago and New Orleans Cotton Exchanges will be commenced today by a Senate committee, as ordered by the Senate yesterday through adoption of a resolution sponsored by Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama.

The action was taken without a record vote soon after it was recommended by the audit committee. Chairman McNary of the agriculture committee, appointed the following committee members to make the inquiry: Townsend, Delaware; Walcott, Connecticut; Hatfield, West Virginia, and Thomas, Idaho, Republicans; Smith, South Carolina; Ransdell, Louisiana, and Heflin, Alabama, Democrats. Townsend probably will be chairman.

All of the Republican members are serving their first terms in the Senate. Townsend said the committee would make as thorough an investigation as it could between now and December 20, when a report with "helpful" recommendations must be made to the Senate.

Heflin originally proposed an investigation into the effect on cotton prices of fluctuations on the New York Stock Exchange, but the audit committee amended the resolution to confine the inquiry to the cotton markets. The Alabaman said he would suggest that the presidents of the three exchanges be asked to appear as well as other persons who could tell about "manipulations" of prices on the markets.

Chamber Appoints School Committee

C. H. LeFevre Is Announced as Chairman of Group by President.

President Charles W. Darr, of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, yesterday announced the personnel of the public schools committee of that organization.

Charles H. LeFevre was named chairman and Miss Gertrude H. Bowling vice chairman of the committee composed of the following members:

Rodier, Sidney Seideman, H. B. Shapiro, James E. Smith, Mrs. Caroline B. Stephen, Elwood Street, Arthur J. Sundiun, Mme. Marie Von Unschuld, Miss Marjorie F. Webster, Mrs. Bertha A. Yoder Werthner and Mrs. M. Leona Wise.

Coast Guard Investigates Detention of Captain

Claims of Capt. Frank Giannoni, former Austrian naval officer, that he was detained on his converted submarine chaser for fourteen months by the Coast Guard at Morehead City, N. C., in withholding clearance papers, have prompted an investigation by the Coast Guard through Capt. Charles S. Root, intelligence officer.

The announcement was made here yesterday by Senator F. M. Simmons, of North Carolina, who had requested a probe on behalf of Capt. Giannoni, who enlisted his aid several months ago before the sea officer finally brought his craft here last Saturday and anchored off Fort Washington in the Potomac River.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 10 a. m. and recessed at 10:30 last night to 10 this morning.

Defeated 51 to 34 a resolution to adjourn November 23, and then voted to hold night sessions for consideration of the tariff bill.

Considered tariff bill in both day and night session, and acted on several amendments dealing with lumber and fruit schedules.

Adopted the McKellar resolution for a senatorial investigation of the Shipping Board.

Adopted the Heflin resolution for a Senate investigation of speculative activities on the New York, Chicago and New York cotton exchanges.

Lobby investigating committee learned that Hawaiian sugar growers maintained a $20,000 a year representative here to keep the sugar tariff "as high as possible."

Finance committee deferred until today consideration of the nomination of Alf Oftedal as collector of internal revenue at San Francisco, after Senator Johnson (Republican), of California, had protested against him.

Committee favorably reported the nomination of Herbert F. Seawell, of North Carolina, to be a member of the Board of Tax Appeals.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and recessed at 12:05 to noon Monday.

Representative Bloom (Democrat), New York, offered resolutions to permit secret balloting in the House on modification of the prohibition amendment.

Representative Knutson (Republican), Minnesota, introduced a bill to establish the independence of the Philippines through a constitutional convention.

Chairman Hawley, of the ways and means committee, predicted that Congress would act on the President's proposed tax cut by Christmas.

Depositions Are Taken In Suit Against Tunney

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The defense in the Fogarty-Tunney deposition hearing closed its testimony this afternoon with the exception of one witness.

Depositions are being taken for the suit brought against Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion, by John S. Fogarty, Fort Worth plumber, alleging alienation of his wife's affections. The former Mrs. Fogarty, who underwent a minor operation yesterday, is suing Tunney for $500,000 heart balm.

The deposition of Miss Beulah Rucker, milliner, first Fogarty witness, was taken at Miss Rucker's home today. The witness was confined to her home by illness. Other Fogarty witnesses will be heard Friday, and both sides will finish taking depositions this week.

Safe Raid Linked To Sing Sing Plot

Break Plan Is Revealed at Prison While Robbery Attempt Is Under Way.

New York, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Possibility that the sensational raid by fifteen robbers on the Navy supply base in Brooklyn yesterday was an effort to secure funds to aid a plotted wholesale break from Sing Sing Prison, was seen today by the police.

The link between the two is James Nannery, gunman and escaped Sing Sing convict, whose rogues' gallery picture was said to have been identified by two of the Navy guards as that of one of the men in the fruitless midnight safe robbery attempt.

While the robbery attempt was underway, news came from Sing Sing that Edward Ryan, who escaped with Nannery from Sing Sing three years ago, but later was caught, had been put in solitary confinement, suspected of being a ringleader in the plotted prison break.

Nannery and Ryan were said to have promised that if either was caught, he would aid the other in getting out of prison.

No arrests have been made.

Pantages Faces Suit for $500,000

Principal in Theater Man's Trial Charges Him With Slander.

Los Angeles, Nov. 14 (A.P.—Alexander Pantages, wealthy 54-year-old showman, sentenced to a one-to-fifty-year prison term for criminally attacking Eunice Pringle, young dancer, today was sued for $500,000 damages by Nicholas Duneav, Russian playwright and a principal in Pantages' recent trial. Duneav charged slander.

Duneav's complaint, which was filed in Superior Court, alleged that Pantages, on the day of his arrest last August and also in testifying in his trial, had accused the plaintiff of "having conspired with Miss Pringle and others to blackmail me."

Duneav was the author of the dance act for which Miss Pringle had sought to obtain a booking on the Pantages' vaudeville theater circuit.

Frederick T. Wise, another State witness in the Pantages trial, has sued the theater magnate for $250,000 damages for making alleged false statements connecting him with the asserted blackmail plot.

BANDITS GET $15,000 IN OMAHA BANK RAID

PEDESTRIANS HERDED UP

Omaha, Nebr., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Although employes and customers of the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Benson, a suburb, had identified two police gallery photographs as those of two of the six men who robbed the bank at noon today, police had found no trace of the bandits tonight. Police refused to reveal the names of the men identified.

Descending upon the bank during the noonday rush, the bandits held up five employes and several customers, systematically looted the cash drawers and escaped with approximately $15,000 in currency. They passed up silver and securities.

The first warning of a hold-up came when one of the men fired a bullet into the ceiling. One robber watched the entrance, another with a sawed-off shotgun herded the employes and customers into a corner and three did the looting. The sixth waited outside near their automobile.

Several persons who walked past the bank and saw the hold-up through windows were ordered into the bank by the robber stationed outside. A small boy who attempted to run from a store next to the bank to a police call box two blocks away was stopped by the lookout.

Two shots were fired at employes in the bank when they did not move fast enough to please the robbers and another shot was fired down the street as the bandits sped away in a large automobile.

The car was found late today near the downtown district. A sack, containing $200 in half dollars, was found in the car. Persons living in the neighborhood said they did not notice any one leave the car there.

Dyers' Union Head Held as Fugitive

Ben Abrams, Accused of Being Forger, Declares He Is "Framed."

Chicago, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Ben Abrams, head of the locked out Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers Union, was arrested today when Chicago police said his fingerprints tallied with those of a Cincinnati forger who has been a fugitive from justice for the last three years.

Abrams declared his arrest a "frame-up" as the result of failing to arbitrate with employers who insist on operating their establishments on an open-shop basis. He said he would fight extradition to Ohio and furnished $1,000 bond for his appearance before Judge Joseph F. McCarthy tomorrow.

One of the principal complainants against the union chieftain is S. S. Seligman, manager of a Cincinnati hotel. Seligman says Abrams passed a number of worthless checks there three years ago, and stated that a reward of $2,000 had been posted for his capture.

Abrams admitted he was in the Ohio city at the time of the alleged bad check passing but declared he was innocent of any connection with it.

Alleged Rum Smuggler Arrested in Slayings

Chicago, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Edward John White, accused liquor smuggler sought in connection with the slaying of Richards and Lands, Detroit customs patrol guard, several months ago, was arrested today. He admitted his identity, but denied he had any part in the killing of Sandlands, police said.

White and Mr. and Mrs. John Heath were indicted for the crime. Fred Gardener, a customs official who has been on White's trail since the killing, was notified of the man's arrest and said he would take White back to Detroit.

Train Service Cut As 500 Men Strike

Workers Walk Out as Sympathy Action for Shopmen.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The strike of 500 employes of the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad continued tonight but train service went ahead, although under a delayed schedule.

Failure of the railroad to recognize the shopmen's union brought on the strike last night when trainmen, conductors, firemen, operators and maintenance of way men walked out in sympathy with the shop workers.

The railroad placed new men at work with special agents detailed to guard them and the property against possible violence.

PREACHERS' SCHOOL IS DEDICATED HERE

PROJECT IS SKETCHED

The College of Preachers of Washington Cathedral, America's newest religious institution, was formally dedicated yesterday with impressive ceremonies in the presence of 30 bishops of the American Church; the Right Rev. Frank Theodore Woods, Lord Bishop of Winchester, England; the Right Rev. Frederic Llewellyn Deane, Lord Bishop of Aberdeen and Orkney, relatives of the late Alexander Smith Cochran, donor of the institution, and members of the national committee of the cathedral and other notables.

The new presiding bishop of the church, elected on Wednesday, the Right Rev. Charles P. Anderson, Bishop of Chicago, was represented by his assessor, the Right Rev. Hugh Latimer Burleson, Missionary Bishop of South Dakota.

A special service of dedication was used in every unit of the college, in which the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington Cathedral; the Right Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander, warden of the College of Preachers, and the Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington, participated. The entire structure was then dedicated by Bishop Freeman as a memorial to the late Eva Smith Cochran, mother of the donor. The procession through the College of Preachers of bishops, clergy and the singing of a litany by members of the clergy who had been at some of the college conferences were most picturesque.

Dream Is Realized.

The College of Preachers represents the execution of a plan for such an institution formulated by the late Right Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee, first Bishop of Washington, more than 30 years ago, the practical details of which were worked out by Bishop Rhinelander and the gift for the establishment of which was secured by Bishop Freeman. Bishop Satterlee's daughter, Mrs. Frederick Rhinelander, of New York, was among those present at the dedication service.

The dedicatory address was given by Bishop Freeman, who paid tribute to the dream of Bishop Satterlee which was yesterday brought to fruition and the devotion of Bishop Rhinelander in giving "wholeheartedly om himself to the upbuilding of the most vital interests of this work."

"The age is calling for a vital and vitalizing ministry," continued the bishop. "The modern pulpit is being subjected to new and severe tests, but its place of power and influence is not lessened, nor is its message, when clothed with intelligent zeal and thrilling earnestness, unappealing or unproductive.

"Sheltered beneath the lofty walls of the great cathedral this noble house shall stand, speaking to its chosen sons in bold affirmations of the privileges and joys of a ministry that proclaims a conquering faith and a victorious Savior," he added. The bishop told the other bishops assembled in the refectory of the college where he spoke from a quaint refectory pulpit, that "we give gladly to this ancient church of ours a new spiritual power house, unrestricted and unembarrassed by conceits of party or cult, whose broad aims and policies recognize with Catholic vision, neither geographical or other limitations. To serve the church in the Nation is our selfless desire and our confident expectation."

Project Is Sketched.

Bishop Rhinelander, in his address, sketched the College of Preachers project and stated that in working out the details of the institution he owed a debt of gratitude to the leaders of the Church of England, who had great interest in its development. He expressed his pleasure that the Lord Bishop of Winchester, who is on a tour of this country, had given five days of his time to the College of Preachers conference, which will begin today in the new building.

The Lord Bishop of Winchester in his remarks brought the greeting of the Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, and the former primate of England, the Most Rev. Randall Davidson. Bishop Woods pointed out that while the younger generation is impatient of authority, yet it will listen to persons of deep conviction and experience such as the College of Preachers is sure to develop.

Among the relatives of Alexander Cochran, the donor, who were present yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. Newbold Noyes, the former a niece; a brother, William F. Cochran, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ewing, sr., of Plainville, N. J., brother-in-law and sister of the donor; Miss Ellen Ewing and his nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ewing, jr.

Life Term Is Given Man Who Slew Four With Ax

Spartanburg, S. C., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—T. Earl Robertson, who on August 1 ran amuck with a hand ax and killed four men, today was found guilty of the murder of J. L. Bussey, bookkeeper for the J. W. Bell Grain Co. The verdict carried a recommendation of mercy. The trial lasted less than an hour.

Judge D. S. Murphy sentenced Robertson to life imprisonment, but did not state whether he should be confined in the State prison or at the insane hospital. State hospital authorities have declared Robertson insane.

Rum Smugglers Burn Boat, Flee

Four Men Are Arrested on Lake Erie; Six Others Escape Border Patrol.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—State troopers, working with border patrolmen on the shores of Lake Erie, early today arrested four men, captured a blazing motorboat and confiscated a quantity of Canadian ale.

The Federal and State forces made their first attack at Brant, near Angola, N. Y., where they surprised a group of men unloading a cabin cruiser on the beach. Two men escaped in the boat, but four residents of Buffalo were arrested and 51 cases of ale seized.

The second seizure, near Silver Creek, N. Y., resulted in the burning and sinking of the Gyp, rumrunning cruiser, which had operated along the border for months.

Four men escaped, first having set fire to the craft. Three hundred and seventy-five cases of ale were captured.

Subkoff Arrested on Way To Princess-Wife's Funeral

Flower-Decked Coffin of Victoria, Kaiser's Sister, Is Placed in Catafalque of Cronberg Castle as Husband Is Seized on Variety of Charges.

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The flower-decked coffin of Princess Victoria von Schaumberg-Lippe, sister of the former kaiser, was placed on a catafalque in the chapel of Friedrichshof castle at Cronberg today. The tragi-comedy of her romance with the young Russian dancer, Alexander Subkoff, persisted till the end; for Subkoff was picked up by the Bonn police between Treves and Frankfort on his way to his wife's funeral.

The princess filed a divorce suit against him only ten days ago after having been forced into bankruptcy and obliged to auction off many valuable possessions to pay some of the debts incurred through his extravagances.

Subkoff had been expelled from Germany because of his many escapades. He was arrested for violating an order forbidding his entrance into Prussian territory. He married Princess Victoria, who was 34 years older than he, two years ago.

Princess Victoria, just before her death, refused to see the former kaiser, who had disapproved of her marriage to Subkoff. Her brother telephoned to the hospital from Doorn, Holland, where he is living in exile, and asked if the princess would not like to see him.

Her reply was brief: "No, I don't want to see him."

Subkoff was held in jail tonight on various charges besides the violation of the Prussian order. Many creditors here allege that he obtained money from them under false pretenses, by the use of his wife's name without permission.

Arkansas Women Admit Rum Sales

Seven of 14 Arrested in Clean-Up Campaign Plead Guilty.

Texarkana, Ark., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Seven of the fourteen women arrested on Federal indictments charging liquor law violations entered pleas of guilty late today before Federal Judge Frank A. Youmans and will be sentenced within a few days.

Of the fourteen, seven were white women arrested late last July in a campaign in which enforcement officers said that "Southern chivalry" was dead so far as enforcement of the prohibition law was concerned.

Of the white women, Bernice Little, Mrs. Maggie Parsons and Ruby Farris pleaded guilty to selling liquor.

Marie Youngblood pleaded not guilty, while the other two, Mrs. Ida Halter and Mrs. Eunice, were ill and could not appear for arraignment. The others who pleaded guilty were Negro women.

The fourteen women, together with fifteen men, were indicted today by the grand jury. The men will be arraigned probably tomorrow.

Two Men Confess Part in Murder

Haulage Firm's Guard Is Killed in Strike Outburst.

Cleveland, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Two men were arrested here today in connection with the killing last night of Theodore Knill, 19, truck guard of the E. H. Scott Transportation Co. Police said the men admitted their part in the shooting and that two others implicated would be arrested by tomorrow.

Knill was shot while riding one of the trucks near Painesville, Ohio, when the truck was attacked by four men in a sedan. Harry Snyder, another guard, who was riding in a roadster behind, pursued the gunmen's car and fired several shots at them. Some of the shots struck the automobile and it was found abandoned today.

Police said the shooting was another outbreak by employes of the company who went on strike several weeks ago when their wages were lowered. The Scott company operates a large fleet of trucks between Cleveland, Erie, Pa., and Buffalo, N. Y.

Man Sentenced to Jail For Killing 29 Years Ago

Ashville, Ala., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—John R. Ferguson, who shot a man here 29 years ago, was found guilty today of second degree murder. Sentence of ten years was passed by Presiding Judge A. O. Steele.

Ferguson claimed he killed Will Andrews in self-defense. He said he left the State after the shooting. He was arrested about a month ago in Gadsden, where he went to visit a son who had been injured in a fight.

$1,000,000 Bond Set In Kidnaping Case

Michigan Justice Holds Man Identified by Bootlegger.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14 (A.P.)—Bond of $1,000,000 was set today for the release of Joseph A. Laman at the conclusion of his examination before Roy Coomer, justice of the peace at Wyandotte, on a charge of kidnaping Fred Begeman, retired Wyandotte bootlegger.

Laman, paroled from the Michigan State Prison where he is under sentence for two years for extortion in connection with another case, was released to stand trial on the kidnaping charge, to which he has pleaded not guilty.

Begeman pointed out Laman as one of the men he saw at the Dearborn home of Henry Andrews where he was held prisoner. Begeman was released after $5,000 had been paid to his captors last spring. A second payment of $1,900 was made later.

Laman is the second alleged kidnaper to be held in $1,000,000 bond. The first was James Fernando, who is charged with the kidnaping, September 30, of five-year-old Jackie Thompson.

Bacterial Food Poison Fatal to Young Twins

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—A final examination of the viscera of Delmer and Elmer Reppy, 3-year-old twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reppy, who died suddenly November 3 at Cuba, Mo., disclosed that their deaths were caused by bacterial food poisoning. The particular food was not determined.

Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl, pathologist, who concluded the second examination today, reported to the coroner that the viscera contained no traces of poison other than those indicative of unfit food. A brother and a sister of the twins also became ill, but recovered.

WARRANTS IN FLINT BANK THEFTS NEAR

Papers Expected to Issue Today Against Accused Market Speculators.

JOINT TRIAL TO BE ASKED

Flint, Mich., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Warrants for the arrest of the group of junior executives of the Union Industrial Bank of Flint, who used $3,592,000 of the bank's funds for stock market speculation, are expected to be issued tomorrow.

C. D. Beagle, prosecuting attorney of Genesee County, issued a statement today in which he said: "We are almost ready. Within a short time the warrants will be issued and we will be in a position to disclose the story of these extraordinary defalcations."

Beagle explained the delay in issuing the warrants by saying that he desired to have all available information at hand before taking the step so as to insure that the prosecution, once started, could be carried through to a conclusion.

All the accused employes, he said, will face charges of embezzlement based upon the individual defalcations revealed during the investigation. Should a defendant be freed on one charge another will immediately be placed against him, the prosecutor declared.

"The penalty is the same for the embezzlement of $5,000 as it is for $200,000," Beagle said. "Therefore, if from the facts I find my case seems surer by going into court on the $5,000 incident, the specific charge will so read." The maximum penalty for the charges will be asked. This penalty is twenty years' imprisonment. The prosecutor repeated his announcement that he would seek a joint trial for the men involved.

Workman Killed In Scaffold Fall

Baltimorean Fatally Hurt on Treasury Building Repair Job.

Plunging headlong from a scaffold near the roof of the Treasury Building shortly after noon yesterday, Carlton L. Wright, 36 years old, of Baltimore, Md., was fatally injured. He died half an hour later at Emergency Hospital.

According to police, Wright was securing the scaffold near the roof of the building preparatory to repairing the roof when an end of the support gave way and Wright plunged approximately 70 feet to the northwest courtyard.

Fellow employes summoned an ambulance from Emergency Hospital, where the injured man was taken. Dr. L. G. Lewis, of the hospital staff, treated Wright for a compound fracture of the skull, and fractures of the pelvis and leg.

District Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, when notified of the death, ordered an inquest to be conducted in the District Morgue today at 11:30 o'clock.

Proposed New Income Tax Plan Is Bared by Treasury

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury yesterday made public figures to show how the proposed 1 per cent reduction in normal income tax would affect the average taxpayer.

The figures were based upon the income of a married man with no dependents and treating half of the income of more than $5,000 as earned income.

The schedule prepared by the Treasury showed the income tax now paid, the income tax which will be paid under the new rate and the amount of decrease, as follows:

| Income | Present Tax | New Tax | Decrease |
|---|---|---|---|
| $4,000 | $5.62 | $1.87 | $3.75 |
| 5,000 | 16.87 | 5.62 | 11.25 |
| 6,000 | 30.00 | 10.00 | 20.00 |
| 7,000 | 43.12 | 14.37 | 28.75 |
| 8,000 | 56.25 | 18.75 | 37.50 |
| 9,000 | 69.37 | 23.12 | 46.25 |
| 10,000 | 82.50 | 27.50 | 55.00 |

the House appropriations subcommittee. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, has estimated that something over $3,000,000 should be kept in the Treasury as the minimum amount necessary to keep the District on a cash paying basis. Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, has declared that $3,000,000 is the maximum required for this purpose and this figure could be reduced somewhat if necessary to provide funds for needed public works.

Representative Simmons, however, is not at all certain that this isn't figuring too close. He is inclined to believe that the cash operating fund should be maintained around $4,000,000. If $4,000,000 is to be considered the proper cash operating fund the surplus District moneys in the Treasury automatically are reduced by $1,000,000. This would mean, on the basis of Donovan's figures, that the $48,500,000 estimate of the Commissioners for next year would have to be cut by $1,000,000 to keep within funds. Despite Donovan's tabulations, however, the matter is not quite such simple arithmetic as that because the auditor admits his estimates of probable revenue this year and next are conservative and probably will be exceeded by as much as $1,000,000 in the next two years. This expected discrepancy, however, sounds like much more when expressed in dollars than when expressed in percentage. In terms of percentage such an excess would mean that Donovan has estimated to within approximately 98.5 per cent of the actual revenue receipts for the two years.

On that basis the $48,500,000 budget could be appropriated and still leave in the Treasury $4,000,000 or more as a District cash operating fund.

American Ships Sold To Soviet Government

(Associated Press.)

Thirty American ships, part of the Government's fleet of laid-up steel vessels, soon will ply the seas in the Russian trade, although there has been no change in the Government's policy of nonrecognition of the Soviet regime.

The Shipping Board has announced that it had authorized the sale of 25 ships to Johann G. Ohsol, of New York, who is a director of the Amtorg Trading Co., the American trade representative of the Soviet government. Simultaneously with this announcement it was disclosed that five vessels had been sold to Ohsol last January.

TAX CUT IS HAILED BY CAPITOL GROUPS

QUICK ACTION FORESEEN

rates in addition to the regular schedule.

The Treasury had determined that the Government would conclude the 1929 fiscal year with a surplus and Undersecretary Mills said today it felt the benefit of this should be passed along to the taxpayers. He pointed out that a flexibility permitting reduction of taxes in a year when a surplus of Government funds had accrued would enable the Government in years of plenty to give the taxpayers benefit of the country's prosperity.

Because a cut was made in a year of plenty, Mills said, it would not mean that the lower rate would not continue, but that it would leave the Government in position to determine what rate was necessary for the following year.

The Undersecretary explained that the Government must forecast eighteen months in advance what the financial situation of the Treasury will be at the end of the fiscal year, and that in periods of constant surpluses this could be done, a situation which has existed in this country since the close of the war when taxation has been constantly decreasing. In other periods, he said, the surplus might be a "windfall" from some unexpected source or might be brought about by an unexpected reduction in expenses.

Capitol Hill, however, reacted slowly to the proposition—one that is now in dispute as applied to the tariff rates.

In the House, where the tax reduction resolution must originate, both Chairman Hawley, of the ways and means committee, and Representative Garner, of Texas, ranking Democrat, approved the plan as outlined to congressional leaders Wednesday night by Mellon and Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury. They indicated the resolution would be put before the House early in the regular session beginning December 2.

Over in the Senate, Chairman Smoot of the Senate finance committee and Senators Simmons, of North Carolina, and Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking Democrats, put their stamp of approval on the project.

There were intimations from the Democrats that if the returns on this year's income justified it, they would ask for an even higher reduction than proposed by Mellon, but Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, House Republican leader, countered this by saying the 1 per cent rate would be the limit and any attempt to increase it would be fought.

There was no concealing the surprise occasioned by the program for slashing $160,000,000 off the taxpayers' burden for next year, in view of the many prophecies that the recent collapse of stock prices has wiped out many profits and would probably result in many taxpayers reporting losses on capital-stock investments. However, Mellon said this condition had been taken into account in the formulation of the tax-revision scheme. He said the possibility that many had suffered losses in stock prices had been realized, but he reiterated that the Treasury had confidence that the prosperity of the country would continue.

The Western Republican independents in the Senate always have contended for applying the surpluses to reduction of the national debt, consequently there was little enthusiasm for any additional tax cut among this group, although it was indicated no serious obstacle would be thrown in the way of the proposed resolution by this faction.

Democrats recalled that two years ago they proposed a greater reduction in the corporation tax than was then allowed. Senators Simmons and Harrison expressed gratification that Mellon had come to their position. They likewise approved his proposition to add the individual income-tax payers to those getting a cut.

side, although he said he did not consider that any of his colleagues had run out on him. It was a case of his having "assumed" too much, he said.

When he made the agreement with Senator Simmons, he said, "I thought I had reason to believe" that the Republican regulars would support the resolution.

Senator Simmons brought out the details of the agreement some time after the defeat of the resolution "in justice to myself," he said. Jones agreed to his statement of it and Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, proceeded to attribute the "double dealing" to the socalled "young Turks" on the Republican side.

"There was no double-crossing or double-dealing on this side," he said angrily, insisting that the "Young Turks" had thrown down their leader. "They first threw down the chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee," he said, referring to the recent movement among some of the new Republican senators to displace Senator George Moses. "Now they throw down their leader."

Their action was born of a "lack of courage," Harrison declared, adding that they were "afraid to go back home for a week and face their constituents."

Copeland declared that "if we had 30 cents worth of courage we would vote to adjourn." He offered another resolution providing, in effect, for adjournment Saturday, but Senator Blaine had to make another speech and it could not be acted upon. Copeland gave notice that he would call it up at 11 o'clock today.

Those Who "Ran Out"

The regulars who "ran out" were Deneen, Fess, Gillett, Glen, Goff, Hastings, Hatfield, Hebert, Kean, McCullock, Metcalf, Patterson, Oddie, Robinson, of Indiana; Shortridge, Smoot, Stelwer, Townsend, Vandenberg, Walcott and Waterman.

In addition, Capper, Allen and Sackett also voted against adjournment.

Half of the first group are old guard senators, usually fearless of the consequences on a question of voting with the leader, and the remainder are first-term senators who have shown insurgency tendencies on several occasions. Senator Vandenberg is the most aggressive of them and has sort of come to be looked upon as the leader. Vandenberg has none of the usual shyness of the new senator. As a mater of fact, most of his insurgency is born of the feeling that he is not getting proper recognition.

Whether it was a case of these senators deliberately walking out on Jones yesterday or whether the assistant leader really did not know the mood of those he is leading, as might be gathered from his explanation, is not known.

Corridor gossip was inclined to blame it all on the "Young Turks" because, being first termers they do not have to be so concerned about how their constituents would take the adjournment if they give it any notice at all. And, in this connection, the hand of Vandenberg was seen at work. Whether he was accused justly or unjustly, he did seem to be getting a lot of satisfaction out of the Democrats' surprise.

It should not be overlooked, though, that Fess was among those voting against the resolution and he is supposed to be a whip or Republican leader of some kind.

Robinson Defends Insurgents.

Senator Robinson, just back from a brief visit to his State, defended the "Young Turks" against Harrison's attack, asserting that they should be commended for wanting to stay on the job and that the older senators should take a lesson from them.

The progressives who voted against adjournment were Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Couzens, Cutting, Frazier, Howell, Johnson, LaFollette, McMaster, Norbeck, Norris, Schall and Thomas, of Idaho.

Democrats voting against were Blease, Caraway, Copeland, Dill, Glass, McKellar, Sheppard, Steck, Swanson, Thomas of Oklahoma, Trammell and Wheeler.

Blease and Copeland voted against the resolution because they wanted to adjourn immediately without waiting until Saturday as the resolution provided.

Those voting for the resolution were: Democrats — Barkley, Black, Bratton, Brock, Broussard, Connally, Fletcher, George, Harris, Harrison, Hawes, Hayden, Heflin, Kendrick, Pittman, Ransdell, Simmons, Smith, Stephens, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh of Massachusetts and Walsh of Montana.

Republicans—Bingham, Dale, Edge, Greene, Hale, Jories, Keyes, McNary, Moses, Phipps and Reed.

There was a right dramatic moment after the vote when Harrison accused the Republicans of double dealing. Smoot, visibly worn out, admitted that he would like to have a week's rest and agreed that the bill could not be passed before the regular session. He had voted against the adjournment resolution, he exclaimed, because as chairman of the finance committee he did not want to be pleading off. And inasmuch as the resolution had failed he was willing to stay on the job "until I drop in my tracks."

"All I want to do is to pass the bill," he exclaimed. "I have not criticized any senator for anything. I've told the coalition to go ahead and pass the bill, anything—just do something. That's all I want."

this time, and President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, was asked to appoint immediately a committee of three to conduct the campaign.

The resolution adopted concluded with a call upon the authorities of North Carolina immediately to bring to justice those responsible for bloodshed in strike disorders in the State.

Difficulties confronting the labor leaders in the Southern organizing were outlined at length by President Green.

"We will be classified as agitators come South to disturb the peaceful relations now existing between employers and employes," he said.

"The opposition will come to us from leaders in the church, in business and in the professions as well as from mill owners. But they are not all against us. There are some mill owners, I am sure, who would gladly join with us in remedying the inhuman conditions that now exist."

Labor Leaders Planning Unionization of South

(Associated Press.)

Formulation of a program for unionization of Southern workers regardless of trade or craft was undertaken yesterday by a group of representative labor leaders of the country.

After a meeting at which Southern labor officials and representatives of national and international unions presented their views of present conditions in the Southeastern States and their suggestions on ways and means of accomplishing their organization, a committee headed by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, undertook the task of drawing up a plan of action.

With Woll on the drafting committee were McMahon, of the Textile Union; Arthur Huddell, of the Steam Operatives and Engineers; William D. Mahon, president, Amalgamated Street Railway Employes; Gertrude McNally, secretary, National Federation of Federal Employes; David Dubinsky, president, Ladies Garment Workers International, and A. O. Wharton, president of the International Association of Machinists.

The Southern unionization program was authorized by the October convention in Toronto of the American Federation.

Press Confidence Protected in Bill

Capper Presents Measure to Safeguard Rights of Reporters.

Newspaper reporters could not be compelled to reveal the sources of their information when hailed before local courts or congressional committees if a bill introduced yesterday by Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, becomes law.

Senator Capper, who is chairman of the Senate District committee, began drafting the bill after three Washington Times reporters had been jailed for refusing to tell how they obtained information for a list of bootleggers and speak-easies that they submitted to the grand jury. Capper's bill reads as follows:

"That in proceedings in any court of the District of Columbia or before either house of Congress or any committee thereof, or any joint committee of the Congress, no reporter, editor or publisher connected with any newspaper published in the District of Columbia shall be compelled to disclose the source of any information confidential in its nature, obtained by him for publication in such newspaper."

William Lee Moffatt, a Washington investment broker, is scheduled to face trial Monday before Justice Will-Hits in District Supreme Court on two indictments charging false pretense. The indictments were returned in February, 1928.

Moffatt is charged with having agreed to buy certain stocks for Marie T. Pauli and Christian Stoll for specified sums and to have converted the money to his own use.

CHALLENGE TO DUEL HALTS MURDER TRIAL

HOT WORDS EXCHANGED

Mexico City, Nov. 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The trial of Bernice Rush, American woman charged here with the murder of her sweetheart, Jenaro Benavente, was suddenly halted today when Jose Antonio Reyes, her lawyer, challenged Public Prosecutor Rivera Vazquez to a duel and followed this up by declining to take any further part in the proceedings.

Taking offense at disparaging references to him by Vazquez, the counsel for the defense handed the public prosecutor his card, the act by which a challenge to a duel is given in Mexico.

Vazquez twirled the card reflectively in his fingers for a moment, then curtly continued his examination of the witness on the stand. He declined later to say whether he would accept the challenge or not.

The row between the lawyers had its origin in a question which Reyes, who is a Colombian, caustically put to the American defendant in the closing moments of yesterday's session.

"Don't Mexican men exploit women?" he asked.

The judge stiffened, the jury sat up straight and the spectators muttered imprecations. Vazquez exploded. After he had waved the flag awhile, Judge Garza intervened and declared that the trial must be conducted in an orderly manner. He called the attention of the disputants to the presence in the courtroom of correspondents of foreign newspapers.

Reyes withdrew his offending question.

At today's session Vazquez came back at Reyes. In the course of his examination of a witness he twice referred to the counsel for the defense as "Nepomuceno Reyes," an insulting term difficult of translation. With repetition of the affront Reyes, without a word, strode over to the public prosecutor and dropped his visiting card into Vazquez's hand, and thetrial was halted in confusion.

Mrs. Miller's husbands were classmates at the United States Military Academy at West Point, graduating in 1879, and her first husband was for eight years superintendent of the Military Academy. Mrs. Miller's second husband served 46 years on the active Army list, including a period overseas during the World War.

Mrs. Miller was president of the Ladies Auxiliary of St. John's Episcopal Church for five years; a director of the House of Mercy; an active worker in the St. Monica League; former president of the Army and Navy League, and a founder of the Army Relief Society, which she served as president and secretary at various times.

She is survived by her husband, two children, Maj. Chester P. Mills, retired, former prohibition administrator of New York, and Mrs. George W. Graham, wife of Maj. Graham, of the Ordnance Department, stationed here; and three grandchildren, Miss Betty Laurson, daughter of Mrs. Graham and her first husband, Lieut. Col. E. P. Laurson, killed in the World War; Miss Lynda Mills and Marshall Mills. Maj. Mills was the winner of the $25,000 prize offered by W. C. Durant for the best method of enforcing prohibition. One brother, Bishop Robert Paddock, also survives.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in St. John's Church and the remains will then be taken to West Point, N. Y., accompanied by the members of the immediate family. Burial will take place tomorrow.

JAPAN NAVY REPORT MEETS SILENCE HERE

American tendency to reject the Japanese ratio claims, arousing editorial criticism, which also appeared to be cropping out in some official circles.

While it was officially denied that they were meeting in connection with the receipt of unfavorable reports from Washington and London, it was noteworthy that Premier Hamaguchi, Foreign Minister Shidehara, Kyo Takarabe, of the admiralty and other advisers were closeted this afternoon discussing the prospects of the London naval conference.

An unconfirmed report which the afternoon papers published was to the effect that while Great Britain was prepared to agree to Japan's desire for a 70 per cent 8-inch gun cruiser ratio toward Great Britain, Japan would have to be content with a 60 per cent ratio toward the United States.

BROOKHART ASSAILS LAXITY OF CONGRESS

Senator Claims Legislators Are to Blame for Ills in Washington.

FLAYS SMITH COMPANY

Congress has failed utterly in its task of governing the National Capital, Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, told the Senate yesterday. If crime is flourishing here, he said, if officials are corrupt and inefficient, then the blame belongs to Congress, which is Washington's City Council.

The result of this "miserably poor example," Brookhart said, is that the Federal Government itself is fast falling into disrepute.

The Iowan turned on Congress after he had taken another oratorical crack at the F. H. Smith Co. He charged that this concern had secretly removed from its office last May twenty trunkloads of papers and documents that were wanted by the grand jury. These, he said, were concealed on a nearby Maryland farm until after the grand jury's proceedings were over.

Asks Contempt Action.

He said this was one of the "most outstanding instances of the defiance of a Federal court" that he had ever heard of, and he demanded that Samuel J. Henry, the president, and other officers who took part in the hiding of the documents, be cited for contempt.

In his remarks about the District of Columbia and the administration of its laws by Congress, Brookhart said:

"Our District of Columbia, governed as it is by the Congress, sets such a miserably poor example for the rest of the country that it should be no matter of wonder at all that the Federal Government is fast falling into disrepute throughout the States of the entire Nation.

"As fogs and vapor frequently roll over this small territory from the waters of the Potomac and hide the beauty of its countless buildings of marble and granite from the light of the sun, so do the vapors and fogs of crime and corruption, of dishonesty and of vicious greed, continually render more and more obscure the honorable, efficient and wholly sincere private and public conduct of the great and honest majority of the citizens and the officials of the District.

Bad Effect on Young.

"How can we expect the youth of the Nation—the young men and women now being educated in its schools and colleges—to commence their respective personal or official careers in anything like the right attitude of heart and of mind when they are continuously and correctly taught throughout the formative period, by the newspapers and magazines of the country, that the very source of the stream of government is foul with dishonesty and corruption?

"Today, as perhaps never before, the eyes of the entire country are fixed upon the National Capital. Those earnest persons throughout the Nation who have a sincere desire for a decent and honest administration of the country's laws are appalled and bewildered at the failure of the Congress to properly govern this small territory that is in its trust and charge.

"The failure of the officers of this Government to properly and adequately enforce its laws throughout the Nation has become, as President Hoover suggests, a matter of great concern.

Smith Papers Returned.

"But the utter failure of the Congress to properly govern the District of Columbia is a matter for even greater concern, because, if crim can continuously increase and flourish here at the very seat of Government itself, what can be expected as to the rest of the Nation?

"If the Congress, with all of the power at its command, can not lash the criminal away from the execution of his crime almost within the shadow of this building, how can we hope that distant officials, with comparatively inferior power and less equipment, can succeed in holding their respective trenches against the force and strategy of the armies of crime?"

Brookhart said that the F. H. Smith Co. removed the aforementioned papers and documents from its offices here last May. Then, he said, the grand jury was told that they were not available.

The farm where the documents were hidden, the Iowan said, was located between Glen Echo and Great Falls, and was owned by a man named Porter. They were brought back to the city, he said, after the grand jury had terminated its proceedings.

Court Gives Mrs. Hardinge Major Custody of Boys

Mrs. Franklin Hardinge and her boys, who must live nine months yearly with her and three months with their grandparents.

Ruling May Be Altered as Lawyers Seek New Verdict.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Norman and Troy Weems, jr., were given two homes today—one in Chicago with their mother, Mrs. Franklin Hardinge, for nine months, and another with their grandparents, for three months each year—but tonight attorneys demanded an altered verdict and Domestic Relations Judge H. B. Webster announced he would hand down an amended opinion tomorrow.

Mrs. Hardinge, wife of a Chicago manufacturer, sued for a writ to take the 6 and 8-year-old boys from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weems, parents of her divorced husband, Sergt. Troy Weems.

The judge held both she and the Weems had shown affection for the boys and that, despite "indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Hardinge and her divorced husband, she was entitled to prior custody." His decision, unless materially amended, will cause them to live during the fall, winter and spring in what their mother called a "sumptuous" home, and in the summer on the small farm of their grandparents.

Judge Webster held that the father, Sergt. Troy Weems, of Fort Benning, Ga., in his testimony had waived his rights as a parent in favor of the grandparents, that a mother's claims took priority to grandparents, and that the father had made no offer to provide a home for the boys.

The decision brought to an end litigation that has been pending in domestic relations courts for several weeks, during which charges and counter-charges were made. Mrs. Hardinge, during her testimony, admitted marrying Hardinge before she had obtained a divorce, but declared that she had not lived with him until after the decree had been granted and a second ceremony was performed.

WOMAN WITNESS DISPUTES ALLEN "MAN ON ROOF" STORY

opened wide, while the subdued voices of the two men still were heard, although the woman's voice was silent.

"Did you get that?" Mrs. Heavrin heard a man ask, and a masculine voice replied, "Yes." Then there was a brief silence, broken by the sound of a high-powered motor being started and an automobile driving away. That, she testified, was at 4 o'clock in the morning, approximately Another Tells of Sobs.

Another witness who told of a woman crying and sobbing shortly after 2 o'clock that morning was Mrs. William Brown, dainty and attractive young brunette who lives in the Lombardy, next door to the Park Lane. Mrs. Brown is understood to have told the grand jury yesterday that she awoke on the morning of September 13, between 2 and 3 o'clock, and heard the sound of a woman crying in an apartment in the Park Lane.

The crying, she said, "suddenly changed to a coughing or choking; I couldn't swear which." Then the noise ceased to be audible and she dropped off to sleep, Mrs. Brown told the jury. Brown also appeared before the grand jury and is understood to have told the body that an argument between himself and his wife, which had been suggested as the possible source of the noises heard by others in the Park Lane and Lombardy, took place considerably earlier than the time of the crying heard by Mrs. Brown, and that although her voice might have been raised in the argument, Mrs. Brown did not scream nor did any other unusual noises accompany their discussion.

The first witness heard yesterday was Howard Templeton, young soda clerk in the Park Lane Pharmacy and schoolmate of Virginia Hurley McPherson during their childhood at China Grove, N. C., who was recalled again after having testified Wednesday. Templeton is understood to have been questioned with regard to Mrs. McPherson's disposition, and particularly as to her spirits on the night of September 12, when he delivered an order to her from the drug store. At that time, he has stated, she appeared particularly happy and told him of plans to attend a dance that evening with her estranged husband. The only indication of anything other than happiness, he is understood to have said, was the natural regret with which she told him she had been unsuccessful in an attempt to get Templeton a better job than that in the drug store.

Allen Heard at Last.

Allen, whose insistence that Mrs. McPherson had been murdered and that the police had deliberately perverted evidence in advancing the suicide theory, was an important factor in bringing about the first grand jury hearing, was heard by the grand jury yesterday after he had been kept waiting in the corridor for the past two days. After an hour and two minutes in the jury room, Allen stated that he had been granted ample opportunity to tell "all he knew." He declared an unshakable confidence that the present investigation will result in a new indictment of McPherson.

According to Allen's story, which was contradicted definitely for the first time yesterday, when Mrs. Heavrin denied its possibility, he and Policeman Robert Botts were passing the Park Lane shortly after 2 o'clock in the morning of September 13, when he saw a man emerge from the bedroom window of Virginia McPherson's apartment and run along the low roof. Leaving Botts to watch the front, Allen said, he ran to the rear of the apartment, but the man had disappeared. Botts has said he was unable to recall the incident.

James Mills, colored janitor of the Lombardy, also was called yesterday and questioned with regard to screams he heard during the night of the tragedy, but which he was unable to trace to their source. Elliott H. Thompson, employed at the bank where McPherson was a bookkeeper, who in his supplemental capacity as a minister, married the McPhersons, was another witness yesterday.

Shelby Not Called In.

Inspector William S. Shelby, formerly head of the Detective Bureau, and Joseph H. Lewark, conductor on a Georgia avenue street car, were present yesterday in answer to subpenas, but were not called into the jury room.

The present grand jury investigation was placed under way upon motion of Special Prosecutor John E. Laskey, after an attack was made on the legality of the indictment returned against McPherson on October 14 by the July grand jury. That indictment was declared void because of the presence on the grand jury of Mrs. Dolores Marimon, who, as widow of a former naval officer, was a Government pensioner, and therefore not qualified to serve.

At the present rate, this new grand jury investigation probably will last another ten days. Of more than 100 witnesses known to be scheduled to be heard, the grand jury has already disposed of 27 in three days. The exact number of witnesses to be heard can not be foretold, but it is believed that there are still approximately 100 whom the inquisitorial body has indicated it desires brought before it.

ARLINGTON ASSURED FULL POLICE FORCE

Rosslyn to Have Full-Time Officer by January 1 in Reorganization.

COUNTY BOARD MEETS

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 809 Clarendon, Va.

Following an executive conference with Judge Howard W. Smith of the Circuit Court of Arlington County, yesterday, Chairman Edward Duncan, of the county board of supervisors, announced that there will be no reduction or change in the county police force at this time.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields later stated that it is proposed to have a reorganization of the force, effective January 1, which will provide for a full-time officer stationed at Rosslyn and another at Clarendon. Sheriff Fields stated that the business interests in both sections have agreed to share in the payment of the salary of any officer in these two sections.

This announcement dispels all danger of any reduction of the force which was met with such determined opposition by every civic organization in the county.

The county board of supervisors, at its meeting held at the county courthouse, received a check for $600 as part payment of the note of $3,000 from the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, the balance due of its share of $5,000, to aid in the zoning of Arlington County. On motion of Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, the board accepted the total of $3,600 paid by the Chamber of Commerce and cancelled the remaining $1,400.

In making the motion, Supervisor Hedrick stated that the board of supervisors had agreed to share the expense of zoning the county with the Chamber of Commerce.

Appearing before the board, Mrs. Florence E. Cannon presented the petition of the Arlington County Civic Federation asking that a permit be granted the Sun Oil Co. to construct an oil storage plant along the Lee highway extending to the Potomac River over Meckey's Hill be revoked. The petition was refused.

Supervisor Hedrick stated that the board has no power to act. The only relief can now come from the courts, he said.

In view of the fact that the company is planning to transport all of their product by water, Mrs. Cannon informed the board that a number of organizations in Washington are now planning to request the Secretary of War to refuse to grant a permit to the company for the use of the waterfront for the construction of wharves.

The board provided for the installation of additional street lights along Mackey's Hill, Memorial drive, from Glebe road to Mullhall station.

Discussing the street-light situation, the board instructed the clerk to write to the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants Association of Clarendon, and to the merchants in other business sections of the county, informing them that if the business men will furnish ornamental poles and high-powered lights the county will bear expense of current.

It is understood that the Virginia Public Service Corporation is willing to install the poles provided they are furnished either by the county or business interests.

The board will meet again today.

Miss Florence Fox, of the United States Bureau of Education, is announced as the principal speaker at the joint meeting of the Woman's Clubs of Lyon Village, Lyon Park and Ashton Heights, to be held tonight in the Lyon Park Community Hall. The program will also include a number of musical selections by pupils of Henry Clay School.

Contingent upon the proper numbering of houses in Waverly Hills section, and from Maryland avenue to Cherry Valley avenue, south of Garrison road, announcement was made at the Clarendon Postoffice yesterday that the carrier service was to be extended in these sections. In addition to the proper numbering of the house the Postoffice Department requires the installation of proper mail boxes.

It was learned from the Clarendon office last night that County Engineer C. L. Kinnier has assured the distribution of proper house numbers today.

Announcement was made last night that Miss Sadie Gibson, former soloist at the Clarendon Baptist Church, has accepted a position as soloist of the Georgetown Presbyterian Church in Washington. Miss Gibson, who is a resident of Lyon Village, is one of the teachers at the George Mason High School.

The Arlington Rotary Club held its weekly meeting yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club with Dr. R. N. Sutton presiding. The club service committee, of which A. F. Thelander is chairman, had charge of the program. The members discussed duties of the service committee in accordance with the club's activities. The club took under consideration the proposal to offer a silver cup to the best-drilled company of the cadet corps of the Washington and Lee High School for the year.

Mrs. John S. Sowers was reelected president of the Woman's Missionary Society, of the Del Ray Baptist Church, at the meeting held in the Sunday schoolrooms last night. Other officers are: Mrs. J. M. Rideout, vice president; Miss Pauline Jennings, secretary, and Mrs. E. M. Johnson, treasurer.

Reports of the recent convention held at Bristol, Va., were submitted by Mrs. Ernest Evans, Mrs. William Lewis and Mrs. Norman Scripture, delegates from the society to the convention.

A pageant entitled, "Money Will Talk," was presented by members of group 8, which had charge of entertainment following the election.

The cast included Mrs. Mary Douglas, Mrs. Mary Baker, Miss Claudia Ealford, Miss Elaine Burke, Miss Vivian Haislip, Miss Regina McCaulay, Miss Eleanor Hedrick and Miss Virginia Hitt. The pageant was presented under the direction of Mrs. B. F. Skinner.

Plans for the annual banquet to be given by the Arlington County Monarch Club, Thursday night, November 21, at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse were discussed at the weekly luncheon meeting held yesterday at the Boulevard Bakery, at Clarendon. Herbert Cohen is chairman in charge of the arrangements.

C. H. Snider, charged with violation of the prohibition law, was given one month in the county jail and a fine of $97.50 by a jury in the Circuit Court of Arlington County yesterday. The jail sentence was suspended by Judge Howard W. Smith.

Mack Jones, facing a jury on a similar charge, drew a sentence of 90 days in the county jail in addition to a fine of $147.50 including costs.

A tract of land containing 197 acres, known as the Henderson tract, located along the route of the proposed 200-foot Lee boulevard, was sold yesterday for the sum of $362,024.96 under a deed of trust to Frank J. Simonton, of Washington. This tract does not include the 15 acres which have been deeded to the National Boulevard Association as a park site in connection with the construction of the Lee boulevard.

The Capitol Choristors, under the direction of Mrs. Henry Hunt McKee, will give its first program in the auditorium of the George Mason High School for the benefit of the athletic association Friday night, November 22, and not tonight as previously announced.

The sixth annual Masonic banquet and ladies' night will be given under the auspices of District No. 54 in the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall the night of December 7, according to an announcement last night. Members planning to attend are requested to make reservations on or before Thursday night, December 5.

With the closing of the County Clerk's office last night at 9 o'clock, records show that a total of 976 hunting licenses have been issued to date. They were divided as follows: County, 236; State, 712; non residents, 28; total of 974.

Mrs. Nat Hynes, was elected president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Henry Clay School at Lyon Park at the meeting held at the schoolhouse last night. Other officers elected were: Joseph J. White, first vice president; Mrs. A. T. Rowell, second vice president; Mrs. Norman E. Sims, secretary; Mrs. J. Fox, treasurer; and D. O. Throgmorton, marshal. The Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, pastor of the Clarendon Baptist Church, spoke on "Cooperation Between the Parent and Teacher."

ROVER GETS CRAVAT OF SLAIN DETECTIVE

Scrivener's Revolver Is Also Given Prosecutor as He Plans Investigation.

SEES WITNESSES MONDAY

District Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday received the revolver and necktie of Detective Sergt. Arthur Scrivener, who was found dead in an alley near his home in Georgetown during 1926.

The Scrivener case has been one of the mysteries of the Metropolitan Police Department. The necktie was gripped in his hand and his revolver was lying nearby when the body of the policeman was found.

After an investigation by the police, Scrivener was held to be a suicide, but subsequently the coroner's jury returned an open verdict.

Aroused by the statement of John L. Gibson, former policeman, that Scrivener was slain by a man still on the police force, District Attorney Rover announced early this week that he would place the case before the grand jury following the McPherson investigation. In the meantime, he stated, he would interview all persons having any evidence concerning the death of Scrivener.

On next Monday, Rover is to interview several such witnesses, but the case will not likely be presented to the grand jury for some time.

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

LITTLE GIRL KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Fairfax County Teachers Ask for Better Schools of Governor-Elect.

OLD TAVERN TO BE REOPE

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 243, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

Vera Delinger, 8-year-old daughter of Sergt. and Mrs. Delinger, of Fort Humphreys, Va., was instantly killed about 6 o'clock yesterday morning when she was thrown from an automobile driven by her father. The accident occurred near Pohick Creek, about a mile south of Pohick Church, in this county.

Sergt. Delinger was on his way with his family to visit relatives in North Carolina. They had driven about 6 miles, a dense fog hanging over the road, when a car parked on the edge of the highway suddenly loomed in front.

Sergt. Delinger tried to swerve his car to one side but sideswiped the parked car and was overturned on the slippery highway.

The child was thrown head-first against the corner of the door of her father's car and then to the concrete highway. All the other occupants were thrown from the car, but none of them was injured. The child was dead when picked up by her father, but was rushed to the Fort Humphreys Hospital.

The parked car was occupied by Arthur Thomas and wife, colored, of Baltimore. The fog was so dense that they had stopped their car and were waiting until it lifted before proceeding on their journey. Their car was only slightly damaged in the accident, but the Delinger car was wrecked.

Coroner C. A. Ransome, of Falls Church, was notified, and after an investigation, a certificate of accidental death was issued. Vera is survived by her father, mother, a brother and sister.

Capt. Haywood Durrer and A. W. Mills, Fairfax County traffic officers, investigated the accident.

The hunting season for rabbits and birds, in this county and northern Virginia, opened this morning, a half hour before sunrise. The number of hunting licenses issued this year is much larger than those of previous years. Deputy County Clerk E. R. Holbrook and his assistant, James Wiley, have issued 222 county licenses, 64 State licenses, and about 8 nonresident licenses in the last two days.

In this State, it is unlawful to hunt with a gun a half hour before sunrise and a half hour after sunset. The written permission from property owners must be attained before a person can hunt on their lands. Hunting licenses must be carried on the person, and the badge worn so that it is visible at all times when a person is hunting.

Coon and possum hunters are preparing for their favorite sport. Fox hunters have been busy for the past two weeks, with a chase almost every day.

It is also brought to hunters' attention that hunting with a gun within 100 yards of a highway, or homes, is prohibited by State law.

The Fairfax County Teachers' Association held a meeting last night in the Madison School in Falls Church. Miss Dorothy Otley presided.

The meeting was opened with an invocation by the Rev. George B. Connor, pastor of the Falls Church Methodist Church. A solo was rendered by Miss Louisa Wright. Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson gave a short talk, followed by a solo by Talbot Haslett.

The constitution was read and adopted.

Delegates to represent the association at the State convention in Richmond Thanksgiving week were selected. Principals Miss Dorothy Otley, of Clifton; high schools, N. H. Nipe, of Oakton; grade schools, Miss Ethel Jeffries, of Fairfax; primary, Mrs. Julia Riedel, of Lee-Jackson.

The teachers then adopted the recommendation of the executive committee for a petition to the next meeting of the county school board asking that teachers be granted five days' sick leave with full pay, the board paying the substitute teacher.

A resolution was adopted asking Governor-elect John Garland Pollard to take as much interest in the schools of the State as did Gov. H. F. Byrd for State roads. The secretary was instructed to send similar letters to county superintendents of schools in each county, asking that they take this matter up with their teachers' associations, and that a similar letter be sent the governor-elect from teachers of each county in the State. They congratulated the governor-elect on his election and stated that as he was a former school teacher they felt that he would be interested in the advancement of the educational system.

A motion was passed requesting each teacher to write a letter to their State senator and representative asking them to use their influence in liberalizing the teachers' retirement law.

The president appointed a committee to investigate Shakespearian plays to be given by the teachers, or any project whereby the association might raise funds for the advancement of their work. This committee consists of Miss Elaine Pollin, of McLean, as chairman; Miss Marjorie Snyder, and another member to be selected by Miss Pollin.

Superintendent Woodson promised the teachers that he would try to give them their salary for this month before the Thanksgiving holidays, and in the future they would be paid before he received their reports, but he emphasized the fact that because of this they should be more prompt in sending their monthly repotrs to his office, and if they were unable to work the full month, the lost days would be taken out of their next month's salary.

The next meeting of the association will be held the second week in January, at which time the delegates to the State convention will make their reports.

The Harmony Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star will hold a bridge and 500 party tonight in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Miles, at Oakton.

The Old Fairfax Tavern dining room will be opened tomorrow night by Mrs. Carey W. Darr. The Tavern, which is an old landmark in Fairfax and which has been closed since early last spring, has now been redecorated and attractively fixed over into a dining room.

The Mount Vernon Grange will hold a meeting tonight in the Sherwood Hall. There will be an annual election of officers and the final plans for a harvest supper will be made. This supper will be held by the Grange at Sherwood Hall Friday November 22.

The Ladies Guild of the Presbyterian Church at Idylwood will serve a dinner this evening in the church.

Mrs. Leonard Sensome will be in charge of the arrangements. A bazaar will also be held at the same time. Mrs. Talbott Walker will be in charge. The money thus raised will be used to redecorate the interior of the church.

The Fairfax Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy are planning to hold a benefit entertainment in the near future to assist President ohn Rust, of the Bull Run Confederate Battle Field Park Association, in raising funds for the Henry estate. Mrs. E. S. Warning, Mrs. Roland Blake, Mrs. L. B. Eaton, Miss Virginia Eaton, Miss Virginia Allison and Miss Lillian Millian are members of the committee on arrangements.

Protest against the nomination of Alf Oftedal, former assistant prohibition commissioner, as collector of internal revenue at San Francisco, was made to the Senate finance committee yesterday by Senator Johnson, of California, and representatives of labor.

Church Will Mark Semicentennial

Former Pastors to Gather at Danville Sunday for Golden Anniversary.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 14.—Calvary Methodist Church, which was organized 50 years ago today, will observe its golden anniversary with special services next Sunday. All of the ministers now living who have served the congregation will be present for the services.

The church was organized with 47 members, all of whom belonged to another church, but who decided to build a house of worship in North Danville, nearer their homes. Only 9 of the 47 are now living, according to Herbert Martin, church historian. Two of the original board of stewards survive and both will be present.

Ministers who will take part in the Sunday services are the Rev. W. T. Green, of Petersburg; the Rev. George F. Greene, of Richmond; the Rev. H. W. Davis, of Farmville; the Rev. James H. Moss, of Richmond; the Rev. Charles T. Thrift, of Rosemary, N. C.; the Rev. Joseph T. Allen, of Salisbury, Md.; the Rev. Joseph F. Gresham, of Norfolk, and the Rev. John L. Bray, the present minister.

Each of the ministers will speak during the services and the Holy Communion will be administered. The congregation today numbers 55.

Town of Potomac Loses A.A.A. Fight

Motorist Member Wins an Appeal From Fine of Mayor.

The American Automobile Association has won another fight with the town of Potomac, Va., in the interest of motorists. Judge Howard Smith held in the Arlington County Circuit Court of Appeals that the village constable and his aids have no authority to make arrests outside Potomac for violation of town ordinances.

The ruling was made in the case of Joseph C. Manian, of 621 Nineteenth street northwest, who was fined by the Mayor of Potomac for speeding on the Alexandria-Washington pike outside of the town. The arrest was made by village police. Manian's case was conducted by Charles C. Collins, attorney for the A. A. A.

Previously the A. A. A. had compelled the town to pay court costs for acquittals equal to those for convictions so that the presiding magistrate would not be influenced against the person under arrest.

Capital Employment Termed Satisfactory

Employment conditions in Washington are satisfactory, with indications pointing to even better conditions during the holiday season, according to the monthly Industrial Information Bulletin issued by the Department of Labor. The bulletin says in part:

"Satisfactory operations were reported in the miscellaneous industrial establishments of this city, with usual forces employed in most instances. While there was a slight curtailment of forces in several retail establishments, a seasonal increase in the demand for this class of help is expected during November in preparation for the holiday trade. A large number of skilled and unskilled workers continued to be employed on the various Federal and private building projects in the course of erection. Some difficulty was experienced in securing a sufficient number of competent white domestic servants."

Crash Injuries Fatal To Postoffice Employe

Samuel A. Moreland, 75-year-old employe of the city postoffice, died early last night at Emergency Hospital as a result of injuries received Wednesday evening when he was struck by a street car at Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue.

Moreland suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries. He was picked up and hurried to the hospital. Physicians there declared that the man was fatally injured. He never regained consciousness.

MOTHER'S DAY HELD AT G. W. UNIVERSITY

President Marvin Suggests That Parents Cooperate in Youths' Training.

WOMAN TRUSTEE TALKS

"A university, no matter how great nor how powerful it may be, can not graft a $50,000 education onto a '50-cent' boy or girl," Dr. Cloyd Hook Marvin, president of the George Washington University, told mothers of freshman girls attending school with their daughters yesterday upon the occasion of the university's annual mothers' day.

"Boys and girls are very representative of what mothers and fathers are," Dr. Marvin declared. "The time to raise a child is twenty years before it is born," he asserted. "The life stream is constant, and if your lives are true and faithful, so will your sons and daughters' lives be true. We can not train sons and daughters apart from mothers and fathers. You are a part of us, of the great scheme of education. The thing that is all important is that you carry in your hearts the true idea of the meaning of education."

"There are several types of parents who come to the university," Dr. Marvin said. "There is the ambitious parent, the one who somewhat misses the point of education. This parent says, 'I want Johnnie to come to the university and learn so that he won't have to work as hard as I have had to work in life.' To this parent my only answer is that the university is not the place for him. Unless a boy or girl can come here and learn to work harder and to greater social purpose than he could learn elsewhere during the four years he would spend in college, he has no place here. College is the place where one prepares one's self for superior effort.

Second Type Described.

"There is the type of parent who wants to use the university as a stopgap in life, a sort of nursery school for sons and daughters pending the time when they can take their places in the economic and social life of the world. To this parent I say, 'You do not want a college, you want a country club. Your son or daughter would have a great deal more fun there and would come out better in the end, for at least he would learn to play golf and tennis well.'

"But there is another kind of parent who gives me courage. This is the one who says, 'I want my son to be well prepared for life, that he may carry on honestly and sincerely.'"

Mrs. Joshua Evans, jr., only woman member of the board of trustees of the university, told the mothers that most of the questions which arise concerning women students in the university are not questions of morals so much as questions of good taste and of better judgment.

Responsibility Is Cited.

"The university has a great responsibility for the social activities of its women members," said Mrs. Evans.

"It would be a great pity were we to train your daughters' minds and give them no guidance along the line of the activities that will form a major part of their lives after they leave the university.

"We want this responsibility to be shared, through proper self-guidance, the girls carrying forward the ideals set by you and by us."

Rover Assistant Quits Post to Practice Law

Ernest J. Davis, colored, assistant United States attorney in charge of the prosecution of numbers games and other forms of gaming, tendered his resignation yesterday to United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, effective December 1.

Rover declared that Davis had been one of his most zealous prosecutors and that he deplored his retirement from his service. Davis will enter private practice. Rover stated that another colored man would be named as his successor.

Officers Foil Man Who Once Escaped

Blue Ridge Liquor Manufacturer Handed Surprise on Return Home.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Nov. 14.—Ellis Morris, Blue Ridge Mountain moonshiner, who escaped from officers when arrested last May under pretense of going in his house to change clothes, was captured at his home in East Rockingham yesterday and brought here for an immediate circuit court trial. Morris pleaded guilty and received a one-year prison term.

Morris was captured the day he returned home, being surprised in bed. When arrested last May, Morris entered his house and as officers sought to follow he bolted the door. Before officers could get around the house he escaped to the mountains through the rear door.

Four youths, serving one year terms for turkey stealing, had from 30 days to four months added to their sentences on a charge of attempted jail break. Elmer Kyger, leader of the plot, received a four-month term, while Wilmer Kyger, Melvin Herring and Lester Shifflett were given 30 days each. A warrant is out for Mrs. Lillian Kyger, charging her with smuggling five hacksaws into the jail.

Mrs. Buchanan will also present a group of organ numbers during the program.

Other speakers include Miss Sydney Small, Roanoke, director of the Capital district, National Federation of Music Lovers Clubs, which embraces the District of Columbia and the States of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware, and Miss Eva Taylor Epps, director of the department of music, State Teachers College, Fredericksburg, Va. Miss Epps is recording secretary of this district.

Mrs. Florence Calvert Thompson, first director of the Fourth district, will conduct a round table discussion of the problems of music lovers clubs.

Missionary Sails On Extended Tour

Rev. Arthur G. Daniells Will Cover 25,000 Miles in South America.

The Rev. Arthur G. Daniells, evangelist and missionary, for the last 21 years president of the General Conference of the Seventh-Day Adventists, with headquarters at Takoma Park, sails today from New York on the steamship Western World for Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, on an extensive missionary tour of South America, during which he will hold institutes for ministers, teachers, doctors and missionaries of the denomination.

At the conclusion of this trip Mr. Daniells will have traveled approximately 500,000 miles during his 50 years of ministry, and will have visited every continent on the globe.

A series of ten ministerial institutes will be held by the Rev. Daniells on his itinerary from Rio de Janeiro down the east coast of Buenos Aires, across the Andes Mountains into Chile, and ending in Lima, Peru.

On this trip Rev. and Mrs. Daniells will travel approximately 25,000 miles in six months. They will return to this country early next May to attend the quadrennial session of the general conference in San Francisco, May 29 to June 14.

Cumberland Man Dies In Railroad Accident

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 14.—Eli T. ## NUCLEUS IS FORMED FOR HIGHWAY GROUP

Montgomery Residents Are to Organize Rockville Pike Association.

GRAND JURY NEAR CLOSE

Preliminary steps for the permanent organization of the Rockville Pike Citizens Association were formed last night at a meeting of about 60 persons at the Harper Country Club. The association which will embrace residents of Rockville, Bethesda and both sides of the highway between the two towns will have as its purpose the preservation of the beauty of the thoroughfare and will continually fight the inroads of industrials and commercialism on the pike, according to its organizers.

The meeting was called to order by Burton T. Doyle. After he had outlined its purpose, E. C. Brandenburg, Washington attorney, was elected temporary chairman and Mrs. John Holmes was named temporary secretary. Brandenburg immediately appointed three committees and requested that they report at the next meeting, se for Monday, November 25, at the Harper Club.

The committee and their chairmen are: Organization and by-laws, Walter Dawson; membership, Philander Johnson, and for the selection of a permanent meeting place, Harry Eaton.

Numerous letters of congratulations and regret that the writers could not be present were received by those in charge. The Rockville Chamber of Commerce sent its indorsement of the association and offered the use of its hall for a meeting place.

A jury in Montgomery County Circuit Court, at Rockville, yesterday awarded $350 to Fulton R. Gordon, real estate operator of Washington, who sued Mrs. Maude K. Walker, widow of Allan Walker, real estate operator, for back rent of a residence in Chevy Chase, D. C.

The plaintiff, through Albert M. Boulc, Rockville attorney, declared that Mrs. Walker had contracted to rent the house but that his office had neglected to send her the bill each month until after she had moved because of an unusual pressure of business. The widow remained at the house for six months. He claimed that she owed him $600 back rent.

Mrs. Walker told the court that she was forced to move because the house was not habitable and denied that she owed any rent because of the condition of the house. She was defended by F. Barnard Welsh, of Rockville, and John Lewis Smith, of Washington.

The Montgomery County grand jury is expected to adjourn today and present its report to Judge Robert B. Peter, of the circuit court at Rockville. The grand jury yesterday returned 29 indictments, which were not made public yesterday.

The members of the grand jury today probably will inspect the county jail and almshouse and other county properties before making their report. Should they not complete their report today presentation of the report will be delayed until Monday as thecircuit court does not sit on Saturday.

Dr. T. Parke Flournoy, for more than 50 years pastor of the Bethesda Presbyterian Church, last nightspoke before the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce on the early history of the Bethesda section. A moving picture, "The March of Business," was presented through the efforts of Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business and vice president of the chamber. Music by the Chevy Chase Chanters completed the program. The meeting, a special one, was held in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School.

Man Dies After Shooting Self.

John Jackson, colored, 57 years old, inflicted shotgun wounds in his stomach at his home in Mitchellville, Md., at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning which resulted in his death at 1:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Casualty Hospital, where he had been taken in its ambulance from his residence. He failed to regain consciousness.

Three Residents Of St. Marys Die

Lumber Dealer, Young Girl and Farmer Are Dead in Maryland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leonardtown, Md., Nov. 14.—Deaths of three well-known residents of St. Marys County within 36 hours were reported here today.

Victor Buckler, 53 years old, prominent lumber dealer and former Baltimorean, was found dead in bed at his residence at Laurel Grove this morning by his brother, George Buckler, with whom he lived. Funeral services will be conducted Saturday afternoon by the Rev. M. A. Baker, pastor of the Mount Zion Methodist Church of Leonardtown, followed by interment at Laurel Grove.

He is survived, besides his brother, by his widow and three other brothers including E. St. Clair Buckler, member of the House of Delegates from St. Marys County for six sessions; Hamilton E. Buckler and John Cummings Buckler, of this county.

Pearl Morgan, 13-year-old daughter of Mrs. Sorella Morgan and the late Stephen Morgan, died at her home at Laurel Grove at noon today. Funeral services will be conducted at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Morganza, with interment in the church cemetery.

Funeral services of Richard E. Quad, 78 years old, a farmer of St. Marys County, who died at his home in Laurel Grove Wednesday, will be conducted tomorrow from St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Morganza, with interment in the church cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. D. E. Gatton, of Washington, and five sons, James, Theodore, Richard, Sansdale, all by his present marriage, and Philip Quad by his first marriage.

Alleged Attacker Is Spirited Away

Virginia Girl Identifies Man in Assault Charge.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 14.—Indignation of citizens of Disputanta over the alleged attack of a 20-year-old Negro on a young Prince George County schoolgirl yesterday led to threats of violence which prompted police upon the arrest of the man near here to spirit him to an unannounced jail for safekeeping.

The girl was returning to her home in the county from school at Disputanta with two other schoolgirls when the Negro was said to have approached the buggy which they had stopped at a small stream to water the horse. The man is said to have attempted to drag the girl out of the conveyance when he was frightened away by the screams of the three.

Located by police and a crowd of enraged citizens in the home of another Negro near Disputanta, the man was identified by the girls as the assailant. Police hurried the Negro to the Petersburg Jail, but quickly removed him when sentiment against him continued strong.

Woman Files Appeal In Oil Plant Dispute

Mrs. Florence E. Cannon, president of the Arlington Citizens Association, who has been leading a fight against the granting of a permit for the Sun Oil Co. to erect a plant in Arlington County, has carried her appeal to Maj. Brenon Somervill, of the Department of Public Parks and Public Buildings, following refusal of the county board of supervisors to reconsider their action in granting such permit.

In a letter to Maj. Somervill, Mrs. Cannon asks that the War Department refuse the company permission to erect a wharf, and includes as evidence of sentiment against the project a petition signed by representatives of nineteen civic organizations and other data.

FOOLING THE FARMERS.

The Senate yesterday became inflated with another one of those noble aspirations to sacrifice itself to stern duty in the interest of the farmer. The inflation came after prearranged plans to adjourn next week had miscarried and resulted in a split in the coalition between the Democrats and insurgents. All factions wanted to adjourn, but the turncoats wished to have the Democrats assume the responsibility for the adjournment resolution while they, the recreants, assumed the role of defending the farmer by voting in protest against ending the session.

When it became apparent that the insurgents were leaving the Democrats in the lurch there was a switch of Democratic and Republican votes against the adjournment resolution offered by Senator Simmons, with the result that it was defeated, 51-34. The Republican regulars had previously refused to sponsor an adjournment resolution, much to the disappointment of both Democrats and renegades. An earlier resolution by Senator Blease calling for immediate abandonment of the tariff bill received only seven votes, though it was an open secret that virtually every senator really favored it, but feared the political effect of voting according to his convictions.

Senator Simmons was reluctant to offer the resolution, but when no move came from the Republican regulars he agreed to become its sponsor, after assurance that it would pass by a wide margin. Every sane man in the Senate knows that the bill can not pass before the regular session, he said, adding that brain-fagged and weary senators would accomplish nothing by further hopeless efforts to expedite work on the measure. It was in the interest of the country to bring the session to a close, the veteran Democrat asserted. No one for a moment believed that Mr. Simmons was risking an adverse vote, for it was understood that the way had been paved by agreement with regular and insurgent leaders.

Of course, the adverse vote put the Democrats in a most unfavorable light, as it saddled upon them the responsibility of trying to kill the bill for this session. When the insurgents "ran out on Simmons," as the Democrats phrase it, Senator Harrison, who had worked hard on the adjournment agreement, took the whip in his own hands and proceeded to get even with those who had forsaken the Democratic proposal. He moved to take up the agricultural schedule, and his motion carried. Realizing that senators on both sides of the chamber were playing politics, with an eye on the farm lobby, Mr. Harrison moved for night sessions, beginning at once, and this motion carried, much to the dismay of all senators, who recognize the absurdity of the whole proposition.

Now that senators have been disappointed in their prearranged plans to adjourn they are imbued with the idea of noble sacrifice and devotion to duty for the farmer. This devotion will last until a new agreement is patched up to end the session in a way which will permit individual senators to tell their farmer-constituents how vigorously they opposed the agreement.

ADMIRAL JONES SHOULD GO.

The rumor that Rear Admiral Hilary Jones may not go to the London conference is disturbing to those who are familiar with the extraordinary value of the work he performed in the Geneva conference. It is reported that Admiral Jones has no inclination to attend the London conference, and it is quite possible that he might lose interest, in view of the fact that naval experts will be sent in an advisory capacity only, while political envoys will decide all questions.

Rear Admiral Pratt's well-known attitude, which is not shared by the Navy generally, should be supplemented by the knowledge and counsel of Admiral Jones, who possesses more detailed information on the subject to be considered than any other officer. If Admiral Jones had been one of the advisers at the Washington conference in 1922 the outcome probably would have been much more advantageous to the United States.

The public would be reassured if it were certain that Admiral Pratt would be supported by Admiral Jones at the London conference. They are both earnestly in favor of an agreement, but they have differing views in important particulars, and the United States should have the counsel of both advisers in considering proposals that may deeply affect the Navy and the Nation itself.

TAX REDUCTION.

Secretary Mellon's announcement that a tax reduction proposal will be made to Congress has had a most gratifying effect upon the public. The announcement contained no reference to the stock market collapse, and it was subsequently intimated that the market situation had no connection with the sudden decision nor with the summoning of Gov. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board, to the conferences in which it was formulated. But the public knows better. Ordinarily, a decision to recommend tax reduction would have been postponed until Congress had assembled in regular session, at which time far more comprehensive data upon which to base estimates of revenues and expenditures would have been in hand. Coming when it did, the announcement can be considered only as the administration's contribution to the restoration of confidence.

Yesterday the market staged a rally, due, in part, to the tax reduction announcement and to the well-founded impression that Congress will not attempt to stand in the way of the plan. The sum involved in the reduction—estimated at $160,000,000—would afford little relief, but the psychological effect of the announcement was of great importance. The Secretary of the Treasury said, in effect: "We are so sure that business has been unimpaired and will remain unimpaired that we are willing to stake the financial security of the Government against reduced taxes." It may well be that the announcement marked the end of the recession.

The test of the wisdom of tax reduction, however, will come next year. The Treasury is on record as attributing the large tax collections of recent years largely to profits taken from the stock market. It follows that the losses suffered on every hand in the last few weeks will be followed by a decrease in tax collections. The Treasury, however, is relying upon the ten months of great activity that business has enjoyed so far this year as a counterbalance against the losses that will be written off as a result of the market collapse. This is logical reasoning. But what about next year? It may be that industry, as a result of the decreased purchasing power of a large body of the people, is facing a period of curtailed activity. Will the proposed rate, reduced 1 per cent from the existing rate, bring in revenues in 1931 sufficient for the needs of the Government?

The administration is fully justified in taking the step it announced Wednesday. The full effect of the announcement, however, remains to be demonstrated.

A SECRET WET-AND-DRY VOTE.

A census of wet-drinking, dry-voting congressmen has yet to be taken. For some reason there seems to be a certain hesitancy on the part of statesmen in Congress to classify themselves as personally wet and politically dry. But the impression is about that some congressmen vote not as they drink and drink not as they vote and it is perhaps with this thought in mind that Representative Bloom, of New York, proposes to liberate the American people from the yoke of prohibition. Early in the forthcoming session Mr. Bloom will introduce a bill legalizing the manufacture, sale, &c., of light wines and beers and at the same time he will introduce a resolution providing that any action upon or pertaining to the bill "shall be taken by secret ballot." Such a ballot, says the gentleman from New York, is "constitutional, legal and authorized by the rules of both houses."

If, through a secret ballot, congressmen should vote according to their personal convictions it is not unlikely that liberalization of the prohibition laws could be attained. But what congressman who has heretofore voted dry and whose constituency is dry would dare vote, even in secret, for an amendment that would permit the manufacture and sale of 3 per cent beer and 12 per cent wine in any State that so desired? Suppose, as a result of a secret ballot, such an amendment should be adopted and repassed over a veto? The Antisaloon League and kindred organizations would have only to do a little sleuthing to discover the deserters. The secret ballot would soon become public.

But this idea of a secret ballot, in itself, is not bad. A congressman's duties would be made far less arduous if he were not constantly called to account, and the public would be about as well served in star chamber sessions as it is at present.

MALL-TRIANGLE TRAFFIC.

Representatives of the Board of Trade will appear before the National Capital Park and Planning Commission Saturday, armed with statistics on traffic passing in and out of the Avenue-Mall triangle, in an effort to bring about changes in the Government's building plans. The board is working in the interest of adequate street space to carry the load of traffic to the triangle when the development shall have been completed. It is a vital issue in which the whole city and all visitors are interested.

The fact that the building program calls for blocking off Eighth, Eleventh and Thirteenth streets has caused some criticism. It should be noted, however, that Eighth street is already blocked by Center Market and that neither Eleventh nor Thirteenth is a through street after it reaches the Mall. Eleventh street is to be left open between Pennsylvania avenue and C street, thus providing an entrance into the triangle. This leaves Thirteenth street the main bone of contention.

The principal streets running through the Mall, namely, Fourteenth, Twelfth and Seventh streets, will be left open to provide easy access to the Southwestern section of the city. It should be noted that the through traffic north and south on these streets is not great. The Southwest section is not large and there is, in addition, only the scattered buildings in the Mall to draw traffic. When the building program is complete the heaviest traffic will be in and out of the triangle itself. The question is largely whether or not the plans make adequate provision for the entrance and exit of thousands of Government workers and others having business with the various departments.

It would be a pity to carry out this extensive building development without making adequate provision for traffic. Cities built before the automobile was dreamed of have excuse for their traffic congestion, but there would be no excuse for creation of congestion in new developments. Traffic into the triangle may be expected to be very heavy. Every tourist who visits the city will insist upon driving through this area. If it appears that traffic and parking have not been adequately provided for the commission should not hesitate to change its plans.

BISHOP ANDERSON.

The House of Bishops of the Episcopal Church has chosen a worthy presiding officer in the person of Bishop Charles P. Anderson, of Chicago. At a critical hour last year, when the temptation to use religious influences in politics was very strong, Bishop Anderson delivered an address in Washington which rang throughout the country. It was not only a courageous utterance, but it was clear-headed and in accordance with the Christian spirit. He attacked both sectionalism and intolerance, and championed religious freedom. His excoriation of defeatism, socialism and radicalism was a tonic throughout the church, where disintegrating influences were at work.

The election of Bishop Anderson is gratifying evidence that the church as a whole is virile, American, and forward-looking. It has no sympathy with the detestable elements that hang upon its fringes, taking advantage of official position in the church to spread abroad communist depravity, disloyalty to the republic and poltroon pacifism.

A genuine American becomes the guiding spirit of a great religious organization. It is a most reassuring development.

Commissioner Doran reports that the diversion of alcohol has been ended. That accomplished, there remain only the Canadian border, the rum row, the moonships and the home brew leaks to be plugged.

The kissing habit, says Elinor Glyn, is here to stay. Thank goodness for the reassurance of an expert!

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY

From the London Times.

An eminent Spanish physician has just declared that one, at any rate, of the secrets of health and long life is to have no regular habits. This dictum has come as something of a shock to those who have painfully schooled themselves to live by the clock, and it must be questioned whether more unhappiness than happiness has not been created by a possibly casual observation. Regular habits go with thought, and even with anxiety, to preserve health; whereas those who have no regular movements at all are of a happy-go-lucky disposition that pays little heed even to the most distinguished physicians and places scant value on longevity. To add to the aggravation, no one, however regular his habits, can contradict the dictum with any confidence until a hale old age has been in actual fact triumphantly achieved. What is really needed is more organization of the vigorous aged—who would do well to remember Lord Melbourne's advice to his cabinet and all stick to the same story. The United Centenarians of the World would be in an almost impregnable position for making people think and act as they pleased and could exact very special terms from advertisers. As things now stand centenarians are still in the most rudimentary stage of cut-throat competition, bestowing their favors in direct contradiction of each other, one praising exercise and another sleep, one praising abstinence and another a full and generous diet, while every edible thing has its centenarian somewhere in the world. Old Parr, says his biographer, "was of old Pythagoras' opinion that greene cheese was most wholesome (with an onion)." The latest centenarian to air her views, a peasant woman in the Toulouse district, puts it all down to soda. Avarice seldom weakens with the years, and the financial possibilities of organized old age are probably the best argument for obtaining a consensus of opinion in disproof of this Spanish doctor, whose words will make the tasks of parents and schoolmasters so much more difficult.

It is not difficult to frame a moral appeal to the aged to speak as loudly as they can for regular habits, and to point out the evils and despair into which men fall who think they have no sure sign-posts to a robust old age. Many of the youthful outbursts that incur elderly reproof come from young men who have heard too many old Father Williams, and who have resolved to live in the present and make sure of something at any rate. The elderly have only themselves to blame, for they could do a great work for a quieter world if they all lied, stoutly if softly, about the way noise finished off their contemporaries in their middle years. The case for irregular habits is that people keep young whom no rut claims, and that the way to live to be old is to remain as young as you can. The worst result of the Spanish doctor's pronunciamento is likely to be a regular cult of conscientious and labored irregularity and a generation of great-grandparents whose descendants will have an extremely uncomfortable time looking after them. The armchair reliability of old age is one of its most honored characteristics, and in a country in which, as the statisticians are now so fond of proving, the elderly are going to be an increasingly large fraction of the population, it is of considerable public importance that the idea shall not get about that the scientific pathway to a second century is only to be found by abandoning all habits except a habit of spontaneous abandon.

SCRUTINIZING THE LAW.

Publication of the first report of the Johns Hopkins Institute of Law brings to public attention a condition that relates directly to the purposes and hopes of the institute.

Sixty-seven foundations, according to the Baltimore Sun, besides many committees, are delving for facts in such diverse provinces as railroads, taxation, motor vehicles, bail bonds and bank robberies. Law relating to crime in any way are especially under review. Law school faculties are at work collecting data for books of reference on topics not now covered. And the whole mass of investigation testifies either to dissatisfaction with the law as it now is or to changes which are so rapid as to demand continuous study and interpretation.

In either case, the need for the Johns Hopkins Institute of Law is made plain. Only at this university is it proposed to carry out far-reaching and detailed inquires as to the fundamentals of human justice. The whole country, however, is aware of that problem and investigators at 150 points are searching for defects or correcting uncertainty. The body of American law is neither sacrosanct or fixed, if the testimony of these Nation-wide investigations is accepted as valid.

MEMORY.

And if I shall remember
The tulips of the spring,
The Christmas each December,
The songs the children sing,
Their bits of merry laughter
Which meant so much to me,
That's all in that hereafter
I'd keep in memory.

I do not ask to go there
With boastful tales to tell;
I'd like to have them know there
This life I've lov-d so well.
I would recall a few things
My eyes rejoiced to see—
The tender and the true things
Which brightened life for me.

And shall I wak- from sleeping
To face eternity;
But these I would be keeping
Of earthly memory.
But these I would remember:
The songs the Children sing,
The Christmas each December,

"Here Is a Penny; Now Kiss My Shoe."

By ROBERT QUILLEN

YESTERDAY the newspapers printed a story concerning an old woman who asked the police to save her from the watchful care of her daughter.

"She and her husband lock me in when they leave the house," she told the desk sergeant, "and I had to break a lock to get out."

"Mother wears clothes that are too young for her," the daughter said in self-defense, "and makes friends with people we don't want her to associate with. We can't control her unless we lock her up while we're away."

This case is exceptional in the severity of its methods, but there are thousands like it in stupid tyranny.

Mother is human. Age has not lessened her love of independence, nor has her need of care taken away her right to do her own thinking.

If she wishes to wear a sunbonnet or a chicken feather, that is her privilege and right, and if she prefers the society of publicans and sinners, that is her business and the business of nobody else.

But the world contains few people sufficiently broad of mind and sufficiently big of heart to give alms without a string attached.

Who eats my bread must sing my song.

The more stupid and ignorant people are, the greater their confidence in their own infallibility, and the foolish conviction that they know everything and can not make mistakes transforms them into petty tyrants the moment they assume the role of benefactor.

Their children are chattels, without right to an opinion. "So long as you eat at my table," they say, "you will do as I tell you to do."

They establish themselves as models of perfection and require the children to copy them in all particulars. To question their beliefs is heresy, and to confess a taste unlike theirs is rebellion.

When they give charity to the needy, they demand a show of servile gratitude in full payment and reserve the right to determine how their alms shall be expended.

"I am giving you this dime to buy bread," they will say. "Don't you dare waste it on fruit." And woe to the beneficiary of their kindness who uses his dole to buy beauty instead of utility.

If they are given the privilege of repaying parental kindness and caring for the "old folks," they accept the situation resentfully and assume the rights of a master as payment for their generosity.

"I'm doing my duty by you," they say, "and I know what is best for you. To have a will of your own is rank ingratitude."

Poor shackled slaves of charity!

It isn't the fear of want that prompts old people to board their pennies; it is fear of losing their independence.

To take their liberty in exchange for bread is to give them trash for their greatest treasure.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE AUTO ADDICTS GO TO THE BIG GAME BY TRAIN.

The scene is a day coach. The characters are four football fans who have always gone through the ordeal of motoring to the football game.

First Fan (when the train doesn't pull out at once)—Now what's the matter?

Second Fan—Must be the red light.

Third Fan—Probably some fool traffic cop holding everything up as usual.

Fourth Fan—Give him the horn, give him the horn! We can't hang around here forever.

Second Fan—Traffic is getting worse and worse. There's too much regulation.

Fourth Fan (after the train has pulled out)—Where are we now?

Third Fan—Portchester, I think.

First Fan—For the luvvapete ain't we passed Portchester yet? Step on it!

Second Fan—We must be following a truck or sumpin.

Third Fan—We're not making any headway. Can't we cut out and go by the back road?

First Fan—I'll speak to the engineer about it.

Second Fan (after the train has been out about an hour)—Are we anywhere near the place yet?

Third Fan—This is a strange road to me. We must have taken a detour.

Fourth Fan—We'll get lost, that's what we'll do. We should stick to the main highways.

Second Fan—I think we're traveling in second. What's the idea loafing along like this?

First Fan—I can't help it, boys. There's a horse and wagon ahead and it won't move over and let us by.

* * * *

Third Fan (fifteen minutes later)—I think I smell something.

Second Fan—What is it?

Third Fan—Our brakes are burning.

First Fan—I knew something would happen before we got there.

Second Fan (anxiously)—I'm going up and see the engineer.

First Fan—What for?

Second Fan—To make sure he's got plenty of gas and oil.

* * * *

First Fan (as the train finally arrives)—Well, here at last. Let's beat it to the bowl.

Second Fan—You've gotta wait a few minutes.

Third Fan—What for?

First Fan—So's we can find a place to park the train!

There is talk now of merging the Stock Market with the Mills Hotels.

THOSE WHO LOSE.

Sudden wealth, acquired without labor, assuring ease and luxury and power, observes the St. Paul Pioneer Press, appeals to the avaricious instinct of many otherwise sound and intelligent people. The thrill of expectation, of suspense, the possibility of success with the next spin of the wheel, the next turn of the card, the next shovel of earth, has kept men fighting odds since history began.

There is a romance to search for buried treasure, to stories of unearned wealth won in the gold fields, the roulette wheel, the gaming table and the stock market that is fascinating. It blinds its victims to risk and danger. They give no thought to how many are beaten.

Men seldom boast of their losses, so failures in the gamble for easy wealth rarely win the spotlight. Now and then a paragraph tells of a broken spirit ending his life as in the case of the vice president of a radio corporation who committed suicide after losing $124,000 on the stock market. Young men who gamble with their company's money are frequently imprisoned as embezzlers. But these are the dramatic incidents that get into print. The thousands who risk and lose their life savings sink out of sight without a ripple on the surface.

It is sometimes worth remembering that all who play do not win.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Innocent Men, Acquitted After Trial, Subjected to Punishment, Against Legal Presumption of Innocence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is a motto of the common law that ever person is to be considered innocent until he has been proved guilty by a court of competent jurisdiction. The Government, in several recent instances, seems to have violated this order of procedure.

Capt. Doyle was accused by his superior officer of being insurbordinate. Thereupon the accusing officer suspends him from office, without pay. To all intents and purposes, Doyle was not only deemed guilty, but actually penalty was imposed, in advance of trial. Although this may have been in harmony with the police regulations, yet the deeper query arises as to whether such regulations are not in violation of the spirit of American law.

The Department of Justice had Perry Howard indicted on account of alleged patronage abuses. Forthwith the same Department of Justice proceeded to suspend the accused from office, without pay. Such suspension and withholding of pay would necessarily carry with them impression of guilt in the public mind.

Effectually condemned and punished in advance of trial, both of these men were acquitted by subsequent judicial decision. Have not these men been deprived of their rights as American citizens, by being condemned and punished, for a season, for alleged offenses which, according to the test of law, they had never committed?

It is perfectly obvious that officials under indictment can not be continued in office without serious detriment to the public service. But why could they not be furloughed, without prejudice, pending final judicial decision?

It clearly seems that some such plan of procedure must be adopted or the fundamental principle of American jurisprudence will be undermined.

KELLY MILLER.

Duplication of Memorials to Individuals Is Bad Taste—A Memorial to Jefferson Is First in Order.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The action of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d in advising against the proposal to place a statue of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at the northern end of the Arlington Memorial Bridge, offsetting a statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee at the southern end, shows that in common sense and dislike of vain display he is the worthy grandson of his famous grandfather.

Aside from the question of "preserving the entirely impersonal character of the bridge as originally designed," the proposal to decorate it with a statue of Grant suggests the thought that there may be such a thing as redundance in the erection of memorials.

There is already a magnificent grouping of statuary erected to the memory of Grant near the boundary of the Capitol Grounds on the west. Accordingly an additional statue would be superfluous.

Even in regard to George Washington our conclusion must be very much the same. The Federal City and its monument bearing its name are his proper memorials.

A multiplicity of memorials to a single individual is in bad taste. More than one monumental tribute to an individual certainly should not be provided for without deep consideration.

In the meantime, in deference to the eternal fitness of things, no statue to any one should be erected here until provision is made for an adequate monument to the memory of the author of the Declaration of Independence.

Naval Defense and the United States of Europe.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am an Englishman, and, for that reason, I am friendly to your great and free republic. Ignoble jealousy must be laid aside.

Your naval defenses should be greatly increased.

A serious proposal is made to form a United States of Europe. The white races would thus be mainly divided into three great combinations—the United States of America, the United States of Europe, and the British Empire.

The United States of Europe, although smaller in area than the United States of America, would outnumber them in population and fighting power in the ratio of about three to one; and one of the first acts of the new combination would almost certainly be to request a reconsideration of their debts to America.

A refusal would be followed by hostile action. The United States of America is now the only naval power in the world that can afford to build a large number of battleships. Competitive building by other powers would be impossible, for lack of the necessary funds. America would thus possess an invincible navy, an impregnable defense against any possible combination of hostile attacking fleets. This opportunity should not be allowed to pass. The United States Navy, built, pledged and consecrated for defense alone, would be no menace to Britain, or any other nation; and should be bound by no limits.

Pray accept this as a friendly warning from a subject of a friendly nation. BERTRAND SHADWELL.

What Ails the Senate?—Senators Take Themselves Seriously, That's All.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I noticed a headline in your paper a day or two ago, "What Ails the Senate?" That's easy. The senators take themselves seriously; the country at large takes them as a joke.

FARM SURPLUS AID SUGGESTED BY HYDE

Secretary Would Have U. S. Withdraw Untillable Land for Forests.

OTHER RELIEF DISCUSSED

Chicago, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Control of farm surpluses by Government withdrawal of untillable lands for reforestation was urged today by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

Other farm relief measures discussed at a session of the association of land grant colleges and universities devoted to the Federal Farm Board's problems were removal of county extension agents from county and State influences opposed to cooperative marketing, and an educational campaign to acquaint the farmer with his rights under the agricultural marketing act.

Six members of the Farm Board were present and each addressed the meeting. They were Chairman Alexander Legge, C. S. Wilson, Sam R. McKelvie, James C. Stone, Carl Williams and C. C. Teague.

Tillable Acres Numbered.

Secretary Hyde explained that of 955,000,000 acres of American farm land, only 505,000,000 actually were tillable, while 350,000,000 produce crops large enough "to supply the United States and its foreign markets and to support a farm bloc in the United States Senate."

Overexpansion, held by the Secretary to be the cause of agricultural ills, was brought about, he said, by the eagerness of the Government to cultivate every potential farm. He proposed that submarginal lands be taken by the Government for reforestation.

"The farmers of the United States are now easily able to produce all the foods and fibers the Nation needs and will be able to do so for decades to come," he said. "Our immediate concern is not to stimulate greater production, but to avoid it. We need to seek out and make practical application of what we already know, to make researches for new uses of present products."

Organization Hoped For.

"The Federal Farm Board is charged with the task of encouraging and fostering cooperative marketing organizations for agriculture. Thus we hope to build up the farmers' own organization which can advise the farmer as to markets, supplies and demands; can aid in controlling the surplus by preventing it; can level out the flow of commodities to market; give the farmer a voice in the sale of his products, and extend his arm and influence over his line fences and into the markets of the world. We can take the problems of the farm out of the realm of politics and into the domain of economics by collective thinking, stabilization of prices, reduction of waste in the marketing system, and the mobilization of the economic power of agriculture."

The farm board members urged the college delegates to assist in the program for farm relief by carrying to the individual farmer the fact that he must organize and do his marketing through a national cooperative organization. Assistance already had been promised by the executive body of the association, which voted last night to cooperate in every way with the Farm Board.

Cooperation Avoided Heretofore.

"The inclination to get together has not existed on the part of the farmers," said Legge. "The farmer is an individualist. Yesterday I received a dozen telegrams from farmers saying it was too much trouble for them to affiliate with a national organization before getting loans which they needed. Centralized effort is essential and there must be a campaign to sell the plan to the farmer."

"We can't write a program," he continued. "We aren't wise enough for that. It has to grow and it is not our problem to say what is the right kind of organization."

A proposal to remove the county extension agents, who are directed by the extension departments of the land grant colleges, from other influences brought cheers from the meeting. It was pointed out by Stone that the educational campaign for cooperative marketing must be carried on through the county agents.

Foshay Receiver Quits; Rockwood Is Successor

Minneapolis, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Resignation of Joseph Chapman as receiver for the W. B. Foshay Co. and appointment of former Judge C. J. Rockwood to succeed him was announced today. Chapman will retain his post as receiver for the Foshay Building Corporation and the Public Utilities Consolidated Corporation, another Foshay enterprise.

Chapman took charge of all three firms when receivership petitions were filed November 1. In announcing his resignation as receiver for the W. B. Foshay Co., the general holding concern for a number of Foshay interests, Chapman said he quit in justice to cerditors of all three companies after finding that conflict of interests probably would develop.

Flier Confirms Riots In Mexican Campaign

Nogales, Ariz., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Reports received here that three men were killed and many injured in political rioting in Masatlan, Sinaloa, were confirmed today by C. W. Wright, Pickwick Airlines pilot, upon his arrival from the Mexican City. Wright reported that the rioting began when Jose Vasconcelos, candidate for the presidency of Mexico, arrived on his special campaign train in Masatlan.

Most of the injured were those trampled in the disorder, which lasted three hours before soldiers and police were able to control the demonstrators. Many shots were fired and windows broken.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

IF Alexander Legge, Hoover's Farm Board chairman, accomplishes with the Argentine Republic what he has already done with Canada, in the organization of an "all American" wheat selling combination designed to make the European buyers pay a fair price for their foodstuffs, it is difficult to exaggerate the possibilities.

Legge has been suspected of being a dark horse candidate for President for some months now. It began with his refusal to be drawn into the social precedence row when Mrs. Gann was achieving recognition of rank as the hostess of the Vice President. Legge commented when questioned that he would just as soon eat out in the pantry—that where his seat was placed at official dinners made no difference to him whatever.

This publicity was forced on him, apparently, and he has had little publicity on his scheme for combining all the American farmers to resist the unfair buying of their grain.

THE first result of his scheme would be that the United States and Argentine, acting in cooperation, would begin doing what Canada has done with considerable success for some years. All the American wheat producers, from Canada to Cape Horn, would decline to sell their wheat except at a fair price—precisely what Canada is doing at this moment, and what the United States will be doing, in an agreement already made with the proper Canadian authorities, as soon as it can get organized.

This would compel the European buyers, whose shrewdness has resulted in American farmers selling their foodstuffs at too low prices ever since this side of the Atlantic became the world's granary, to pay more to advance the price of wheat, Mr. Legge and his lieutenants think, than any conceivable export debenture or equalization fee proposition. And it would cost the government very little proportionately in the long run.

COMBINATION with Canada has already been effected. Combination with the Argentine is now under negotiation. The difficulties in the latter case are serious, but there is no doubt here that they will be overcome. For example, there are virtually no storage facilities for wheat in the Argentine. The whole idea up to now has been to get the wheat on ships for Europe at the earliest possible moment.

This has eliminated some expense, of course, and some carrying charges, but it has not made for a high price. On the contrary, it has not only brought a low price to the Argentine farmers, but it has broken the backs of the United States and Canadian farmers year after year by forcing down the price of wheat. Taking all the Argentine wheat with virtually negotiation over the prices, the European buyers, always acting in concert, been able to postpone buying wheat from the United States and Canada until they could break the price in North America.

CANADA now is grimly holding on to her wheat crop, demanding higher prices of the European buyers. Were this country and the Argentine now fully cooperating there would be no difficulty in the situation. Europe would have to pay a fair price for its wheat or do without.

By next year, aids of Mr. Legge believe, this country will be thoroughly organized on this wheat selling proposition, and, in conjunction with Canada, will be able to present a solid front to the European buyers. There are reports that the European buyers, foreseeing what is about to happen, have made many long-term contracts, at very low prices, for Argentine wheat. Some of these, it is learned here, run for five years.

But it is pointed out that the contracts of course are not with individual farmers. They are with middlemen, and Mr. Legge is optimistic enough to believe that the Argentine will not stand in its own light, and sell its products for less than they are worth.

Smith Withdraws From Directorate

Business Ethics Are Given for Resigning From Insurance Job.

New York, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith today announced that he had resigned as a director of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. He tendered his resignation a month ago.

Smith's statement said:

"I resigned from the board of directors of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. because I did not think it ethical to be a director of the Metropolitan and at the same time be at the head of a real estate company which was applying for a large loan from the Metropolitan Life with which to erect a large building.

"The application for the loan must be made as president of the Empire State, Inc., and would therefore have been passed upon by me at the same time as a member of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., which under the law must pass upon the loan. It was purely a question of business ethics."

The former governor, with John J. Raskob and other business associates as the "Empire State, Inc.," is erecting an 80-story office building on the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

American Legion Sets 1930 Convention Date

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The national executive committee of the American Legion, meeting at national headquarters here, today set September 22 to 25, inclusive, as the date for the 1930 convention of the Legion, which will be held at Boston, Mass.

Boston was awarded the convention at the annual meeting of the Legion this year at Louisville, Ky., but determination of the date was left to the executive committee. Factors in determining the dates, the committee said, were the availability of hotel reservations and the avoidance of holding the convention on the first of the month when many Legionnaires are needed at their office work.

WORLD BANK RULES GIVEN PUBLICATION

INSTITUTION TAX EXEMPT

Baden-Baden, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The regulations which financial experts of seven nations drew up here for the new bank for international settlements were given out today. The development came after the conference itself had neglected to make provision for publication, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief German delegate, being the principal source of the information.

While the statutes and charter were given to newspapermen in their entirety, the trust agreement was kept secret. It was explained that this portion of the work had not progressed beyond a preliminary draft form and that its final text must await a second conference of the war reparations powers at The Hague.

Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker and one of the American delegates to the conference, said that the trust agreement "provides how the bank shall take over the work of S. Parker Gilbert," agent general for reparations under the Dawes plan.

It was revealed that the charter for the bank, which will be located at Basel, Switzerland, will be immune from amendment or other change by that country unless the powers which organized the institution agree to proposed changes. Switzerland has promised that the bank would be exempt from taxation on its capital reserves and profits, and that all funds deposited by any government in accordance with the Young plan of reparation payments will also be free from Swiss tax levies.

The statutes contain seven chapters. They cover the objects of the bank, the manner in which its capital is to be raised and allotted from and to the contributing countries and regulations for the management, accounting and meetings of the bank. Dr. Schacht said that the statutes would be incorporated in a special Swiss law which later will be part of a treaty to be concluded between Switzerland and the organizing powers.

Every effort was made to include in the statutes prohibitions that would prevent the bank from becoming a political instrument. No executive official of any country may be a member of the governing board except the governors of central banks of the various nations. All members of national legislatures are also barred from active places in the new institution.

British Bank Head Reelected.

London, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The court of directors of the Bank of England today agreed to recommend to the proprietors, in April, that Montagu Norman be reelected governor of the bank. Mr. Norman has held the post since 1920.

Search to Be Described By Kermit Roosevelt

A search through wilderness areas of China and Indo-China for a specimen of the rare panda will be described for members of the National Geographic Society this evening at the Washington Auditorium by Kermit Roosevelt, who, accompanied by his brother, Theodore, traversed nearly 2,000 miles in remote sections of southeastern Asia collecting many interesting specimens and trophies. The skeleton of the giant panda, which they brought with them to the United States, is the only complete one known.

Roosevelt's address will open the 1929-30 lecture series of the National Geographic Society. He also addressed the society in 1927 after his return from a journey across the Himalayas into Chinese Turkestan.

Boston, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Milwaukee was chosen for the 1930 convention next November by the National Association of Ice Industries meeting here today.

SEA "LOCARNO" PLAN SCOUTED IN FRANCE

Mediterranean Pact Idea Is Seen as Attempt to Get Parity for Italy.

TIME HELD NOT YET RIPE

Paris, Nov. 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The suggestion for negotiation of a "Mediterranean Locarno" pact,' tentatively launched from Geneva and London, by which peace would be maintained in the great inland sea by all interested naval powers, is skeptically received in Paris.

Coming at this time, the proposal is described as a method of inducing France to agree to naval parity with Italy. The British are eager for settlement of the dispute over Franco-Italian parity, it is said here, because the problem is regarded as one of the principal obstacles to the success of the London naval parley.

The suggestion has been under discussion among naval experts for some time and has frankly been held out, it is reported, as a reason for France to raise no objection to granting parity to Italy in all classes of vessels. The argument put forward has been that France does not need to maintain naval superiority over Italy because of the channel, as the British fleet, under the Locarno pact protects her from attack from the other side of the Rhine, which applies to the sea as well as to land.

In the Mediterranean France could also reduce to the level of the Italian naval strength, it is understood to have been argued, because a "Mediterranean Locarno" would make impossible any conflict between France and Italy and the sea routes between this country and Africa would not be menaced.

The French view is that a pact guaranteeing the security of the Mediterranean is desirable. But coming up as part of the preparation being made for the London parley, its negotiation would take on the special aspect of bringing pressure to bear upon France to accept parity with Italy. Hence it can not be discussed in its proper perspective now, according to the prevailing French opinion.

Champion Military Team Guests at Informal Reception.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE Polish Minister and Mme. Filipowicz entertained at a small dance at the legation last evening in compliment to the members of the Polish military team which captured the international trophy at the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden, New York. Having won the cup three times, Poland now has the coveted trophy in her permanent possession.

The dance last night was more or less impromptu, having been arranged to celebrate the victory. The fact that members of the team are to sail tomorrow morning for Europe made hasty preparation necessary. However, a distinguished company assembled at the legation as guests of the Minister and Mme. Filipowicz. Among those present were the chiefs of the foreign missions whose countries had teams entered in the New York Horse Show and those which had been represented at the International Horse Show held in Warsaw in the summer. The military attaches of all the embassies and legations in Washington had been invited, with the ladies of their families, and a large group of smart young people.

The Minister and Mme. Filipowicz went to New York to attend the horse show and to see their countrymen romp off with the honors. Mme. Filipowicz returned on Wednesday, the Minister coming yesterday with the members of the team, including Col. Rudolph Dreszer, Lieut. Kazimierz Gzowski, Lieut. Stefan Starnowski and Lieut. Wladyslaw Zgorzelski.

The Ciechanowski Cup, trophy for individual competition, which was presented by a former Minister of Poland, Mr. Jan Ciechanowski, was won by an American, Capt. William B. Bradford, U. S. A., who already has a leg on the cup.

Uniform was the "order of dress" for the officers, foreign and domestic, present at the dance last evening, contributing to a colorful and picturesque effect.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Colby, who have been guests of the President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House, have returned to their home in New York.

Mrs. James W. Good, wife of the Secretary of War, has canceled all social engagements because of the illness of the Secretary.

The tea which Maj. and Mrs. Parker W. West were to have given on Sunday in honor of Secretary and Mrs. Good has been indefinitely postponed.

The Minister of Persia, Mirza Davoud Khan Meftah, will entertain at dinner tomorrow evening in honor of the newly appointed United States Minister to Persia, Mr. Charles C. Hart, who will leave on Sunday for Europe. He will join Mrs. Hart in Switzerland where she has been for some time, and together they will go to Teheran.

Senator Frederic M. Sackett was joined yesterday by Mrs. Sackett, who has been at their Kentucky home through the Autumn. Senator and Mrs. Sackett are staying at the Carlton while opening their house on Eighteenth street for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Rhinelander have returned to their home in New York after attending the dedication yesterday of the College of Preachers in the Cathedral Close. Mrs. Rhinelander is a daughter of the late Right Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee, long Bishop of Washington.

Baron and Baroness von Below, who passed the summer at Lenox and Bar Harbor, have been spending several weeks in Philadelphia. They will come to Washington today and will be at 2400 Sixteenth street until they leave for Florida later in the winter.

Miss Mary Parrish Bradley entertained a group of debutantes at luncheon yesterday at her home on Nineteenth street.

Right Rev. John N. McCormick, Bishop of Western Michigan, is at The Carlton for a few days, having come on to attend the meeting of the House of Bishops.

The Right Rev. Warren L. Rogers, Bishop Coadjutor of Ohio, who has also been attending the meeting, is at Wardman Park Hotel.

Miss Mary Cass Canfield is visiting Col. Henry May at his house in K street. Mrs. William von Rath, daughter of Col. May, is also his guest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Himes Open Apartment Here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Himes took possession yesterday of the apartment at 1705 K street, which they will use for occasional visits when they come to town from their country home near Frederick, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Hoes have as their guest the latter's mother, Mrs. J. K Westesson.

Capt. and Mrs. Frank B. Freyer will entertain at tea on December 10 from 4 to 7 o'clock at their residence in Massachusetts avenue to present their daughter, Miss Engracia Freyer, to society. They will also give a ball for Miss Freyer, entertaining at the Mayflower on December 26.

Lieut. Comdr. Vincent Hubbard Godfrey, U. S. N., and Mrs. Godfrey are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Tuesday in Washington. Mrs Godfrey will be remembered as Miss Emilie Eleanor Owens, daughter of Maj. Arthur Burneston Owens, U. S. M. C., and Mrs. Owens, who are now making their home at The Hill, Greenock, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles LeFevre will have as their guest for the week-end their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Luke, of Tyron, Pa.

Mrs. Kennedy Plans Fete for Daughter.

Mrs. Robert Morris Kennedy, wife of Rear Admiral Kennedy, has issued invitations for a luncheon on November 19 at the Willard for her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, and in compliment to the latter's guest, Miss Bettina Parker. Miss Parker will arrive on Monday from her home in Charleston, S. C., for a visit of several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker Stone will spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke and propose to lease their house in Silver Spring, Md., for several months. Mrs. Stone, who was Miss Frances McKee, is Mrs. Brooke's daughter.

Capt. Hayne Ellis Arrives in Capital.

Capt. Hayne Ellis has joined Mrs. Ellis in their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel for a few days. Mrs. Ellis will accompany him upon his return on Wednesday to New York, where the U. S. S. Arkansas is now in port. Miss Martha Ellis, who has been with her aunt, Mrs. Loula Long Combs, in Omaha, is now visiting Mrs. Combs and her grandfather in Kansas City.

Capt. and Mrs. Ellis and their other children will go to Kansas City about December 22 and will remain there until after Christmas, when they will return to their apartment at the hotel, accompanied by Miss Ellis.

Tuxeden Fete Draws Throng To Salute Deb

Miss Laura Tuckerman Felicitated in Bow to Society.

All roads led to Tuxeden yesterday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman gave a reception at their picturesque home in Edgemoor to present to society their daughter, Miss Laura Wolcott Tuckerman. Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman have a tremendous acquaintance in the Capital, and "all Washington" seemed to be present, with many guests from other cities.

Mrs. Tuckerman's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Ashton de Peyster, had come from New York to be guests at the fete, and their daughter, Miss Alice de Peyster, stood with Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman and the debutante to greet the guests. Mrs. de Peyster was also in the receiving line for a while, relieved by Mrs. J. Wilmer Biddle, of Philadelphia.

Departing from the white or flesh tints to which debutantes are partial, Miss Tuckerman had chosen a gown of orchid chiffon made on medieval lines, with full sleeves embroidered in silver and gathered into tight cuffs. She carried a bouquet of orchids and yellow roses. Mrs. Tuckerman's costume was of Bordeaux velvet, harmonizing effectively with her daughter's frock. It was made on sweeping lines, with embroidery of seed pearls as its only trimming.

A large group of distinguished Washington women assisted the hostess, presiding in groups at the flower-decked tea table. Among them were Senora de Ferrara, Mme. Radeff, Mme. Prochnik, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Baroness Hauenschild, Mrs. Thomas F. Bayard, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mme. Ekengren, Mrs. Robert O'Donnell Hinckley, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, Mrs. Henry W. Fitch, Mrs. Robert Hollister Chapman and Mrs. Frederick Atherton.

Others assisting the hostess were Mrs. Morris de Peyster, Mrs. Fitz Roy Anderson and Mrs. Robert Gardiner, of New York; Mrs. Clement Biddle, of Philadelphia; Mrs. J. Tunstall-Smith, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Richard Crane, of Westover, Va. Miss Margaret Dangerfield and Miss Alexandra Gardiner, of New York, were among the girls in Miss Tuckerman's "receiving party" and, with Miss de Peyster, will remain over for the dinner and dance which Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman will give tonight for their daughter. Miss Elizabeth Gordon, daughter of Mrs. J. Wilmer Biddle, will join the group today.

Debutantes of this year and last were represented in the group which assisted Miss Tuckerman, among them Countess Cornelia Szechenyi, Countess Alice Szechenyi, Miss Loranda Prochnik, Miss Edith Eustis, Miss Elsie Ekengren, Miss Margaretta Wright, Miss Vittoria Catalani, Baroness Astrid Ungern-Sternberg, Miss Mary Bradley, Miss Eleanor Crain, Miss Marion Jardine, Miss Elsie Alexander, Miss Rahel Davies and Miss Faith Phillips.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. James Lowe entertained at an informal supper party for Miss Tuckerman and her out-of-town guests.

Miss Virginia Richards, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. R. C. Moffett, in Charleston, W. Va., for the last month, has returned to her home in Park road.

and Mrs. Hughes, Maj. Gen. Wendell C. Neville, commandant of the Marine Corps, and Rear Admiral Arthur L. Willard, commandant of the Washington Navy Yard, and Mrs. Willard were also box holders.

There was no formal receiving line, but members of the dance committee welcomed the guests. With the Navy Band and the Marine Band providing the music and many of the masculine guests in uniform, there was a distinctly military note to the fete, which was further emphasized by the flags and ensigns used as decorations. There are 200 subscribers to this series of dances, most of whom were present and many of whom had guests.

Many dinner parties were arranged to precede the dance. Among those who entertained in the Willard Room of the hotel were Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz, Rear Admiral J. J. Cheatham, Commander C. F. Russell, Commander Russell S. Crenshaw, Lieut. Comdr. Edward L. Marshall, Capt. and Mrs. W. S. William, Capt. F. G. Byne, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Wheatley and Maj. and Mrs. Edward H. Coveer.

Maj. and Mrs. Conger's guests were Mrs. Roy W. Hebard, Senator Arthur Capper, Rear Admiral George Day, Gen. and Mrs. A. C. Dalton, Capt. and Mrs. S. S. Sandburg, Col. and Mrs. Davis Chaffin, Maj. and Mrs. Robert Eichelberger, Mr. George Peck, Counselor of the United States Legation in Panama, and Mrs. Peck; Mrs. Thomas Shock, Mrs. Robert Hinckley, Miss Mary Lackey, Mr. Daingerfield Addison and Mr. Jack Nesbit.

Commander and Mrs. William I. Causey, jr., entertained eighteen guests at the dance. They have recently returned to Washington after being stationed on the West Coast.

Word has been received of the appointment of Count Rogeri as Italian Consul General in Ottawa. He will assume his duties early in January. Count Rogeri served as Counselor of the Italian Embassy in Washington before going to London, where he has been for two years.

Both the Count and Countess Rogeri were among the most popular members of the Diplomatic Corps during their stay here.

Capt. Manell, who has been "chef de cabinet" to Premier Mussolini for several years, will take Count Rogeri's place in London.

Mrs. Miles Poindexter has left Washington for a six weeks' trip to the West Coast. Stopping first in Chicago, she will later visit her son, Lieut. Comdr. Gale A. Poindexter, U. S. N., in San Diego, Calif., and will afterward make visits in Los Angeles, Seattle and Spokane.

Mrs. Sydney Cloman entertained at dinner last evening at her home on Kalorama road.

Baroness Oppenheim, of New York, is a member of the party of the American Institute of Park Executives, now at the Willard. Mr. Hermann W. Merkel, president of the institute, arrived late yesterday afternoon with twenty members of the institute and will stop off for a visit of several days before going South.

Mrs. Hoover Heads Navy Ball Group.

Mrs. Hoover heads the list of patronesses for the Navy Relief Ball to be held at the Willard on November 28, Thanksgiving night.

Among others who will act as patronesses are Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, Mrs. William D. Mitchell, Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Mrs. Lyman Wilbur, Mrs. Willard Brownson, Miss Mabel Boardman, Mrs. Frank Letts and Mrs. Sydney Cloman.

The Board of Lady Visitors of the Children's Hospital will entertain at luncheon today at the hospital for members of the board of directors and members of the hospital committee of the Community Chest. This will follow the monthly meeting of the Board of Lady Visitors and will be followed in turn by a meeting of the budget committee. Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke, president of the Board of Lady Visitors, will preside. She has but recently returned to Washington after attending the Girl Scout convention in New Orleans.

Mrs. H. O. Williams, wife of Gen. Williams, entertained a company of six at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Mrs. Anne Wright Reininger, who has been living in New York, will come to Washington, her old home, on Sunday to visit her mother, Mrs. C. W. Huske, at her residence in Mintwood place. As Miss Anne Wright Huske, Mrs. Reininger was picked by De Lancey Nichols, New York artist, as the most beautiful woman in Washington society at a ball held in Washington a few years ago.

Miss Russell Is Wed To Mr. Carl F. Myers,

The marriage of Miss Tuna Frances Russell, daughter of Mr. Percy H. Russell, to Mr. Carl Ferdinand Myers, son of Mr. Carl L. Myers, of Chicago, Ill., took place at noon yesterday. The ceremony was performed in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church in the presence of only the families. The wedding was planned for June of next year, but owing to Mr. Myers' transfer to the Pacific Coast, the date was advanced and the simple arrangements hurriedly made.

The bride wore a traveling costume of crepe in the new oak leaf shade, made with a full circular skirt and fitted shirred bodice, the neckline finished with angora.

Miss Florence Peters, of Erie, Pa., was maid of honor and was in dahlia crepe, and Mr. William R. Russell, brother of the bride, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Myers left later in the day for their new home in Seattle, Wash., where Mr. Myers has been transferred from Chicago. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Mrs. Myers is a recent graduate of Simmons College in Boston.

The National League of American Pen Women will entertain at the second of its series of celebrity breakfasts, November 30, at 12 o'clock at the Willard Hotel. The program, which is to have a number of distinctive features, has been practically completed, under the direction of the national president, Mrs. Clarence M. Busch. A number of tables have already been taken, and others in advantageous locations may be secured from the social bureau of the Willard Hotel through Mrs. Philip Lee Phillips.

Mrs. Harry Dawson will have as her guests at the breakfast Mrs. Robert Beale and Miss Sophie Beale. Mrs. R. Winston Holt will have in her party Mrs. Alber J. Gore and Mrs. George H. Kennedy. Mrs. Virginia Swanson will be the guest of Dr. Sarah M. Huddleson, and among others who have made reservations are Mrs. J. S. Griffith, Mrs. A. J. Seaton, Mrs. I. C. Hanscom and Mrs. E. M. Bullard.

Mrs. M. Taylor Pyne, jr., and Mrs. J. Arden Harriman, of New York City, are at the Carlton for a few days.

Riding and Hunt Club Opens Season Saturday.

The Riding and Hunt Club will start the hunting season on Saturday, the field assembling at end of Massachusetts avenue extended at 3 p. m. Miss Elizabeth Jackson will be mistress of hounds with Miss Winifred West and Mr. John Finnerty as whips.

Among the many sportsmen who are planning to follow the new pack of hounds purchased by the club are Maj. and Mrs. George Patton, Miss Polly Foraker, Miss Maude Preece, Miss Louise Myers, Miss Lucy Hatcher, of Trinity College; Mrs. Arthur A. Snyder and her daughters, Miss Katherine and Miss Sophy Snyder, and Mr. H. T. Cole.

Also Miss Margo Couzens, Miss Elizabeth Bunting, Mrs. Marshall Orme Exnicios, Mrs. A. D. Court, Mrs. Natalie Coleman, Mr. Healy, of New York, and Miss Grace Razer.

Mrs. Clarence M. Busch will entertian at luncheon Monday, at the Willard Hotel, following the weekly discussion, "Things Talked About," by Mrs. Nina Swaim Reed, one feature of whose program for that morning will be a review of "The Red Fog," jointly compiled by Mrs. Busch and Mrs. Lucia R. Maxwell, from facts amassed over a number of years, and just off the press. Mrs. Reed will also talk of "The Status of Political Parties in Europe Today," and will tell of the origin of the Victoria Cross in connection with her discussion of "The Prince of Wales and the V. C.'s."

The annual bazaar and turkey dinner under the auspices of the Rector's Aid of St. Margaret's Church will be held Thursday and Friday, November 21 and 22d at the parish house, Connecticut avenue and Bancroft place.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Alexander M. Bull, vice president of the Rector's Aid, the bazaar, always an outstanding event on Washington's social calendar, will have many new and novel features this year.

Mrs. Willoughby Chesley's circle will have charge of the dinner and will be assisted by Girl Scouts and choir members.

Others assisting Mrs. Bull and representing the nine circles that comprise the Rector's Aid are the following:

Miss Carolene E. Smith who will have an attractive display at her arts-utility booth.

Mrs. Joseph S. Wall will feature a unique pumpkin grab bag, also "Hoop-La" and will serve ice cream.

Mrs. Albert W. Atwood will be in charge of cakes and pies and Mrs. W. Wayne Wirgmans will have candy.

Mrs. Edmund H. Parry's white elephant number will be augmented with fortune telling by Mrs. William Akers.

Tea will be served by Mrs. E. R. Martin, who will also have a display of very attractive miscellaneous articles.

The Sunday school booth, Mrs. Robert T. Shores, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Claes Dickson-Hallencreutz and Mrs. Florence Turner, will feature dolls.

Mrs. Claes Dickson-Hallencreutz will interpret character from handwriting.

The bridge tables will be in charge of Mrs. Nina Chinn Walker; moving pictures will be shown by Master Charles Turner.

Dr. Herbert Scott Smith is rector of St. Margaret's Church and the Rev. Robert J. Shores is assistant and superintendent of the Sunday school.

Mrs. David E. Barry entertained last evening in compliment to Miss Florence M. Yocum, who was the winner in the Atwater Kent radio contest in the District of Columbia. Miss Yocum will compete in the national contest to be held in New York on November 22.

League Is Entertained.

Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell, president of the League of the American Civil Service, entertained a group of 30 members of the organization Wednesday night at the apartment in the East Clifton Terrace in line with similar gatherings she is conducting to discuss the league's tenta-

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

By MARIE PAULETTE

A MODEL that is extremely chic for street and general wear is the one I'm showing today in delightful mellow tones in featherweight woolen in Spanish red.

An individual scarf collar lends interesting contrast in black sheer velvet, repeated in turn-back cuffs of fitted sleeves.

It is exceptionally slenderizing with low-placed circular fullness of skirt and fashionable curved hipline emphasized by seaming and yoke.

Style No. 8221 is amazingly easy to make. The two-piece bodice is seamed at sides and shoulders. The two-piece hip yoke is seamed and stitched to bodice, and it is ready for two-piece circular skirt that has been joined at sides to be attached to hip yoke. The dress is now almost completed ready for sleeves to be set into armholes and collar attached at neckline.

It is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. In the medium size, 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ⅜ yard of 39-inch contrasting is all that is needed to make this swagger dress.

It also can be worked out nicely in the two surfaces of crepe satin. Cut the collar, cuffs and hip yoke of the dull surface. Choose black, dark brown or maroon glace.

Canton crepe in bottle green, hunter's green wool jersey, midnight blue wool crepe, printed sheer velvet in burgundy tones, plum shade in faille silk crepe and plain black sheer velvet charming combinations.

The collar is also very smart made of flat fur, as galyak, caracul or Persian lamb.

For a pattern of today's style, fill out coupon, writing very clearly, and be sure to state number and size of pattern. Send coupon with 15 cents (stamps or coin) to Fashion Bureau, The Washington Post, 259 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

All our styles are created in Paris of New York. Every pattern contains full directions. No experience necessary. Very easy to use and guaranteed to fit perfectly.

BANKRUPTCY LOSS CALLED $6,000,000

Patrons of New York Firm Will Suffer Heavily in Failure.

RECORDS ARE EXAMINED

New York, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Patrons of the bankrupt Bankers Capital Corporation and its twelve affiliated companies will lose $6,000,000 through the crash of the firm on November 11, George J. Mintzer, assistant United States attorney, estimated today.

Mintzer made his estimate after a survey of the company's records, and further data are expected from the Irving Trust Co., receiver for the firm, which is carrying on an investigation of its own. Investigators report that the corporation's bookkeeping system was complicated.

The Bankers Capital Corporation and its affiliated companies operated in several States. Records of patrons living in New Jersey, South Bend, Ind., and New England have been discovered. All are believed to have lost money through their stock dealings with the companies.

E. J. Sturges, former banking commissioner of Connecticut and president of the Bankers Capital Co. of Connecticut, has been subpenaed to appear here tomorrow before Federal investigators. Subpenas have been issued for other officers of the Bankers Capital concerns. All will be questioned concerning the firm's activities.

wastes from Nome to where the 50-foot Nanuk is held fast by Arctic ice off extreme Eastern Siberia.

Then, with his passenger and the furs, he flew back on the long, cold journey.

From Albert Herskovitz, head of a wholesale fur house affiliated with the Swenson Co., came details of the voyage of the Nanuk.

"It left Seattle," he said, "during the summer, for a long voyage up the North American coast, thence across Bering Strait to the Siberian fur country. It is manned by a crew of four Russians. Aboard as passengers went a Mr. Pollister, Seattle fur man, and his daughter.

Caught by Early Winter.

"The Nanuk was making its way to its home port in September when an early Arctic winter overtook it off Cape North. How word of its plight was conveyed to the mainland we do not know. Apparently a member of the crew reached shore across the ice, or when it became overdue a search for it was begun. At any rate, Eielson was engaged to bring the crew, passengers and cargo to Nome.

"We have been advised that, now that rescue is reasonably certain, Pollister and his daughter intend remaining on the Nanuk until the last of the fur is brought safely ashore. The first passenger that Eielson flew into Nome, then, is undoubtedly one of the crew."

Eielson first achieved fame as a pilot for Sir Hubert Wilkins on his Arctic flights in 1927. In the following year came their historic non-stop hop from Point Barrow, Alaska, across the polar wastes to Spitzbergen. Last fall Eielson went with Wilkins to Antarctica, where they performed further exploits in aerial exploration.

Eielson Known Here.

While serving as a guard in the House Office Building shortly after the World War, Carl Ben Eielson, former service aviator, dreamed the dreams which have made him the hero of the frozen Arctic regions.

Coming to Washington, fresh from active air service during the closing months of the war with his second lieutenant's commission tucked carefully away among his belongings, Eielson was apointed a House Office guard by Representative Olger B. Burtness of Eielson's home district in North Dakota. He planned to resume here the study of law he had abandoned when he entered the service.

During the year he spent in Washington Eielson confided his dreams of using aviation to conquer the barren wastes of the frozen northlands, to Dan A. Sutherland, delegate to the United States Congress from the Territory of Alaska, and Representative Burtness. Led only by the inspiration of his dreams, Eielson left the Capital in 1922 and went alone to Fairbanks, Alaska. He obtained a position teaching English and mathematics in the town high school. But he went to Fairbanks with a purpose. Before many months he had gained an interest in his scheme and formed a company to do commercial flying from Fairbanks.

With an old "Jenny" Army plane which his company, the Fairbanks Airplane Corporation, had purchased, Eielson launched a pasenger service and added to the revenues by doing stunt flying during the summer of 1923. During 1924 he gained a contract from the Government to carry mail from Fairbanks to McGrath, a distance of 550 miles. Later in the same year, the flyer returned to the United States and reentered the Air Service at Langley Field for a year, during which he gained his first lieutenancy.

He returned to the Arctic region in 1926 with Capt. George Hubert Wilkins, and since then has gained fame for his flights in those Northern lands.

College Officials Chosen.

Chicago, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Officers elected by the Association of Land Grant Colleges today were Andrew H. Soule, Georgia, president; Alfred Atkinson, Montana, vice president; Thomas P. Cooper, Texas, secretary; J. L. Mills, Vermont, treasurer, and F. B. Mumford, Missouri, executive committeeman.

Coal Yard Office Robbed.

Jimmying a side door, thieves gained entrance to the office of a coal yard at 916 W street northwest early yesterday and escaped with $12. The robbery was discovered by Goodman Kay, of 4423 Iowa avenue northwest, when he opened the office yesterday morning.

DOCKETED JUDGMENTS.

structure in Broadway near 125th street.

Commissioner Whalen, assuming immediate personal charge of the case, was the first to call attention to the relationship of Schubert's murder to the other four. He disclosed that today's victim, whose address was given only as "somewhere on Long Island," had been a partner of James Batto, whose bullet-riddled body was found in a sedan at Fifth avenue and 107th street last September 11 in a slot-machine racket in northern New Jersey and probably also in other gambling and liquor ventures.

Batto, in turn, was hooked up with Thomas Ahern, another slot-machine racketeer, who was found murdered in an automobile in East 101st street two days later. All are said to have had intimate associations with Florio Chicone, whose body was discovered in a parked automobile at First avenue and 101st street August 28, and with James (Bugs) Donovan, of Hoboken, who met a similar fate on the upper West Side early in September.

Only in the apparent ferocity with which he had been killed did Schubert's murder differ from the others. Besides seven bullet wounds, four in the head, two in the chest and one through the right arm, which virtually tore the upper part of the man's body and his head to pieces, Schubert's chest had been burned apparently with hot irons and his left ear had been cut off.

The murder, and what police believe was the torture that preceded it, did not occur in the automobile. Declared dead at least 24 hours, Schubert is believed to have been held captive for a similar period before he was put to death. Aghast at the evidence of the burns, Commissioner Whalen and his aids laid stress on the fact of the severed ear, which was not with the body, and pointed to indications that it had been cut from the racketeer's head while he was still alive.

The crime was discovered through the report of Thomas De Nucci, a city street cleaner, that the automobile had been parked under the subway viaduct all day. Police from the West 100th street station, with whom he communicated, found the body under a pile of coats which concealed it from the view of passersby. It was fully clothed in an overcoat and blue suit, which, although blood-stained, were not burned. Schubert's automobile license was in a pocket of the suit.

With the flash of the news to police headquarters it was immediately recalled that Mrs. Schubert, known also as Nellie Golden, had reported there Wednesday that her husband had been missing since the day before. Through fingerprints the victim definitely was identified as Schubert.

Beyond pointing out Schubert's police record, and his known activities as a racketeer, police offered no theory as to the immediate motive for the crime.

concerning the actual shooting was announced. Ingram announced after the conference that between $1,800 and $2,000 worth of wines and liquors were found in Sabray's automobile. This was taken here by Federal officials.

Announcement also was made that the men would be under suspension while the case was being investigated, this being the usual procedure under such conditions.

Nothing could be ascertained as to which of the two patrolmen fired the fatal shot or the circumstances under which the shooting occurred. Sabray was brought to the General Hospital at Potsdam in his own automobile by one of the two patrolmen, the second following in another machine. They took whatever personal belongings Sabray had, overlooking a pocketbook from which identification was made.

Sabray died several hours later without regaining consciousness. The bullet penetrated his skull in the back of the head and tore its way through the left eye. An autopsy will be performed on the body.

State and Federal authorities were notified immediately, and a few hours later the patrolmen reported to their superiors. The conference followed, and their suspension was announced, while both agencies continued their investigations.

Potsdam, N. Y., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Ernest Sabray, 27-year-old iron worker at the Brasher Iron Works in Brasher Falls, who was brought to the General Hospital here earlier today with a bullet wound in his head, died shortly before 11 a. m. Sabray was left at the hospital by a man wearing the uniform of a United States border patrolman.

Corn Husking Contest Over Air at Noon

Guests at Platte, Mo., Will Be Heard 12:45 This Afternoon — Miss Yokum and Fraser to Sing—Breakfast News.

Sounds peculiar to that distinctly American rural sport of competitive corn husking will be heard this afternoon at 12:45 o'clock from WRC when the National Broadcasting Co. will broadcast a description of events in connection with the sixth annual national corn husking contest at Platte City, Mo.

Listeners will first hear an explanation of the event and the conditions under which the contest is held. Then as the Nation's best corn huskers' race down the rows of standing corn, the microphone will follow them, picking up the sounds of corn being ripped from the stalk and the thump of the picked and husked ears as they are tossed into the wagon boxes. NBC engineers have been busy for two weeks setting up the complicated broadcasting circuits necessary to handle this unusual broadcast, the first of its kind on a network. The contest is sponsored by the Standard Farm Papers and the Capper Farm Press.

Opportunity to hear Florence Yocum, lyric soprano, and Gilbert Fraser, tenor, who will represent the District of Columbia at the semi-finals of the Third National Radio Audition, sponsored by the Atwater Kent Foundation, will be given radio listeners at 7 o'clock from WRC, where the two young singers will be presented in joint recital by the National Broadcasting Co. Miss Yocum, who was known in her previous broadcast only by the number "3" and Mr. Fraser, who was known as number "4," will sing the songs that won them the title of being the best young singers in the District at the District finals on October 30. Miss Gretchen Hood, teacher and coach of Miss Yocum, has prepared the program.

On the evening of November 20, these two young singers will compete with the State champions of the New England and Middle Atlantic States for the privilege of entering the national finals, to be held on December 15. The semifinals next week will be broadcast through a large network, including WRC.

Walter Damrosch's radio music appreciation classes will study "From Minuet to Waltz" and "The Classic Suite" at 11 o'clock this morning from WRC. The program follows:

First half hour: "From Minuet to Waltz"—Minuet from "Symphony in E Flat" (Mozart), "Waltz in A Flat" (Schubert) and "Morning Papers Waltz" (Johann Strauss).

Second half hour: "The Classic Suite"—Suite from "Iphigenia in Aulis" (Gluck).

Two piano solos by Frank Banta are featured in a program of modern compositions reflecting a variety of moods in the Cities Service presentation to be broadcast at 8 o'clock from WRC. The Cavaliers will sing "On the Banks of the Wabash" and "I'se Gwine Back to Dixie." John Seagle, barytone, will be heard in a solo number.

The Schradertown Band, Planters Pickers and Amos 'n' Andy are among the features which will be heard during the later evening.

Two local girls will be heard in a fifteen-minute recital at 6:45 o'clock, when Finette Walker, soprano, and Ruth Harris, pianist, face the microphone at Station WMAL.

Jan Garber and his orchestra will be presented for an hour of dance music between 11 o'clock and midnight, preceded by Daguerreotypes, Bremer-Tully Time and the story hour.

"Breakfast Brevities" from The Washington Post" will be broadcast at 8:15 o'clock this morning by Station WOL.

A new soloist, Mabel Owens, mezzo-soprano, will be heard from the station at 6:15 o'clock, after which the "Let's Go Fishing" period and the regular dinner music are to be heard.

An American Red Cross address will be broadcast from WJSV at 7:20 o'clock.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, from 5:10 p. m. to 6:30 p. m., and from 10.30 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger period is from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m.

This is a fortunate time for general business affairs; industry will bear good fruit. A romantic attachment may bring a peck of troubles. Do not set a false value on transient things!

Children born on this November 15 will have critical and somewhat opinionated, aggressive natures. They will be born leaders and will demand this role upon life's stage. They will be very fond of music and will be inveterate readers.

You have a very impulsive nature and you do and say things quickly, often repenting at your leisure. It is not always enough to know, but one must also weigh. You have a very warm heart, but it is not always accompanied by a cool head. When your emotions are aroused, you are as wax in the hands of the one who has awakened them. You rely entirely upon your intuitive powers, as you can not, and do not, logically think things out.

You weary of things rather quickly and this applies to both people and places. You crave changes, excitement and food for your emotions. Distance with you always loans enchantment and you almost always return to your old loves with fresh enthusiasms. You can not be relied upon to be the same today, tomorrow and the next day—you are too temperamental for this to be expected. In the long run, you aim to do the right thing and your disloyalties are only temporary in character. You are naturally very kind-hearted, but when crossed, you can be ruthless and cruel.

You work hard when in a proper mood. You are a slave to labor one day and an onlooker the next. You have "money sense," and you are not afraid to take flying chances.

Successful people born November 15:

Thurlow Weed—Founder of the Albany Evening Journal.

Edgar L. Davenport—Actor.

Franklin Pierce Adams—Author.

Vincent Astor—Capitalist.

William F. Durfee—Engineer and inventor.

MADELEINE DE SCUDERY, one of the most famous of the French precieuses, or wits, born this day, 1607. She left 10 volumes of poems, romances, conversations and moral discussions. These writings reflect the character and society of the Hotel de Rambouillet. Her romances are filled with endless conversations of the most refined subtlety. In the days when the characters in her writings were yet alive, they were read with intense interest.

Nina Morgana, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was born this day, 1895, in Buffalo. She studied in Italy and made her debut there. After appearing successfully in various roles in Milan she came to America and toured as soloist with the New York Symphony Orchestra. In 1919 she made a concert tour with Enrico Caruso. She has been with the Metropolitan Opera since 1920.

Josephine S. Baker, noted American physician, was born this day, 1873. From 1903 to 1923 she was director of the bureau of child hygiene in New York City, the first of its kind in this country. She is a member for the United States of the health commission of the League of Nations. Other noted women born this day include Alice Barrows, American educator, 1879, and Bertha Sinclair-Cowan, author, 1875.

"IN THE PLAYHOUSE"

by JOHN J. DALY

L. STODDARD TAYLOR, celebrating his twenty-fifth year as manager of the Belasco Theater, is receiving congratulations from friends in and out of the profession.

It was right after the name Lafayette was taken from over the front door that Mr. Taylor, young and handsome, stepped into the second-floor sanctum of the newly named Belasco. About this time, James Hay, jr., the novelist and newspaperman, and a frequenter of the old Lafayette Turkish Baths, that were under the theater, where the Green Room is now, startled the lit'ry world with an important work of fiction, "The Man Who Forgot." The theme had to do with the lost art of drinking, and some temperance society bought about 300,000 copies of the tome, thus thrusting it immediately into the front rank of best sellers. Stoddard Taylor hoped they would dramatize this story so that the Belasco would have a new hit on its hands; but, alas, Jim Hay never got around to playwrighting. The story, I believe, was written in the old Lafayette Baths.

As part of the celebration attending Mr. Taylor's twenty-fifth year at the Belasco, his old friend, Joseph M. Gaites, a high and mighty official in the Shubert offices, is sending to town a play that bears the intriguing title, "Death Takes a Holiday." In the lead role is Philip Merivale, last seen here with Jane Cowl in "Jealous Moon," and before that supporting the same star in "The Road to Rome," which had its premiere in the Belasco three seasons ago, as time flies.

"DEATH Takes a Holiday" is being brought to town by a new organization of actors, composed of foremost players from this and European countries. The play, a fantasy fashioned by Walter Ferris from the Italian work of Alberta Casella, has its American premiere in the Belasco Monday night.

Naturally, "Death Takes a Holiday" labors under an awkward title, and some of the men keenly interested in the entertainment fear that the general public may shy away on this count alone. "Why should they?" asks Stoddard Taylor, who recounts that if death takes a holiday, this is a grand occasion for all humanity. Of course, the play's theme is one that could not possibly happen. The story deals with death's appearance on earth as a mere man, a shape he assumes to experience emotions that previously were denied him. On his "holiday," as he terms it, nothing can die, nothing can wither, nothing can crumble or decay. Certainly this would create a strange state of affairs. The effect is forcibly seen upon the family that death visits, as a guest, upon his earthly sojourn. Therein, too, is provided the drama.

Quite a large and goodly cast will be seen in support of Philip Merivale, playing the lead. One of the outstanding members is James Dale. Others are Roland Bottomley, Viva Birkett, Ann Orr, Wallace Erskine, Martin Burton, Olga Birkbeck, Lorna Lawrence, Katherine Hepburn, Frank Greene and Thomas Bate.

The play has been staged by Lawrence Marston.

FOR fear anyone might think that 25 years—or a quarter of a century—is so long in one position that Stoddard Taylor, functioning at the Belasco, is about to be wheeled out of our fair city and into the discard, this addendum is made: Stoddard was in his teens when he first came to Washington, from the old Hooley Theater, in Chicago. From one who has known him since his arrival, Mr. Nelson Bell, the boy motion-picture editor, it is learned that Stoddard Taylor looks the same now as he did then, back at the beginning of the century. As one who has watched his work for the Shuberts it might well be here attested that he is the same efficient, affable, and able manager who has known the stars of two generations.

• • • •

WHILE "Death Takes a Holiday" is the only straight drama booked for Washington next week, the National comes to the fore with a novelty motion-picture film, "Hunting Tigers in India," said to be the first time the talkies were pressed into service in the jungle. Hence, Arthur Clarendon Smith, the noted member of the Lions, who entertains theatrical stars at his weekly luncheons in the Mayflower, may step down to the National and really "Hear Them Lions Roar."

• • • •

Over on Pennsylvania avenue, Mr. T. D. Bonneville, manager of Poli's, is making ready for the twenty-fourth annual visit of Thurston, the Magician. That announcement is sufficient to bring out the rarely used "S. R. O." sign.

Dan Interprets the Mode

Modernistic interpretation of fur coats. (A Dah-ray design.)

SO-O-O-O, fur coats again become a problem! We just got a couple out of Summer storage—and they certainly were a problem!

Right away I'm reminded of my pet fur story—about the time I received a petition or something of the sort from a group of kind-hearted people who had turned themselves the Anti-Something-or-Other and requested that I write against the wearing of furs—the poor little things! The fur-bearing animals, I mean, not the petitioners.

While giving the matter serious consideration, I attended a charity fete sans fur evening wrap—and woke up ten days later on the last lap of a trip to the moon on the S. S. Pneumonia.

Whereupon I decided with much gusto that one lovely lady was worth ten thousand rabbits or ermines or minks or whatever Nature saw fit to provide her with for her protection. And still think so.

But it must be understood by the woman with the average pocketbook that there is a sensible way to be fur-coated, and an extravagant way. A fur coat should be an investment, properly undertaken after due consideration, and wisely handled. Certain furs wear much better than others, and there are certain furs that are appropriate for everyday wear, others that are not.

If you feel that you can afford a wrap of one of the delicate furs, for instance, wear it only for dress, and either have a hardier fur for street wear or a cloth sport coat. Sable, squirrel and mink, fashioned into luxurious wraps and worn in the morning are an admission—of ostentatious poor taste.

And then there is something to be said on the same score regarding the ermine evening wrap. It would seem to me that if a woman could afford an ermine wrap she could well afford to put that same amount of money into something less transparently elegant and more subtle.

And then, our Summer fox. When it has rather reached the point where it will not do for the coming Summer, it can and it should be detailed, opened, cleaned and combed, and used as trimming—the inevitable end of all good little foxes.

So-o-o-o, that for our fur flutters of today! And all the time La Chic Secretaire was pounding that out on the typewriter, I was sketching for you a goofy lady, who is supposed to make you think "furrish" by just looking at her! No, she's not wearing any particular fur coat, but you are supposed to think of the one you are going to get by just looking at it. So much, my darlings, for modernistic art!

From furs to gorgeous lovely goofy boudoir dolls is really not such a big step—for us. Because, sh-h-h-h, we have an adorable boudoir doll, who sits in the corner of our usually open window, serenely oblivious to Jack Frost's sparkling flirtation, dressed as she is in a fur negligee and nonchalant fur-lined Russian boots.

And, sh-h-h-h, her furred loveliness is due to nothing more nor less than the fact that we had that kind of fur coat once! If you would like to know how to make her and several other equally interesting an exotic sisters, send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet of this week.

The weekly Dare fashion letter appears in the Capital exclusively in The Washington Post on Sundays. Are you looking for it?

Circus Plans Rushed By Federal Employes

Plans are going rapidly forward for the circus revue to be staged next month by the District Federation of Federal Employes Union for the benefit of a building fund. Several animal acts, performing ponies, and trained monkeys have already been booked for the show, it was said yesterday at the circus headquarters, 710 Fourteenth street.

Keen rivalry is developing in the contest to name "Miss Federal Employe," according to Elmer C. Hooper, chairman. Votes were received yesterday from the Pacific Coast for Miss Mary E. Laughlin, secretary to the Commissioner of Pensions.

New Members Guests At Y. M. C. A. Reception

Members enrolled in a recent campaign were guests of honor Wednesday night at a housewarming and reception at the Young Men's Christian Association, 1736 G street northwest. R. G. Dunlap, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, general chairman of the campaign and active in the Y. M. C. A. work, welcomed the new members.

A dinner was the first event on the program, followed by a tour of the building. Leonard W. DeGast, general secretary, and C. E. Fleming, service director of the Y. M. C. A., extended greetings to the new members while William B. Burrus addressed the group on opportunities offered by the association.

Plans Are Announced For Epiphany Bazaar

Featuring cafeteria luncheons for business men and women, the annual pre-Thanksgiving bazaar of the Church of the Epiphany, 1317 G street northwest, will be held Tuesday and Wednesday in the parish house. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Epiphany Church Home at 1221 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

Mrs. Philip J. Ryan is in charge of the luncheon service, while on Tuesday evening only a supper will be served. Mrs. Edgar Snowden is in charge of arrangements for this portion of the bazaar. Mrs. ZeBarney T. Phillips is chairman of arrangements for the bazaar.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau. Washington, Thursday, Nov. 14—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia—Rain Friday; colder Friday afternoon and night; Saturday fair; moderate southwest, shifting to northwest winds Friday.

For Maryland and Virginia—Rain Friday; colder Friday afternoon and night; Saturday fair; moderate southwest, shifting to northwest winds.

The trough of low pressure has made very slow eastward progress during the last 24 hours, and it now extends from western New York south-southwestward to the northwest Florida coast. Buffalo, N. Y., 29.82 inches. The northwestern disturbance has moved east-southeastward, and it extends from Hudson Straits southwestward to Wisconsin, lowest reported pressure, White River, Ont., 29.54 inches. These disturbances have caused general rains from the Mississippi Valley eastward to the Atlantic coast, and rain or snow in western Missouri and the southern Plains States. The rainfall was excessive in Alabama, southeastern Mississippi and eastern Tennessee, Birmingham, Ala., reporting a 24-hour amount of 4.52 inches, and Meridian, Miss., 3.44 inches. Still another disturbance, which is of wide extent and marked intensity, is advancing rapidly east-southeastward over Alaska, the Mackenzie Basin, and northern British Columbia, Cordova, Alaska, 28.94 inches. Pressure is still high, but falling slowly over the western half of the United States, Lander, Wyo., 30.62 inches, and it is relatively high from Newfoundland southward over the ocean to Florida, Cape Race, N. F., 30.18 inches. The temperature has risen in the Plateau and Rocky Mountain regions, South Dakota, and Nebraska and the weather continues unseasonably warm in the Eastern States. The temperature has fallen from Kentucky southward to the middle Gulf coast.

There will be rain Friday in the Atlantic States, the lower Lake region, the Ohio Valley, and northeastern Tennessee, and generally fair weather is indicated for practically the entire Washington forecast district during Saturday. The temperature will be lower in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the lower Lake region Friday, in the Middle Atlantic and South Atlantic States Friday afternoon and night, and in the North Atlantic States Friday night and Saturday. The weather will become slightly warmer Saturday in Kentucky and Tennessee.

ABUSES ARE HINTED IN PURCHASE OF GAS

MAY CAMPAIGN HERE

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

If Washington motorists, like those of Cleveland, are being short-measured and otherwise victimized in the purchase of gasoline, the chances are that they themselves are largely responsible for the situation. Save by those whose individual interests incline them to spectacular pronouncements on the subject, the car owner is declared to foster the practices which cost him heavily by his mounting indifference in making gasoline purchases.

Interest in the subject has been aroused in the National Capital as a result of an intimation that a campaign similar to that in Cleveland would be undertaken here. The Cleveland expose, which revealed that short measuring practices were costing motorists of that city $20,000 a day, has evoked wide attention in all parts of the country.

Those who take a constructive view of the situation point out that many safeguards have been thrown about the purchase of motor fuels. These, however, are declared limited in their effectiveness by the degree with which they are applied by the purchaser.

Car Owners Are Negligent.

It is widely believed that the chief loss to the motor car owner in the purchase of fuels is that which he inflicts, in part, by his own attitude. The practice by which he loses is that of the individual filling station employe taking advantage of the buyer's indifference to the transfer of the fuel to hold out a part of the gallonage ordered. In this fashion, the pump operator builds up in the supply tank perhaps five or ten gallons of fuel for which he does not have to account to the station operator. This fuel obtained by short measuring from 10 to 20 or more individual purchasers the attendant may sell and pocket the money himself.

Many feel the graft is distinctly a petty one although in the aggregate it may amount to a considerably daily loss to car owners in a large city. It is seriously doubted that there is any justice in sensing an organized, far-reaching campaign to mulct car owners in this fashion.

The more logical, fair explanation is held to be that the motorist lays himself open to this abuse by not taking advantage of the protection that is placed around his gasoline buying.

Agencies Can Check Abuse.

Numerous agencies and conditions combine in providing this protection. There is, for instance, the United States Bureau of Standards. Its connection with the situation is indirect, but positive. The bureau, of course, is not concerned with possible sharp practices in the marketing of commodities sold by volume. It is, however, vitally interested in seeing that specifications and tolerances are prepared for the development of accurate metering devices for the sale of gasoline as well as other commodities.

In its cooperation with the National Conference on Weights and Measures which is composed of officials of State weights and measures agencies, the bureau has helped to determine a code of sound specifications and tolerances for metering equipment. In this code, as applied to metering equipment, it is provided among other things:

That gasoline pumps shall be fitted with accurate indicators which are easily read and comprehended.

Specifications Are Exact.

That they shall be of such design, construction, and materials as to withstand ordinary usage without impairment of their accuracy or the correct functioning of operating or indicating parts.

That they shall be so designed that fuel shall flow only from a designated outlet.

That such devices shall be so constructed and sealed that tampering with them will be exceptionally difficult.

These specifications which are in force in a majority of States are not a positive guarantee that pumps shall not be fraudulently manipulated. But, as many point out, fraudulent manipulation is very largely unnecessary even if the operator so desired because it is so much easier merely to short measure the buyer as a result of his nonattention to the transfer of fuel from the pump to his car's gasoline tank.

How Abuse Can Be Remedied.

To end the evil that has grown out of this situation, it is recommended that the fuel buyer simply pay more attention to the transaction. Every pump from which he is supplied with gasoline is equipped with an indicator which he can read and understand without difficulty. If he paid attention to this indicator, most observers feel, this would remove temptation from the path of the filling station attendant, who otherwise might be inclined to indulge in the petty graft of short measuring.

It is felt in many informed quarters that the majority of filling station employes are scrupulously honest. The cunning minority who are sometimes more misguided than dishonest can be curbed for the most part by the fuel buyer's different attitude.

Many extra-legal conditions combine to safeguard the motorist in this respect. Primary among these are the attitudes of the makers of metering equipment and the oil companies and individuals who use this equipment.

Pump Producers Are Careful.

In pointing out this fact, observers declare that the manufacturer of fuel pumps could not remain in business unless he made a device that met the legal specifications as to accuracy of design and construction. None of the large operators of filling stations could be numbered among the patrons of a manufacturer whose equipment fell short of this standard, it is maintained. Obviously, it is upon this class of patronage that the manufacturer primarily depends.

As to the attitude of the oil refiners and other large retailers of fuels and lubricants, it is declared to be that only the highest standard of fair dealing with the public is possible in this day of stiff and unrelenting competition. In addition to providing the best of volume measuring equipment, such organizations usually maintain inspection staffs which are constantly checking conditions prevailing at the individual station.

Such are the safeguards given the motorist in buying gasoline. If he will make unobtrusive but definite use of them, the feeling prevails that the short measuring situation, over which some are inclined to grow hysterical, will be short lived.

Two Lose Appeal In Sewer Scandal

Connolly and Seely Must Serve Time for Fraud, High Court Rules.

New York, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The appellate division of the supreme court, by a vote of 3 to 2, today upheld the conviction of former Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens, charged with conspiracy to defraud the city in the $16,000,000 sewer scandal.

The conviction and sentence of Frederick B. Seely, Queens Borough engineer under Connolly, also was upheld by the court.

First action against Connolly and the so-called Queens sewer ring was taken late in 1927.

On April 2, 1928, Connolly resigned as borough president and on June 22, the late John M. Phillips and Seely were indicted on charges of irregularities in $16,000,000 worth of sewer construction.

Phillips died before he could be brought to trial, but on October 17 of last year Connolly and Seely were found guilty and sentenced each to pay a fine of $500 and spend a year in jail.

Out-of-Town Rabbis Coming to Capital

A series of Friday night services by prominent out-of-town rabbis will begin this week at the Sixth Street Synagogue, it was announced yesterday by Joseph A. Wilner, president of the Adas Israel Congregation.

Rabbi Joshua L. Goldberg, of Astoria Center of Israel, Astoria, Long Island, will conduct tonight's and tomorrow morning's religious service. His subject will be "The Four Human Perfections." Rabbi Goldberg is prominent as a teacher and a lecturer. The Sixth Street Synagogue is without a permanent rabbi at the present time, Rabbi Louis J. Schwefel having severed relations with the congregation. Efforts are being made to obtain a successor.

Schoolboy Is Injured As He Operates Press

William Sherwood, 13 years old, of 505 Fourteenth street northeast, suffered a compound fracture of the hand and wrist yesterday when he caught his left hand while "feeding" a printing press in the new McKinley High School, Second and T streets northeast.

Removed to Casualty Hospital in an ambulance, the youth was treated by Dr. Louis Jimal. His condition was pronounced not serious.

Mother, 16, Freed In Father's Death

Girl Hears Judge Call Her Slaying of Parent Justifiable.

St. Augustine, Fla., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Dotha Avant Haines, 16-year-old mother who killed her father two weeks ago, was freed of murder charges at a preliminary hearing today by Judge George W. Jackson, of circuit court.

Judge Jackson termed the killing "a plain case of justifiable homicide" after he had heard testimony of the girl's mother, sister and brother, all witnesses to the tragedy.

The young mother carried her 8-months-old daughter to the courtroom, but she was not called to testify. She listened to Judge Jackson's decision with no sign of emotion. After the decision she declared she "would go to work at once to support mother and the baby."

Dotha's mother, sister Bessie and brother Bill testified the father, William Avant, a woods rider, had threatened his wife's life while he was drinking two weeks ago Sunday, and attempted to draw a knife. They testified that Dotha ran into the house, picked up her father's pistol and shot him.

With that wonderful outdoors flavor

Buried all night in the fragrant embers of the earthen "bean hole"—layers of flavor-rich beans and pork and molasses and sugar. That's the famous old Maine logging camp recipe for the best beans to be found the world over.

The famous Frigidaire

"Cold Control" and other added features cost you nothing

KNOWING that Frigidaire is equipped with the "Cold Control", you would expect it to be higher in price. But it isn't. You would expect to pay more for the surplus power of the Frigidaire compressor. But you don't. And you'd be willing to pay something extra for the features that make Frigidaire so incredibly quiet. Yet because of Frigidaire's tremendous volume these added features cost you nothing.

These improvements have added immeasurably to the convenience, satisfaction and value offered by Frigidaire. Yet not one cent has been added to the price.

Can there be any doubt that Frigidaire gives you more for your money?

In any comparison of value you'll find that Frigidaire wins your preference on every point by which an electric refrigerator can be judged. The mechanism is completely enclosed—away from dust and dirt. The top is flat and usable. The lining is seamless Porcelain-on-steel with rounded corners—easy to clean. The shelves are elevated to a convenient height. There is no stooping necessary.

And in addition to all of these features, remember that Frigidaire has the famous "Cold Control". Remember that it has self-sealing freezing trays, and an extra powerful, incredibly quiet compressor. Remember too, that Frigidaire's dependability has been definitely proven—that more than a million Frigidaires are now serving their owners.

Call at our display room. See a complete demonstration of the new Frigidaires. Let us give you prices. Let us tell you the liberal monthly terms. Come in today.

STOCKS RISE RAPIDLY UPON REASSURANCES

REDISCOUNT RATE AT 4½

New York, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Convincing evidence that both Washington and Wall street have determined upon a campaign of action to lift destructive pressure from the stock market and to fortify industry against injury, sent stock prices into a spirited and impressive rally today which canceled approximately two-thirds of the drastic losses of the previous two days. Leading issues surged up 2 to 20 points.

The day brought forth a flood of developments which will hasten the flow of funds released from speculation into industry. Most conspicuous among these was a further reduction in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate, placing it at 4½ per cent for the first time since July, 1928.

It was definitely indicated in Federal Reserve circles that credit will be made as cheap as can be regarded as consistent with reasonable safeguards against inflation. The Federal Reserve is understood to have assurances of the cooperation of European central banks, which are expected to reduce their rates to bring them in line with the New York rate and prevent an outflow of gold from this center.

The Federal Reserve weekly announcements, which are made after the close of the market, disclosed a reduction of $710,000,000 in brokers' loans, carrying the total down to 4,172,000,000, the lowest level since June of 1928, and comparing with the record total of October 2 of 8,804,000,000. In the past three weeks, the loan total has been put down by the amazing figure of 2,462,000,000, a reduction unparalleled since the deflation period of 1920-21, and then it took months to accomplish what has now been done in three weeks.

Loans Reduced $320,000,000.

The reserve compilations disclosed marked strengthening of banking position. The New York banks reduced their brokers' loans by $320,000,000, practically ridding themselves of the burden assumed three weeks ago when out of town banks and foreign lenders rushed to withdraw their stock exchange loans. The New York banks' borrowings at the Federal Reserve were cut down to only 30,000,000.

The reserve condition statements disclosed that the system was still assisting the money market by large purchases of Government securities, but that the heavy investment demand for bankers' acceptances had permitted them to lighten their portfolios of bills by about as much as they expanded their Government security holdings.

Call money continued at 6 per cent, with 30-day time money at 5¾. Acceptance rates were again shaded by as much as of 1 per cent, making the bid rate for short maturities 4½ per cent, the lowest in more than a year. A further reduction to below the 4½ per cent rediscount rate is expected.

Brilliant Start.

The market was given a brilliant send off at the opening. Stocks were bought in blocks of 5,000 to 50,000 shares, as the overnight announcement that the administration plans substantial reduction in both private and corporation income taxes quieted fears of serious industrial depression, and the plan of the stock exchange to ferret out the extent and identity of the short interest frightened shorts into hasty covering. Initial gains ran from fractions to 16 points, and unlike other recent steep upturns, the gains were held, and moreover, extended.

News coming to hand during the day was of a character further to bolster confidence. Enthusiastic reception of the tax reduction plan by leaders in Congress was particularly encouraging to Wall street. General Motors directors continued the quarterly extra dividends of 30 cents on the common, Underwood Elliott Fisher raised its annual dividend rate from $4 to $5, and Standard of Nebraska resumed payments for the first time within five years. Withdrawal of the Continental Can-Owens Illinois glass merger plan was merely in keeping with the tendency to defer such projects until financial conditions return to normal. Omission of the Penn Dixie Cement preferred dividend reflected special conditions with which the cement industry has been struggling for some time.

Trading on the stock exchange continued in large volume, 5,569,360 shares changing hands during the three-hour session, but was notably less feverish than yesterday, when 7,761,450 shares were traded. Wall street's hopes for a quiet and stable market were revived.

U. S. Steel Closes at 160.

U. S. Steel opened at 155, up 3½ points, rose to 162 and closed at 160. Closing prices in leading shares were generally at or near the best of the day. General Electric and U. S. Industrial Alcohol rose about 20 points and closed within 2 or 3 points of their best levels. Western Union mounted 21 points and closed at the top. Westinghouse Electric gained 17 points, American Can rose 16½ points, and such shares as American Can, American Telephone, Chesapeake & Ohio, Atchison, Consolidated Gas, International Telephone, Johns-Manville, Public Service of New Jersey, Simmons, Union Pacific, Macy, National Biscuit and Underwood Elliott Fisher closed about 10 to 15 points higher.

Standard of New Jersey closed nearly 8 points higher. Radio was up about 4 and General Motors 2. A few of the more erratic shares made characteristically wide gains. Auburn Auto rose nearly 50 points to 180, but dropped to 162 at the close.

Commodities were generally steady to firm. Wheat futures mounted about a cent a bushel, aided by export buying and bullish Canadian estimates. Corn moved in a narrow range. Cotton futures shot up about $1 a bale, but lost some of their gains in realizing.

Foreign exchanges were firm, with sterling cables mounting ⅝ of a cent to $4.87⅛.

New Combined Annual Average of 93.24; Sharp Decline.

CREDIT OUTLOOK BETTER

New York, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Bond holdings were again sacrificed for the benefit of stocks today and prices of fixed charge securities declined rather sharply for the third successive day. The Associated Press combined average dropped to a new low for more than a year. The composite price of 93.24 was more than a full point below the average for a month ago and four and a half points under the figure of a year ago.

The market's situation, however, is regarded as only technical, for bonds have been sold freely during the sharp declines in stocks, both to provide funds for weakened margin accounts and also for purchases of shares at their lower levels. A steady investment demand has been maintained during the temporary depression, and this is expected to quicken when market conditions have become stabilized. The credit outlook has improved vastly in the last two months, with loans for stock speculation showing an enormous drop. Time money, at 5¾ to 6 per cent, is the easiest in many months, contrasted with the rates of 9¼ and even 9½ per cent, which held for a time in midsummer. The rates on bankers' acceptances are also working lower, while the New York Federal Reserve Bank has reduced its rediscount rate within a fortnight.

Obligations of the United States displayed moderate strength in today's three-hour session. Large blocks of registered Liberty 3½s changed hands at an advance of nearly ⅞ of a point. This gain was by far the largest in the group, but the other listings attracted substantial attention.

The sharpest declines came out in the foreign list. Argentine and Chilean issues were especially weak, while German Republic 7s and numerous secondary loans dropped a point or more.

Share privilege bonds made a quick recovery in most instances. American Telephone 4½s rose 15 points, closing at 140, the top price of the day. International Telephone 4½s were up 9; American International 5½s, 4; Missouri Pacific 5½s, 3; and Reading Coal & Iron 6s, 4. Alleghany 5s of 1944 and Atchison 4½s suffered small losses.

Quotations on leading carriers showed that holdings were sold with some freedom and losses of 1 to 2 points appeared in Baltimore & Ohio 6s, 5s and gold 4s; Chesapeake & Ohio General 4½s, Erie 5s and General 4s, and several others.

Bethlehem Steel listings stood out in the industrial division, showing an average gain of about half a point. Inland Steel 4½s lost 1¼. Standard Oil of New York 4½s made a new low on a decline of 2¼, but other prominent oils were firm to slightly higher. Foreign sugars were weak, the Cuba Cane 8s and 7s going to new lows.

The trend in the utilities was downward, although losses were small. New York Telephone 6s eased to a new minimum on a decline of ¾.

New York Bank's Action Guarantees Easier Credit.

STOCK SALES BIG HERE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Continuance of easier credit conditions was again reflected yesterday in announcement by the Federal Reserve Board that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has again reduced its rediscount rate and by a third successive decline in brokers' loans. The New York Reserve Bank has established a rediscount rate of 4½ per cent on all classes of paper of all maturities effective today.

This half per cent reduction follows that of October 31 when the rate dropped from 6 to 5 per cent and marks the first return to the 4½ figure since July, 1928, when the rate was raised to 5. In August this year it rose from 5 to 6 per cent.

Loans on securities to brokers and dealers again receded from the previous week and to the extent of $710,000,000. Their total for the week ended November 13 was $4,172,000,000. There were declines in the three divisions; loans for own account, $1,156,000,000, showing a decrease of $364,000,000 from the preceding week; those for accounts of out-of-town banks, $812,000,000, one of $151,000,000, and those for account of others, $2,204,000,000, one of $195,000,000.

The consolidated statement of condition of the Federal Reserve Banks, November 13, made public by the board, revealed decreases for the week of $19,500,000 in holdings of discounted bills and $30,900,000 in bills bought in open market. It also showed a gain of $19,800,000 in holdings of United States securities.

Member banks reserve deposits increased $50,300,000; cash reserves, $15,300,000, and Federal Reserve note circulation, $18,800,000, while Government deposits fell off $19,900,000. Total bills and securities were $31,300,000 below the amount reported last week and holdings of discounted bills increased $19,500,000 at all Federal Reserve Banks. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market declined $30,900,000, and of United States Treasury notes, $5,400,000, while holdings of Treasury certificates and United States bonds increased $22,000,000 and $3,300,000, respectively.

More than $500,000,000 in cash was used by investment trusts to purchase stocks during the recent panics, according to an estimate by Walter N. Durst, economist for Steelman & Birkins. Durst believes that the trusts not only exerted a stabilizing influence on the market but that their stabilizing action will yield a greater return to their investors.

"For example," he says, "one trust had 98 per cent of their resources invested on August 31. On October 17, only 50 per cent of their resources were invested. On October 1, another had 14 per cent of its resources in stocks, 50 per cent in cash and 36 per cent in bonds. On the 29th they used their cash resources to increase their stock holdings to about 50 per cent. These are practical examples of investment management, and once again, investment management is the investment trust."

Heaviest selling in two weeks occurred yesterday in the stock division of the Washington Stock Exchange, 1,220 shares changing hands, or 330 more than the turnover of the preceding session. The bond market also showed continued improvement, sales volume totaling $13,200, an advance of $2,700 from Wednesday.

Lanston Monotype stock led the market, with a transfer of 200 shares at 110, 3 points recession, and 300 of Washington Mechanics Savings Bank traded at 50, last sale price. Fifty-five shares of Capital Traction sold at 3 and fractional point declines, from 79, and $5,000 Washington Gas 5s at 98⅛ and 98½. Seven bank stocks were out in the ragged market.

American products, American business and American business men are looked to with keener interest today by the solid, well-established merchants of the Scandinavian countries than ever before, according to Frank B. Amos, overseas director of George Harrison Phelps, Inc., international advertising counselors, who has just returned to America after completing an analysis of trade conditions in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, France and the British Isles.

His extensive travel and intensive study of these markets made during the last three months, Amos explains, is only a part of a continuous, personal investigation that he and oehtr executives of the Phelps organization have been making for years and will continue to make in all markets of commercial importance throughout the world.

Chicago Ticker Here.

Quotation ticker service of the Chicago Stock Exchange will be inaugurated in Philadelphia and this city within the next few days, it was announced by the exchange yesterday. The service will start in Philadelphia on Saturday, November 16, and in Washington on Thursday, November 21.

The first brokerage offices in Philadelphia to install the Chicago exchange tickers are Blyth & Co., Montgomery, Scott & Co., Eastman, Dillon & Co., Prince & Whitely and C. Clothier Jones & Co. In Washington the first brokerage offices to make the installation are E. A. Pierce & Co. and Eastman, Dillon & Co.

Philadelphia and Washington bring the total number of cities receiving quotation ticker service from the Chicago exchange to 30. On June 1, 1928, Chicago exchange tickers were in only two cities, Chicago and New York. The growth to the 28 additional cities has come in the last year and a half.

Real estate today constitutes as sound a basis for financing as it ever did, if not a sounder one, according to Harry H. Culver, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, who spoke on the Halsey, Stuart & Co. radio program last night. He also pointed out the importance of dealing with investment people who know the real estate field and who are permanently established and reliable.

Discussing the tendencies in real estate financing in recent years, Mr. Culver stated that changes have been numerous and important. Among the chief points he stressed were that there has been a large and steady growth in the amount of building financed through bonds; that there has been a growth in the use of the group mortgage bonds for financing homes and small apartment buildings, and that real estate bonds as a class have come into favor during the past ten years with a wider circle of investors than ever before.

K. P. McElroy, patent attorney, was elected a director of the McLachlen Banking Corporation yesterday, to succeed his father, the late Col. John McElroy.

ROCKNE DRIVES NOTRE DAME FOR S. CALIFORNIA

Eastern Grid Rivals End Hard Work

Booth Practices With Seconds; Princeton Stresses Defense.

Dartmouth Brushes Up on Passing Attack for Cornell.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Satisfied or not, Eastern football coaches called a halt on intensive work by their gridiron charges after workouts today with competition only another day away.

All up and down the line there were long drills on fundamentals, dummy scrimmages, and work on defense and offense as college mentors sought to iron out all defects before Saturday's frays.

Princeton's Tigers went through their last home practice session of the year, spending the afternoon on a drill on the defense and in signals. The Tigers wind up their unsuccessful season against Yale at New Haven on Saturday.

After a short signal drill on Schoellkopf Field, Cornell's varsity squad, 33 strong, entrained for Hanover, where Dartmouth's powerful Indians are to be met. Dartmouth spent the afternoon tossing forward passes, indicating that the Indians will attempt to fight fire with fire. Cornell has enjoyed great success with the forward-passing game this season.

Dummy Scrimmage At Penn.

A dummy scrimmage wound up Penn's preparations for Columbia's Lions, who were given a two-hour workout at Baker Field. Walter Masters, Penn back-field ace, probably will not get into the game. He has not fully recovered from a dislocation of the shoulder suffered in the Penn State game. Columbia probably will be at full strength with Hewitt, Scott, Stanczyk and Liflander or Joyce in the back field.

With Jim Douglas, varsity end, back in harness, it appeared that Arnold Horween would be able to send his regular first team into the fray with Holy Cross. Before a light workout Horween gave a blackboard lecture on the strength and weaknesses of the Purple's running game. A long dummy scrimmage was the feature of the Holy Cross workout.

Little Albie Booth was not in the varsity line-up at New Haven today and Yale undergraduates, after witnessing the short practice, inclined to the belief that Coach Stevens now does not intend to start the Blue back field star in the line-up against Princeton. Booth was at the quarter back post on the second team this afternoon. Bob Hall, another lightweight, was calling signals for the varsity and had Charley Snead with him in the back field in the place of Ned Austen, Albie's running mate. The rest of the team, however, was unchanged from Stevens' announcement.

Light Work Only for Syracuse.

Signal practice and other light work was all that Syracuse's varsity was called upon to do but Coach Andy Kerr, at Colgate, had his first string team scrimmage against the scrubs, equipped with Syracuse plays, for an hour.

Both the Pitt and Carnegie Tech teams retired to the country tonight for the final polishing up process before their big battle in Pitt Stadium on Saturday.

Rain held Penn State to a brief workout for the contest with Bucknell's sturdy team, with Ricker, guard, still out of the line-up because of an injury. Carl Snavely drove Bucknell hard at Lewisburg in an attempt to bolster up the Bisons' offense.

Despite a driving rain at Easton, Pa., Lafayette, badly crippled in recent games, went through a long drill in preparation for the game with Temple. Efforts to plug up holes in the line occupied the attention of coaches at Lehigh which meets Rutgers.

Joe McGinnity Dies at 58 After Long Baseball Career

Man Who Pitched for 32 Years Victim of Tumor.

JOE McGINNITY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Joseph McGinnity, noted for his stellar pitching while a member of the New York Giants 25 years ago, died today at the home of his daughter in Brooklyn.

He had been critically ill since last August when he underwent an operation for the removal of a tumor. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning with burial in a Brooklyn cemetery.

The seventh of McGraw's 1903 immortals to take his final strikeout, McGinnity was a particular crony of the Giant manager.

"It is always hard to witness the passing of one of the old guard," said McGraw. "Joe was a real credit to the game."

McGraw first knew McGinnity in Baltimore where Joe began in 1899 a major league career which was to last ten seasons, more than six of which were spent with the Giants. Moving to Brooklyn in 1900 in the merger with the Baltimore team, McGinnity earned the title of "iron man" by pitching in six winning games against Pittsburgh in seven days, enabling Brooklyn to win the pennant.

McGinnity Jumped to Baltimore.

McGinnity jumped to the newly organized Baltimore Americans in 1901 under the management of McGraw, and with McGraw jumped back to the National League in midseason of 1902, when the little Napoleon took over the Giant management. The iron man and Christy Matthewson pitched the trailers of 1902 into second place in 1903, and with some additional help won McGraw's first pennant in 1904. McGinnity pitched and won three double-headers late in the 1904 campaign.

The iron man's major league days ended after the season of 1908. He next pitched for and managed in Newark and remained active in one minor league or another until just four years ago. As player-manager of Dubuque, Iowa, in the Mississippi Valley League, McGinnity pitched in twenty games in 1925 at the age of 54.

Iron Man Born in Rock Island, Ill.

The iron man was born at Rock Island, Ill., on March 19, 1871. He spent his boyhood in Springfield and Decatur and began playing baseball with the town team of Decatur in 1888 at the age of 17. His first professional engagement was at Montgomery, Ala., in 1893, when he began a career which was to last 32 years. McGinnity made his home in McAlester, Okla., during most of his active career.

In McAlester he married Margaret Redpath. To them one daughter was born, Mrs. Marguerite Lappen, of Brooklyn, with whom the former pitcher had made his home for the last two years.

Little Guards G.U. Against Grid Jinx

Overconfidence Big Problem for Hilltop Coach.

Cases of 'Too Chesty' G. U. Elevens Are Recalled.

By JACK ESPEY.

FROM week to week throughout the football season you read the hackneyed headline about this or that coach fighting to dispel overconfidence from among his players. It is written so often that you might start to wonder if the reporters ever will find another subject outside of the Saturday games to occupy their two-fingered typing.

But there is a good reason for throwing this overconfidence story back at you week after week, and that is, in short, that overconfidence is one of the biggest and constant problems with which the average coach must wrestle. And then, of course, you wouldn't want the coaches' problems withheld from you—now, would you?

Seriously, a football coach dreads the overconfidence bugaboo as much as he does injuries, for a team that feels chesty and self-satisfied is just as weak as a team having lost some of its best players. With such an attitude any strong team is liable to be defeated by a weaker foe.

Little Battling to Drive Out "Demon."

Up at the Hilltop, Lou Little is battling to drive out an overconfident feeling that he saw creep in his camp following the New York University and Navy games. He admits that unless the Hoyas are free of this feeling tomorrow that "what West Virginia will do to us will be just too bad." In other words, Coach Little foresees plenty of trouble at Griffith Stadium tomorrow afternoon in the event his players do not think that they must give their best efforts to cope with the rugged team from Morgantown.

West Virginia does not figure to win tomorrow on its 1929 record to date. Ira Rodgers' eleven has been defeated by Davis-Elkins, Pittsburgh and Detroit. It has won from West Virginia Wesleyan, Washington and Lee and Oklahoma A. and M., while it was tied by Duquesne and Fordham.

Even so, says Little, West Virginia is a dangerous team and is stronger than its record shows. Moreover, it will be quick to take advantage of a possible Georgetown let-down.

G. U. Team of 1927 Jolted By Syracuse.

Little was thinking of a time in 1927 when Georgetown invaded Syracuse with a team hailed by critics as great and far too strong for the Orangemen. That Georgetown team entered the game feeling it could win just about when it pleased, but wound up at the finish on the short end of a 19-to-6 score.

Overconfidence is manifested so often because it is a human failing of football teams that have attained an appreciable degree of success, according to the Hilltop mentor. It does its deadliest work when such a team approaches a game expected to be easy to win.

"Overconfidence causes a strong team to start off slow against a weaker opponent; and if the opponent manages to stop its attack, it then begins to think, 'Well, we'll get going soon;' but usually the game is over before the overconfident side can really play its best," declares Little.

"Many times the weaker team is

Revival Pitch Reached by Backers

6,000 Cheer Team at Mass Meeting for Chicago Game.

Coach Will Motor to Scene of Intersectional Clash.

By PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Notre Dame football spirits arose to an unprecedented height tonight as Knute Rockne drove his championship-bound Ramblers through their final strenuous workout for the Southern California battle on Soldier Field, Chicago, Saturday.

Under the brilliant flare of a bonfire 60 feet high, the largest mass meeting in Notre Dame history was held to give the Blue and Gold clad warriors a final cheer. Even a cold rain failed to dampen the spirits of the rabid throng of 6,000 persons, including the entire student body.

Huge banners were visible all over the campus. "Beat Southern California," the largest one urged, and "No Team Ever Beat Notre Dame Twice," was the message of another. The latter recalled the fact that the Trojans trounced Rockne's men 27 to 12, on the Pacific Coast last season.

Rockne Drives Irish From Wheel-chair.

Stretched out in a wheel-chair, microphone in hand, Rockne was his old self in practice tonight. He drove the varsity through a short scrimmage, followed up with a forward passing drill and a long session on fundamentals, then reviewed every play he expects to employ against the Trojans Saturday. The practice lasted two hours, and it was necessary to bring out the "ghost" ball before Rockne was satisfied.

Rockne appeared exceptionally well pleased with the team tonight. Every regular was present in condition to play Saturday, and none of the front rank reserves is on the hospital list. The team will go through a short warm-up session tomorrow and will hit the trail for Chicago Saturday morning.

Rockne, who has been suffering for a month and a half with an infected right leg, expects to travel to Chicago by automobile Saturday morning, and will direct the Ramblers from his

Walter Hagen on Scene Of Pro Titular Tourney

Los Angeles, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, today started his campaign to win back the national professional title which he lost last season to Leo Diegel.

The first of the Eastern players to arrive for the winter tournament season, Hagen came here yesterday and immediately set about to start training for the Professional Golf Association tourney to be held over the Hill Crest Country Club course December 2 to 7.

In addition to the P. G. A. event, the Haig announced intention of competing in the Los Angeles, Berkeley, Agua Caliente, Catalina, and possibly the Long Beach open events.

Catholic U. Freshmen Meet Mt. St. Mary's

Eddie La Fond's undefeated Catholic University Freshmen Eleven will play host to the Mount St. Mary's Prep Team at the Brookland Stadium tomorrow at 2 o'clock. The Cardinal yearlings are experiencing an unusually successful year and hope to keep their record unmarred in the clash with the Emmitsburg eleven tomorrow.

Under La Fond's tutelage, freshmen teams of C. U. have been undefeated in two years, going through the 1928 season with a clean slate.

Linemen Only Scorers For Ohio State in 1929

Wesley Fesler, Ohio State's fine end and all-American candidate, has the distinction of being his team's leading scorer, thanks to his sensational 99-yard run for a touchdown last Saturday against Northwestern after recovering a "flying fumble."

Fesler has scored two touchdowns altogether and Dick Larkins, tackle, another to give the line half of the Buckeye total for the season. It is unique that no Ohio back has crossed an opposing goal line or scored a point since the opening game of the season with Wittenberg. Fred Barratt, the big center, does what kicking is possible for the extra points.

Pole, Who Beat Nurmi, To Sail for America

Warsaw, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The Polish runner, Stanislaw Pietkiewinz, who recently beat Paavo Nurmi in a race here, will sail for America November 20, in response to a cabled invitation to participate in several races

Navy Coaches Polish Middies' Passing Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md. Nov. 14.—Efforts to further strengthen the offense and defense in the passing game and generally polishing the running attack continued to demand attention of the coaches as the Navy football players were put through the paces again this afternoon. Two sets of back field men alternated, Art Spring piloting one and Toth the other.

The coaches realize that the Georgetown game brought out several weaknesses on the attack, in view of the Dartmouth battle a little more than two weeks in the offing.

The Middies have not made any special preparations for Wake Forest on Saturday, as it is not figured that the Carolinians will furnish more than a workout and for that reason all regulars are likely to be given a workout.

Hartnett to Undergo Operation on His Arm

Chicago, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Leo ("Gabby") Hartnett, Cub catcher, who was out of action all last season with an injured arm, left tonight for Minneapolis, where he will undergo an operation which he hopes will put the member back in condition.

Visits to bone setters and rubbers failed to help Hartnett's arm and he decided to have a surgical operation in an effort to get into condition to help the Cubs in their drive for another National League championship next year.

G. U. Alumni Stages Its Smoker Tonight

As a preliminary attraction for alumni returning for the annual homecoming Georgetown-West Virginia football game tomorrow, the local chapter of Georgtown alumni will hold a smoker tonight at the Willard Hotel, with festivities opening at 8 o'clock. A long and diversified program has been arranged. William Leahy, prominent attorney, will act as master of ceremonies.

One of the features of the program will be the musical act of George O'Connor and Matt Horne, favorite entertainers here for more than a score of years. A part of the card will be devoted to a pep meeting at which Lou Little, athletic director and head football coach of Georgetown, will speak.

Tickets may be procured at the door.

Purdue Coach Drives Squad in Scrimmage

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Abandoning the plan of a light drill on the eve of battle, Coach Jimmy Phelan today sent the Purdue regulars through their most strenuous scrimmage of the week to give them the proper edge for their vital contest with Iowa Saturday.

The Boilermaker varsity back field of Frank White, "Pest" Welch, Glen Harmeson and Alex Yunevich, ripped through the freshmen in a manner that pleased even Coach Phelan and indicated that the Hawkeyes will have plenty to do in attempting to stop the Purdue offense.

Coach Burt Ingwersen sent the Iowa squad through a half-hour signal drill before boarding a train for Lafayette. He had Pignatelli at quarter, Glassgow and Farroh at halves and Haggerty at full back, with Rogge and Reedquist, ends; Westra and Ely at the tackles; Roberts and Myers at guards and Magnussen at center.

Yankee Club Officials Prepare for Babe Ruth

New York, Nov. 14 (A.P.). — Col. Jacob Ruppert and Edward Grant Barrow, holders of the Yankees' purse strings, departed this afternoon for a session at French Lick to prepare themselves for the ordeal of signing Babe Ruth to a new contract. The Babe had just served out a three-year document calling for $70,000 a season.

The colonel, as usual, delegated Comptroller Barrow to do most of the talking, or nodding, but it was gathered that the astute business manager of the Yankees would offer the home-run slugger terms for no more than one season, even if they came a bit higher than the figures Ruth would demand in a two-year document.

Ruth has informed friends that he will ask $85,000 for one year or $75,000 a season for two years. Negotiations with Ruth, Barrow said, would not be completed until some time in December. The business manager himself will return from French Lick in time for the Notre Dame-Army game at the Yankee Stadium on November 30, but Col. Ruppert will remain at the resort until time to depart for Chattanooga, where the minor leagues will meet early in December.

Rochester to Fight Torporcer Suspension

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Warren C. Giles, president of the Rochester Red Wings, International League champions, will fight the national association in its decision to suspend Second Baseman George Toporcer for one year and to fine Manager Billy Southworth $500 for trouble created during the ninth and final game of the junior world series played here October 13 between the Red Wings and Kansas City Blues of the American Association.

Giles, over the long-distance telephone from Columbus, where he is visiting Manager Southworth, said: "If what I have read in the newspapers is true I believe it the most absurb and unjust penalty I've ever heard of since I've been in baseball. Toporcer's suspension and Southworth's fine are entirely out of proportion. I intend to back both to the limit."

He also announced that Toporcer is the property of Rochester and not of the St. Louis Cardinals.

12-Day Meet To Open on Monday

Southern Maryland Handicap Amounts to $55,000.

Trainer Harlan Has Fine Jeffords String at the Track.

THE 12-day fall race meeting at Bowie, which gets under way at the Prince Georges County Track Monday afternoon, will see more than $235,000 in purses distributed.

This record distribution, of which a large portion will be at stake in the $55,000 Southern Maryland Handicap, the $15,000 Prince Georges Handicap and the $15,000 Thanksgiving Handicap on Thanksgiving Day, has attracted a majority of the leading Eastern owners and trainers for the final Maryland meet. The Endurance Handicap, a one-mile and a sixteenth for 2-year-olds, which will be run on November 30, the getaway day, is another of the outstanding features scheduled.

Notable among the many high-class strings now quartered at the Bowie track is that of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, of Philadelphia. Scott Harlan, to whom the deanship of American trainers has fallen through the recent deaths of James Rowe, sr., and Samuel C. Hildreth, has four serviceable Jeffords horses in Bateau, Streamline, Armageddon and Baton Rouge.

Developed Edith Cavell And Scapa Flow.

Harlan won an Endurance Handicap in 1923 for Mrs. Payne Whitney with Treetop. He hasn't raced anything at Bowie since he became trainer of the Jeffords Stable, for which he has developed Mars, Edith Cavell and Scapa Flow, as well as Bateau and Streamline.

With Bateau a year ago last June Harlan won a Coaching Club American Oaks, and last June a revival of the Suburban Handicap. That daughter of Man o' War and Escalina won at Pimlico in the first week of the Maryland Jockey Club's November meeting and is pointing now for the Thanksgiving Handicap.

Streamline, also a daughter of Man o' War and from Waterblossom, is in the Thanksgiving with Bateau, likewise the Southern Maryland Handicap. Streamline is a half sister of Aquastella, the filly with which Max Hirsch won an Alabama revival at Saratoga in August for Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark. She was a good mare in Maryland last fall and at top form again at Saratoga in August past.

Man o' War Colt and Filly Included.

Baton Rouge and Armageddon are, respectively, a daughter and a son of Man o' War, the former from Baton, a daughter of Hainault; the latter from L'Avneir, a daughter of Rabelais. Armageddon is a half brother of Cockney, a right good distance-running horse by Great Britain of a few seasons back.

Baton Rouge is a strikingly handsome filly with a quick turn of speed that Harlan waited on until mid-August. She is just coming to hand Armageddon is in the Endurance Handicap.

First Mission Wins Sanford at Latonia

Latonia, Ky., Nov. 14.—Over the usual muddy track, Miss Watson's First Mission today raced in an easy victory in the Sanford Town purse, a six-furlong sprint for all ages.

Away to a good advantage, First Mission, who was the strongly backed favorite, led the Warm Stable's Billy Champ, the second choice, to the wire by three lengths. The Warm Stable's standard bearer finished the dash six lengths in front of the two-year-old filly, Nell McClatchey, for the place.

The winner paid $3.22 to win and covered the distance in 1:21 4-5.

Air of Confidence as Colonials End Drills for Juniata.

STRENGHTENED considerably in the line by the return of Bevo Miller, 200-pound tackle and veteran of two years' experience, the George Washington Football Team yesterday concluded its hard work for the Juniata game tomorrow with an air of confidence that it has not evidenced since early in the season.

With Miller at tackle, Babe Clapper has come back to his old full back post where he starred throughout the 1927 and 1928 seasons. This football jack-of-all-trades will add an offensive punch, the Colonial coaches believe. Blackie Hoffman, a hard running back, who filled in for Clapper while the latter perofrmed line duty, is not available for this game, owing to a knee injury, but still the mentors rate the team stronger than it has been at any time since the start of the campaign.

Leehugh to Start At End.

Besides Miller, the Colonials will present a newcomer in Leehugh, who will play at right end. This lad is one of five recruits who reported to Coaches Connaughton and Walsh only a week ago. Little is being said of the others, although it is probable they will get into action tomorrow at some stage of the battle.

The impending contest is the seventh of the season for George Washington. All of the others have resulted disastrously. But the Colonials, now bolstered by Miller, hold high hopes of crashing the win column at Juniata's expense. The game will be staged in Central Stadium, starting at 2 p. m.

PENNANTS SEEK ACTION.

The Petworth Pennants, 135-pound gridmen, would like a game for Sunday. They would like especially to play the Kennedys. Call Manager Muller at Columbia 9127.

WANT SUNDAY GAME.

The Alexandria Iroquois Eleven is without a game for Sunday and would like to meet some 135-pound team. Call Franklin 8035.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER

GATHER closer. Direct from the chief of staff down at Latonia, where the gumbo is still ankle deep. It is none other than FIRE UNDER, which has been all prettied up to cop the long end of the third spasm. Don't look for very much price, but the spot seems easier than taking taffy from the squeler. Sounds like winner gab to me.

DON T., LONGCHAMPS and SHARON for what is left. If Estin is ever going to win a heat, it will be in the opening dash this afternoon. The Harned plater has beaten practically everything in the race. LADY WITT found favor overnight and this usually is a very good indication.

GOLD STEP has a considerable call in the second, a dash of 6 furlongs for maidens of all ages. Past performances would indicate the contention will in all probability come from HIGH SPIRITED with ALOUISE third.

CHATTERING, a trick which boasts of a bit of class, should find the fourth easy picking. She has drawn an outside position, which, by the way, is preferable when the going is so bad; hence, do not stay off on that account. MISS PEGGY may be expected to show smart improvement today. I know the Headley connections figure her as being in.

FRISKY FLO, which won her last start rather impressively, seems to stand out as the old eagle bird in the fifth, a 5-furlong dash for 2-year-olds. PRINCE MEXICAN, which copped a heat Tuesday, is also well placed, with JAMES M., PIKE'S PEAK and AIMEE GOLDSMITH well bunched. Let your conscience be your guide.

All but forgot to mention there was a gob of commissions left here overnight on BASHFUL BEAU to bring home the bacon in the sixth spasm. Also there was activity about BALBOA. Relative to the latter's most recent effort, can only say the stable was down heavily.

Over at Bowie, where the meeting opens Monday, I have arranged to supply you with a rare brand of dope, working a double staff. RED BRIAR, from the Bedwell Stable, is a XXX special for opening day. Nuf sed.

LATONIA.

1—Estin, Lady Witt, Crestwood.
2—Gold Step, High Spirited, Alouise.
3—Fire Under, Don T., Sharon.
4—Chattering, Miss Peggy, Quiver.
5—Frisky Flo, James M., Amee Goldsmith.
6—Bashful Beau, Balboa, Great Sport.
7—Happy Hanley, Uncle Al, Billie Leonard.

Noted Whippets to Race In Match Here Sunday

A match race between two of the outstanding whippets in this section, Sumner's Beauty, owned by William C. Sumner, of Bethesda, Md., and Try Me, owned by Felix Angus Lesor, of Baltimore, will feature a series of whippet races to be staged at the reflecting pool in Potomac Park, Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Most of the competing whippets are entered in the cat and dog show which opens at L'Aiglon Monday night.

Considerable rivalry has developed between Sumner's Beauty and Try Me. The latter has been showing remarkable speed, and Sumner's Beauty, an imported dog, is said to be one of the fastest dogs in the East. The match race between the two Sunday will settle the question of supremacy between them.

There are several kennels of these fast little dogs in Washington and Sunday's meet will bring all of them to the park.

MERCURY DRILLS.

All Mercury players are to report for practice tonight at 8 o'clock on the Sixth street field.

Irvingtons to Test Strength of Mohawks

Sunday's clash with the big, experienced Irvington Eleven, of Baltimore, is just the kind of an engagement Craig Wilton, coach of the Mohawks, has been seeking for some weeks. The former champions of Baltimore, are expected to give the Hawks the best test of the season.

With the annual title battle with the Apaches only a few weeks distant, the Hawk leader is anxious to engage a team nearer the quality of what is expected from the Little Indians. With a band of former college players as its chief forte, the Irvington Club is expected to give the Hawks a real battle.

The Irvington record to date has not been over impressive but in no game to date has the Monumental City team had the services of as many stars as gathered for the engagement with the Hawks here. Many of the visitors are former Western Maryland huskies who learned grid tactics under Dick Harlow. Outstanding among these is the giant Leroy Byham, erstwhile All-Maryland tackle, and Hahn, a fleet and hefty back.

Little Guards Against Overconfidence at Hilltop.

inspired to greater efforts when it sees its big foe is not running away with the game, and then a likely result is a victory for the weaker side, which will have played a better game of football than it knew how.

"For me, I would rather have a strong team facing mine every Saturday than a team which is rated weaker on paper. No matter what the real facts of their opponents' ability are, the players will take things for granted and believe that the other team's scores are the true indication of its ability.

"If the opposing team is one that has built up an impressive record, the players will not have to be driven into believing that they face a hard game. But when the record is unimpressive, such as West Virginia's, it is difficult to make the players stop thinking they are in for an easy game.

"Believe me, getting rid of overconfidence is one of the hardest jobs a football coach has."

West Virginia U. Arrives Today; 28 Men in Squad

The West Virginia University football party, numbering 28 players, Head Coach Ira Rodgers and his assistant, Walter E. Mahan; Director of Athletics H. A. Stansbury, Assistant Director L. M. Stoops and trainers and managers were scheduled to arrive here this morning for the game with Georgetown tomorrow afternoon at Griffith Stadium. The Mountaineers will make their headquarters at the Mayflower Hotel while in the Capital.

Preceding their departure yesterday at Morgantown, W. Va., the visiting players staged a signal drill and today they will work out at the stadium, starting at 2 p. m. Georgetown will follow with a session of its own about an hour later, after which both squads will retire to their respective abodes for the night.

The following West Virginia players made the trip: Ends, Behnke, Howard, Lang, Joseph and Hamilton; tackles, Beall, Morgan, Scott and Martin; guards, Lewis, Brown, Ferra and Gordon; centers, Carrico, Plaster and Porter; backs, Capt. M. Glenn, F. Glenn, Harrick, Stump, LaRue, Lively, Doyle, Sebulsky, Bartrug, Varney, Marker and Carden.

SEEK 100-POUND FOES.

The Congress Heights Cyclones are seeking games with teams in the 100-pound class. For games call Lincoln 2702.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FRETWELL, $57.80, $21.10, $12.30; TASMAN, $11.00, $6.04; BRUNO, $3.44.

FRETWELL, starting slowly, worked his way up fast, going into stretch on outside, drawing out near end. TASMAN, in tight quarters to far turn, improved position and finished with a burst of speed that disposed of BRUNO. BRUNO was reserved closely off pace for three-eighths, went into the lead, but faltered in stretch drive. WATCH ON, close up throughout, appeared a trifle short. GUY FRAZIER went through on inside entering stretch, but could not pass leaders. LADY WITT lacked usual early foot. TANNIC dropped back at far turn and was never a factor.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, same. Went to post at 2:32. Off at 2:33. Winner, M. Dondas' b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid MICKEY D., $18.64, $6.84, $5.84; HOT SHOT, $4.02, $3.62; TYPHOON, $4.44.

MICKEY D., away fast, was outrun first half mile, but moved up fast on outside at stretch turn, then covered last three-sixteenths with gameness to wear HOT SHOT down and win easily. HOT SHOT set early pace, opening up commanding lead, but weakened near the end. TYPHOON was taken back on far turn, came again when pushed through stretch and closed stoutly, but could not reach leaders. RETORT was near front in early running, but failed to answer call in stretch. HEDEMORA quit after reaching stretch turn.

THIRD RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,200. For 2-year-old maiden fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:57. Off at 3:00. Winner, R. W. Collins' br. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SWEEPING WILLOW, $28.68, $12.84, $9.30; PRIMEVAL, $8.82, $7.44; INTERIOR, $5.46.

SWEEPING WILLOW, away in front at first turn, strengthened position on back stretch, but stumbled approaching turn, recovering to hold rivals safe through stretch drive. PRIMEVAL, under steady restraint early part, was taken back when in close quarters on turn and when clear, closed fast to outgame INTERIOR. Latter, away slowly, worked way up fast from stretch turn, but tired midway in stretch after bidding for lead. PREANDER was used up in trying for contending position. HANNAH BLACK was outclassed. ROYAL BEAUTY weakened after first three-eighths.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Old Fort Country Club. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:24. Off at 3:28. Winner, R. A. Smith's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—OVERBOARD, $4.16, $2.84, $2.50; PERJURY, $3.86, $3.00; ASHTABULA, $4.52.

OVERBOARD opened up a good lead on turn, but tired rapidly in last sixteenth, just managing to hold off PERJURY. After trailing far back for first half mile, PERJURY moved up with a belated rush on inside and, finishing strongly, would have won in a few more strides. ASHTABULA was dangerous midway the stretch, but faltered at finish. BIG STUFF was up in the running at end after slow beginning.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Sanford Town. For all ages. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:52. Off at 3:54. Winner, Miss B. Watson's ch. g. (4), by Chatterton—B. First. Trained by J. R. Schuster. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:52 1-5, 1:21 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FIRST MISSION, $3.32, $2.64, $2.24; BILLY CHAMP, $3.06, $2.86; NELLIE M'CLATCHEY, $3.98.

FIRST MISSION, easily the class of the field, disposed of NELLIE M'CLATCHEY when ready, then drew out clearly at top of the stretch, finishing with speed to spare.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:59. Off at 5:00. Winner, Carran Bros.' br. f. (3), by Colonel Vennie—Lady Delhi. Trained by G. H. Harriman. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:27, 0:54 2-5, 1:23 1-5, 1:54, 2:02 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BABY DELHI, $14.02, $5.34, $4.26; NANCY SETH, $3.54, $2.92; ARLINE CONNOR, $6.64.

BABY DELHI, under stout restraint the first half mile, moved up with a rush when asked, taking a long lead on the turn and then had enough in reserve to hold NANCY SETH off at finish. NANCY SETH, also under steadying restraint until the stretch, moved up strongly when asked and was rapidly closing ground at the end; might have won had McCoy made move sooner. ARLINE CONNOR piled the field up when sent sharply across at first turn, but held on stubbornly thereafter to take third, although tiring badly after reaching far turn.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:45. Off at 4:46. Winner, S. N. Holman's b. or blk. g. | DAVID L. | 107 | 8 | 8 | 8^1½ | 7^1 | 7 | 7 | Russell | 3.86 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GREAT SPORT, $30.54, $8.54, $5.54; ELEVEN SIXTY, $3.70, $2.68; M'CULLOCH, $3.28.

GREAT SPORT was away slowly and outrun until turn into stretch, where he were down leaders to win in final stride. ELEVEN SIXTY was reserved closely behind M'CULLOCH until far turn, then disposed of latter when ready and, though tiring badly in last sixteenth, appeared to have won.

TITLE FOR TECH SEEN IN BUSINESS GAME TODAY

School Teams Meet in 5 Contests

Gonzaga - St. John's in Catholic School Title Clash.

G. U. Freshmen Test Devitt; Two Other Grid Games.

TODAY'S GAMES.

Tech vs. Business, Central Stadium, 3:30 p. m.

St. John's vs. Gonzaga, Thirty-fourth street, near Benning road northeast, 3 p. m.

Devitt vs. Georgetown Freshmen, Hilltop Field, 3 p. m.

Landon vs. Woodward, Monument Lot, 3:30 p. m.

Swavely vs. Georgetown Prep, Garrett Park, Md., 3:30 p. m.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.

UNLESS one of the greatest upsets in the history of scholastic football circles takes place this afternoon, Coach Elmer P. ("Hap") Hardell may rightfully step up and claim the 1929 gridiron championship of the Washington high schools for his Tech High Team immediately after the final whistle blows shortly after 5 o'clock today at the Central High School Stadium. Having disposed of Eastern, Central and Western in impressive fashion, the Manual Trainers have only to down the unformidable Business Eleven, against which it lines up at 3:30 this afternoon to formally cinch the title.

Although a championship is practically certain to be won at the Mount Pleasant institution, there are two other games among five scheduled today on the local card which threaten to attract greater widespread interest than this title game. Out at Gonzaga's new field, at Thirty-fourth street and Benning road northeast, Coach Orrell Mitchell's Purple Eleven will play host to Paully Byrne's up and rising St. John's gridmen, and the prospect of a hot battle has been looming on the horizon for the last week. Although the outlook at the start of the campaign for the Cadets was none too bright, Coach Byrne has produced a tip-top eleven in his first year at the school and one that figures to give Gonzaga a run for its money.

Devitt to Invade Hilltop.

In an effort to add prestige to his already enviable record, Jim McNamara will lead his Devitt Eleven up to the Hilltop today to tackle the Georgetown University Freshman Team. The Prepmen are turning out a fast-stepping eleven this year and should cause Lou Little's next year's squad plenty of trouble.

Landon and Woodward in a game at the Monument Lot and Swavely Prep against the Georgetown Prep Eleven will complete the day's card.

Just two changes were to be made in the Tech line-up for its all-important game. Sach was slated to take the place of Hoy at right end, while Matos was to start in the Maroon and Gray back field in place of Ysnaga. For the first time since his team entered the series, Hardell is breathing easily about its chances in a championship game. Although this is to be expected in light of the day's opponents, Hardell usually refuses to be anything but a "Gloomy Gil Dobie," having "feared" his next rival all during the season, although having tasted nothing but victory. However, Hardell declared last night that he was unworried and openly admitted that only the rankest kind of misfortune could prevent his team from gaining the championship.

Six Tech Players in Last School Game.

Six boys will be playing their last championship game for Tech today. Capt. Benner, Winston, Geiger, Hoy (if he plays), Spencer and Goss comprise the group slated to receive their diplomas before another gridiron season rolls around. All of the half dozen have figured prominently in their team's success this year, while Benner and Goss have held down the end and full back positions, respectively, for two years. Spencer's forward passing will also be missed next season.

A lesser kind of championship will be at stake today out at Gonzaga's home field, involving the settlement of the leader among the Catholic prep schools in this vicinity. Both tams have had unusually strong seasons, with new mentors producing enviable records in their first year at the helm of each institutions. Paully Byrne, at St. John's, deserves special credit for turning out the team that he has with such weak material on hand. If he can turn back his hosts today, it will be quite a feather in his cap.

However, Orrell Mitchell has no such ideas of allowing the Cadets to trample his Gonzaga Eleven and will be out to maintain the slender lead that he has secured in prep school ranks. By defeating the Georgetown Prep Gridmen, 6 to 0, the Purple, on paper, should trim today's opponents, who were held to a scoreless tie by the same team. But the fact that the touchdown was scored on a fumble late in the game detracts somewhat from this victory and leaves today's affair at little more than a toss-up.

G. U. Freshmen Test Devitt.

With only one defeat marring an otherwise perfect record, Devitt Prep's Eleven will invade the Hilltop stronghold today with the vision of adding prestige to its impressive showing. Losing only to Mercersburg, the men of McNamara have swept through all opposition, including Eastern High's crack eleven. Although the G. U. "Little Boys" have not set the world afire this year, they, nevertheless, figure to present keen opposition to their visitors today.

The lone victory of the Georgetown yearlings was recorded last Saturday against the Navy Plebes and it may have proven a starter to the hitherto losing team. Having dropped four games so far, the Hilltoppers will be out for blood in today's fracas and may make things a bit uncomfortable for the Purple Eleven.

CORINTHIANS DRILL.

The Corinthian Basket Ball Team will practice tonight in the Peck Memorial Gymnasium at Twenty-eighth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, at 7 o'clock. The Corinthians will have teams in the 100, 115 and 130 pound classes under the direction of Walter Newman.

SENIOR FIVE READY.

The G. P. O. Apprentices have organized a senior basket ball team this year and would like to arrange games with teams having gymnasiums on Tuesdays and Thursdays. For games, call Manager Schwoerer at Columbia 1856, after 5 p. m.

V. P. I. ENDS DRILL FOR MARYLAND

Team Off for Norfolk After 3 Days' Work on Muddy Field.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 14.—Virginia Poly's Eleven wound up three days of work in mud and mire today and boarded the buses tonight on the first lap of the journey to Norfolk, where the Gobblers will clash Saturday with the University of Maryland. The team will stay overnight in Lynchburg and is scheduled to reach the seaside city late Friday afternoon in time for a fine rehearsal before dark.

The Gobblers have been through the lightest training week of the season and will go into the annual Tidewater fracas with but one day of scrimmage against Coach Curly Byrd's plays. Rain upset the program this week, forcing the coaches to forego the regular Tuesday scrimmage. Because the field was a mire in which none could keep his feet, the midweek scrimmage was shortened.

Gustafson has used Phil Spear, Tommy Tomko, Macauley McEver and Bird Hooper sparingly this week for fear of injury. All came out of the Virginia game in good trim, but the Poly mentor knows that he must be able to hurl every ounce of strength in the Gobbler camp against Maryland in the hope that V. P. I. will fare at least as well as Yale.

New tackles are running with the varsity team this week and both are slated to be in the line-up at the kick-off. Buckner Green will start at left tackle and Mark Ritter at right tackle. Jim Swart and Harry Stark, the two big sophomores, are badly used up after five hard battles in a row and will be given a much-needed rest. Both of the new men were set back by injuries early in the fall, but have played a smashing game ever since they had their first chance against William and Mary.

Juniata Works Hard For Colonial Contest

Huntingdon, Pa., Nov. 14.—Coach R. C. Siersma has been sending his Juniata gridders through hard practice sessions for the coming game with George Washington University on Saturday. Coming through with a 12-0 victory over Upsala at East Orange, N. J., last week, the Indians are leaving the campus Friday in quest of their fourth win of the season. However, the Juniata Football Team will be handicapped by the loss of three men. Pentz and Holsinger were hurt in the Upsala game, and Hoffman was hurt during the week They will be out for the remainder of the season. The Indians are depending on Captain Andrews and Petty for ground gaining and Harley's long punts to pull them through for a win.

Frank Updike Rolls 164 Game in League

Rolling the highest game in four years' history of the Interior Department Bowling League, Frank Updike last night turned in a 164 count and a 383 string to aid the Secretary team in bagging three wins over the Land Five. Updike's big count came at the start. He collected five strikes and 2 spares, with one double-header strike. Splits in the final game prevented him from running his set mark higher.

Good scores were in evidence all along the line. Botelер collected 373 pins for Survey and Reed had a 152 game and 369 set for the Engravers.

COURT LEAGUE MEETS.

The Washington City Basket Ball League will hold its final meeting tonight before the league opens next week. All parties interested are asked to send representatives to the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. Building at 8 o'clock.

ON DIXIE GRIDIRONS

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14 (A.P.)—Southern football reaches the November halfway mark Saturday with 20 of the 23 conference elevens engaging in intraconference struggles.

Heading the program is the Vanderbilt-Tennessee game at Knoxville, which is expected to mark the downfall of one of these undefeated machines and reduce the field of championship contenders to two.

Both teams are primed for their most important contest of the season. Tennessee is counting on McEver, the brilliant Hackman, and the versatile Dodd, while Vanderbilt is banking on Red Leonard, the sensational sophomore back, to carry on against the Volunteers as he did against Mississippi and Georgia Tech.

Tulane and Duke, the other teams with clean conference slates, anticipate little trouble subduing the Sewanee Tigers and the North Carolina State Wolfpack, which are securely anchored at the lower end of the conference percentage table.

Next to the Vanderbilt-Tennessee game comes the scrap at Atlanta between Alabama and Georgia Tech.

Alabama, after a late start, seems to have struck its stride at last and will be at its best against the Golden Tornado.

Clemson, after losing two straight conference starts to Kentucky and Virginia Military, will essay a comeback against Florida at Gainesville.

Lexington, Va., has a double-barreled program on tap. Kentucky and Virginia Military meet in a morning game, in which Kentucky will seek to get back into the win column, while Virginia and Washington and Lee are scheduled in the afternoon.

Maryland and Virginia Poly clash at Norfolk and Louisiana State will entertain the University of Mississippi at Baton Rouge. Auburn and Georgia play at Athens Friday afternoon.

Outside the conference North Carolina has every reason to look for a victory over Davidson but South Carolinians are not so certain that Furman is not capable of upsetting South Carolina.

Mississippi A. & M. plays Millsaps.

Two Dixie teams figure in intersectional games. The Rambling Petrels of Oglethorpe will be at Cincinnati to meet St. Xavier, and Wake Forest fares forth from North Carolina to play the Navy at Annapolis.

The University of Arkansas, which recently stopped the winning streak of Louisiana State, plays Centenary at Fayetteville, Ark.

Five of the seven undefeated elevens in the S. I. A. A. swing into action in the seven games scheduled in the association.

Miami is hopeful of eliminating Stetson, but Georgetown, of Kentucky, Chattanooga, Citadel and Centre will be favorites over the West Kentucky Teachers' Union of Tennessee, Mercer and Transylvania.

Wofford and Newberry will open the week's S. I. A. A. activities at Newberry Friday afternoon.

Baltimore Bowlers Moving Toward Top

The supremacy of Washington duckpin bowlers, which has been marked during recent campaigns, is seriously threatened by the up and coming pinmen of Baltimore. George Lang's Bowling Center team has just set a new 1881 set record in league competition to top the previous record of the King Pins at 1,877.

Baltimore, the mother of the present popular duckpin game, has sent powerful teams into intercity competition this season, and only sensational shooting of Capital City stars has prevented their rout in competition with the Monumental aces.

PREPS MEET CARDS.

The Arlington Prep and National Press Building Cardinal Elevens are scheduled to clash Sunday on the Arlington Field. Both teams are seeking recognition among the 135-pound independent title contenders. The Preps boast such stars as C. D Nelson, center; Dan Perry, tackle; Reberty McPherson and Eddie Goldblock, backs. The Preps will drill tonight at 8 o'clock.

CONFERENCE FOES FOR DUKE

1930 Schedule to Provide 6 Games With Circuit Colleges.

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 14.—Duke University will have a full championship schedule in the Southern Conference football race next year, it was made known today when athletic officials said a sixth game had practically been arranged for, but could not yet be announced.

Duke, next year, will meet South Carolina, September 27; Kentucky, November 8; North Carolina State on a date to be named; Washington and Lee, Thanksgiving Day, and University of North Carolina on the last day of the season.

Another game, to be announced, probably will be played in October. All of these games with Southern Conference members.

South Carolina, Kentucky, Washington and Lee and the game yet to be announced, are to be played in the new Duke Stadium.

The State and Carolina games next year will be played in Raleigh and in Chapel Hill. Another stadium game for next year will be played with Davidson. This gives Duke at least five stadium games.

This is considered a satisfactory Southern Conference schedule and will give the Blue Devils opportunity to get in the race with other strong teams. This year's schedule was too abbreviated for that. Duke managed to get but three games, having been admitted to the conference long after the football schedules were arranged for this year.

Duke has won its first game, with L. S. U., and looks forward to another victory tomorrow over North Carolina State. The last conference game will be played with Carolina, December 7.

Just what trips Duke will make next year, besides the short jaunts to Raleigh and Chapel Hill, has not been announced, but the complete schedule should be made public in a very short time.

Wake Forest Hopeful Of Holding Middies

Special to The Washington Post.

Wake Forest, N. C., Nov. 13.—The Demon Deacons of Wake Forest College have, for the last week, been going through vigorous scrimmage sessions preparatory to their game with the Naval Academy Middies Saturday at Annapolis. This will be the first time the two teams have met.

Wake Forest officials are banking on a small score by the Navy team using as their argument the fact that Army, a team vastly superior to the Middies, was held to a insignificant score by Davidson, one of the Deacons' victims.

The Baptists have had a rather bright season so far. They number among their victories Catawba College, Elon College, Davidson College, University of Richmond and Wofford College and losing only to the University of North Carolina and North Carolina State.

The Deacon team has as its bright star Capt. Johnny Cox at left half. The remainder of the back field is composed of Mills, right half; Quillen, the flash from Texas, at the quarter back position, and Covington, the 180-pound youth from Rockingham, N. C., at the full back job This back field has performed with smoothness and dispatch in previous encounters.

MIDDLETOWN WINS.

Frederick, Md., Nov. 14 (Special).—Middletown went into first place by defeating Frederick in the Senior High School Soccer League at Cadet Field, 10-0. At the same time Frederick girls clinched the county field-ball championship by tying the Middletown lassies in a hard-fought game, 6 to 6. The soccer fray was easy victory for Middletown.

W. & L. CUBS MEET POLY FRESHMEN

Latter Seek Revenge Today of 7-0 Beating Last Year.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 15.—Strong opposition for both teams is scheduled tomorrow when the V. P. I. Freshman Eleven invades Lexington for a game with Washington and Lee's yearlings. Each eleven has shown power in all previous games, but if comparative scores have a bearing on a team's strength the Little Generals will have an edge on the Goblets. Both aggregations have had games recently with the Virginia Freshmen, W. & L. battled to a tie, while V. P. I. was beaten by one touchdown.

Last season's game ended in a 7-0 triumph for Washington and Lee when Monk Mattox, this year's varsity star, ran 65 yards to a touchdown in the last few minutes of play. The present Freshmen have no star of Mattox's caliber, but has general back field strength equal to, if not better than, last season's. With a back field composed of such men as Lonergan, Brothers, Mehler, Collins, Burgoyne and Baumler, V. P. I. have some powerful men to stop.

Burgoyne's Kicking Has Been Feature.

Lou Burgoyne's kicking, a feature of past games, has continued to be outstanding, and will probably dominate in the exchange of punts. Sam Steves, "half-pint" center, and Pride, Devan and Goldenberg, guards, have shown up particularly well in recent games. With these four men and several capable understudies, the middle of the line is expected to be able to withstand the V. P. I. opponents' onslaught.

Roy Vanek, right end, who scored the only touchdown against Virginia, is an end of the Osterbaan type—a good pass receiver and broken field runner, as well as a good interference and defense man.

Barring injuries before game time, the Generals' frosh should have the most powerful squad the Blacksburg school has met this year.

Mitchell and Toomey To Direct Boys' Work

Joe Mitchell and Mat Toomey have been assigned to direct athletic activities at the new Southwest branch of the Boys Club, which opens to the public Monday night. Both Mitchell and Toomey are familiar figures in Washington athletic circles. The former will direct basket ball, and the latter will be in charge of boxing.

Temple and Queen Pin Match Is Postponed

The duckpin match originally scheduled to start tonight between the Temple and Queen Pin All-Star teams has been rescheduled to open tomorrow night at the Northeast Temple drives. The clash will be staged in two five-game sets, the first starting at 9 o'clock tomorrow night and the second at 8 o'clock Monday night at the Queen Pin establishment.

The Temple line-up includes Megaw, P. Harrison, J. Mulroe, G. Friend and Max Rosenberg. The Queen Pins include Mandley, Smith, Works, Bombrest and Thorpe.

Women Bowlers Meet For Annual Election

Another effort will be made tonight to hold the annual meeting of the Washington Women's Duckpin Association, which had to be postponed last Saturday when a quorum was lacking. All leagues and persons interested in women's duckpin activities are urged to be present by Mrs. Rose Mulroe, president.

Search for a president to succeed Mrs. Mulroe, who has announced that she will not be a candidate for re-election, has brought forth several supported candidates. Mrs. Elsie Romero of the Ladies' Federal League, and Mrs. Ella R. Limerick, of the Queen Pin Team of the District League, are being considered for the presidency.

ROCKNE DRIVES IRISH FOR CHICAGO BATTLE

"Hey, you fellows, these sports writers say you're just a good high school team. Show them something. Show them something," Rockne shouted spurring them on.

Nothing escaped his eye and a continuous comment resulted when he detected shortcomings.

To a passer he shouted, "Let go of that ball, there's no prize for hanging on to it," and when it became too dark to see clearly, he called out, "When you can't see the ball use your sense of smell."

The mass meeting tonight has been approached only once in size and enthusiasm. That was on the eve of the Minnesota game in 1927. Six speakers were on the program and the feeling reached a revival meeting pitch as the members of the squad were cheered.

Trojans Stop in Kansas For 2-Hour Workout

McPherson, Kans., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The University of Southern California Football Squad, en route to Chicago for an intersectional game Saturday with Notre Dame, stopped here nearly two hours today for a workout, the only one it will have between Los Angeles and the scene of the week-end battle.

Signal practice, passing and punting constituted the drill on the snow-covered field at the McPherson Athletic Park. All the squad members were in excellent shape and jubilant spirits.

Coach Howard Jones and Capt. Nathan Barrager both expressed themselves optimistic concerning their chances with Notre Dame. About 100 fans are accompanying the team.

STEWART BROS. PLAY.

The Stewart Bros. Five will play Company I at Fort Washington, Sunday. The following players are requested to meet at Washington Barracks at 10:30 Sunday morning: Curtin, Denneberg, Gahm, Harris, Messler, Mealy, Mendel and Shapiro. Teams in the 145-pound and unlimited class wanting games with the Stewart Bros., call Doc Messler at Columbia 9333.

7 District Teams to Start National Soccer Play Dec. 8

All Capital Clubs Scheduled in First Challenge Round; 8 Games in 3 Leagues Scheduled Here Sunday.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON

THE first round of the National Amateur Challenge Cup competition of the National Soccer Association was announced yesterday and the seven local teams entered all were named to play the first round which will take place on December 8.

Except in the case of Silver Spring all of the Washington teams have been drawn to play here, Silver Spring being drawn against Locust Point Rangers of Baltimore.

The drawings for the first round are as follows with the first mentioned team being the home club: British United vs. Army Medical Center; Concord vs. Rockville; Locust Point Rangers vs. Silver Spring; Fashion Shop vs. Washington Soccer club.

This is the largest number of teams ever to enter the cup tie matches from Washington and recently the United States Football Association congratulated the local soccer governing body on the showing. Baltimore has but one entry in the tourney.

Service League to Ally With D. C. Body.

David Adamson, secretary of the newly organized Service League announced yesterday that his circuit would make application to the Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association for affiliation. Army Medical Center, Fort Myer and Fort Humphries constitute the new loop.

The first game will be played tomorrow at Fort Myer where Army Medical Center will meet the post eleven at 2:30 o'clock. It is expected that the winner of the local service championship will be pitted against sectional champions from other territories for the National Service title. Each team will play the other four times.

District soccer fans will have their favorite sport in large dishes Sunday when eight league games will be played. The newly organized Junior Soccer League will open its season with three games, two on the Monument Grounds and one at Rosedale Playground.

Washington Soccer League Has 2-Game Card.

In the Capital City League, Silver Spring will be host to the Irish Americans with Edward Kruse refereeing. Rosedale will play Rockville at Rosedale with Bill Castle as the official, and Gaithersburg will have as its guest Germania. W. T. Strong will call the fouls.

After considerable delay the Washington Soccer League is prepared to open its season with a two-game card. Concord will play Hyattsville at Shady Oaks, having as the referee Jack Caldwell, and British United will meet Fashion Shop with Ernest Bleuer as the official. The latter game will be played on Monument Field No. 2.

George Youngblood's Junior League has listed three matches that should bring out keen competition. All of the junior league games will start at 1 o'clock. Hine will play Macfarland on Monument Field No. 2, George Faulds officiating; Jefferson will play Columbia, Monument Field No. 1, with Eddie Bruce calling the fouls, and Langley will play Stuart at 1 o'clock at Rosedale Playground with Ben Kail refereeing.

PUNTING ACE OF WEST VA. IMPROVED

Bartrug May Engage Mooney in Kicking Duel Here.

Special to The Washington Post.

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., Nov. 14. Although he has been far below his 1928 standard as a punter, Eddie Bartrug, West Virginia University's tall half back, has given indication this week in practice sessions that he might return to his old form, and in that event stage a kicking duel with Capt. Jim Mooney, Georgetown University's star tackle and punter, when the Mountaineers and Hilltoppers meet in their annual game at Washington, D. C., this Saturday.

Last season Bartrug was the sensation of the East as a punter and intercepter of passes, but he has failed to measure up to his 1928 performances as yet this year. His greatest performance of the season in 1928 was a registered against Georgetown, despite the fact that the Hilltoppers won the game, 12 to 0, and snapped a seven-game winning streak. Three times Bartrug kicked out of bounds on the Georgetown eight-yard line, or even closer, on all three occasions from midfield.

Bosek's 50-Yard Run In 1928 Recalled.

The Mountaineers are still talking about a play which resulted after one of these kicks, however, and incidentally started Lou Little's team to victory.

Bartrug's spotty performances this season are said to be about due to do an "about face," and as soon as they do this flaxen-haired punter will give a rare performance of kicking. His first good exhibition of the season came in the Detroit game last Saturday, when the Mountaineers made a futile effort to outgain the Titans through the medium of Bartrug's kicking after their passing attack had failed also.

With the likelihood that the West Virginia running and passing attack will be tuned up considerably and there being a possibility that Bartrug can equal Mooney's punting, Georgetown may find the Mountaineers tougher than they anticipate.

Strong Kiski Eleven To Meet Navy Plebes

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 14.—The Navy Freshmen will meet one of the strongest prep school teams in the East Saturday when it plays its annual game against the Kiskimiretas School for Boys, familiarly known as Kiski Kiski defeated the Navy Plebes last year.

The Kiski team is under the joint tutelage of Coach Bob Mitinger and Advisory Coach Jim Marks. Marks is a dean at Kiski and was coach of the football teams for years. He is considered one of the smartest football coaches in the country and is credited with having developed many successful plays used by big college teams, particularly those used by Pitt during the regime of "Pop" Warner, now at Leland Stanford.

Two of the brightest Kiski stars who will be seen this year at Annapolis are Vuchinich, the captain and fullback, and Stewart, the left end Vuchinich is a powerful line-plunger and has repeatedly proven his ability to pick up two to eight yards whenever they are needed for a first down Stewart is one of the finest kickers Kiski has ever turned out. In a recent game against the Carnegie Tech Plebes, he picked a 45-yard field goal from the side of the field with a cross-field wind to complicate his task.

START PIN SERIES.

Bowlers of Bethesda and Silver Spring will open a ten-game series tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at Bethesda. Five games will comprise the set, with the same number booked at Silver Spring a week later. The Bethesda team will be selected from Huffman, Irey, Harris, Walson, McAuliffe, Davidson, R. Parks, Talbert and Hiser.

LEVY BEATS ROWDYBUSH.

M. Levy won over Norman Rowdybush, 75-43, at the Arcadia Billiard Parlors last night. I. Cohen, Eddie Espey, Milton McBride and Richard Wright tied for first honors, while Lawson Griffin and Gus Smith tied for second place.

PRESS CLUB CHALLENGED.

The Centennials are without a game for Sunday, November 24, and would like to play the Press Club Cardinals. The Cardinals are asked to call Franklin 3378-W between 5 and 6 o'clock tonight.

KENTUCKY TO OUTWEIGH CADETS

Williams, 205 Pound Center, to Be Pitted Against Grow.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 14.—When V. M. I.'s Flying Squadron entertains the Kentucky Wildcats in the home-coming game on Alumni Field Saturday morning, it will be no novelty to the Cadets to find themselves heavily outweighed. In nearly every major test this season, V. M. I. has given away poundage, especially in the line, but the difference at center will be particularly noticeable.

If Virgil Grow, Cadet 157-pound pivot man, faces Williams, he will be paired off against a husky scaling at 205 pounds, and if Coach Gammage gives the nod to Wilder, Grow will exchange compliments with a 180-pounder. But Head Coach Bill Raftery and Line Coach Ed Hess have the greatest confidence in Grow's ability to spot his man the avoirdupois and still make up the difference in speed, skill, and aggressiveness. The little Cadet snapper back not only passes faultlessly and charges like a flash on offense, but is V. M. I.'s chief reliance on defense.

Very little yardage has been gained this year, or in the last two years, over the center of V. M. I.'s line, and almost invariably it has been Grow's great work that has stopped the enemy's advance.

Last week the heavy Clemson team was forced to take to the air when the Cadets presented an unyielding center wall, and even then it was Grow's defensive tactics against passes that helped to make many of the Tiger tosses go bad. This season is Virgil's last and best at V. M. I., and a check-up of the records shows that he has been playing stellar ball in every game, with the stamina to play almost every minute of the time this year without substitution.

V. M. I. supporters freely predict that, if the Flying Squadron proves unable to stop Kentucky's powerful machine, it will not be on account of Grow's failure to continue his steadily brilliant playing.

Victory Over Roanoke Randolph-Macon Goal

Special to The Washington Post.

Ashland, Va., Nov. 14.—The football team of Randolph-Macon College left Ashland this morning on a jaunt to Salem, where it will face the Roanoke College Maroons tomorrow afternoon in the annual football classic between the two schools.

The Yellow Jackets seek to avenge former defeats at the hands of Roanoke in the last few years and redeem themselves from the defeats in the last two games this season. Randolph-Macon fell victim to University of Richmond last Saturday, but not until the Spiders had used their best tactics to register a single touchdown and a safety.

Coach Shepard has been greatly handicapped of late through loss of several back field men, notably Bryant and Burger, and has not been able to round out a sufficiently effective offense. These two men, with "Bunny" Cockrell, form the main threat of the team, and their absence is proving hard for the Ashland eleven.

MARYLAND U. HAS STAR PUNTERS

Old Liners in Strenuous Workout for V. P. I. Game.

COACH CURLEY BYRD, of the Maryland Football Team, which will play Virginia Poly in Norfolk tomorrow, has no kick about his kickers. While the Old Liners know something about forward passing and of other methods of advancing the ball, they are particularly strong when it comes to booting the old pigskin with Buck Miller, Shorty Chalmers and Augie Roberts attending to that end of the game, not to mention Moon Evans, who also is a fair punter.

Just before the regular session at College Park yesterday Miller, Chalmers and Roberts took turns in booting the ball down the field to the other backs, and the manner in which they socked their foot into the pigskin was distinctly pleasing to the coaches and Old Line followers who watched the drilling.

Miller Gets Away Boots For 65 Yards.

Several times Miller drove the ball fully 65 yards on the fly and Roberts and Chalmers almost matched his feats on several occasions. Miller and Chalmers will start the Norfolk game, but Roberts, on account of his trick knee, will serve in a pinch-hit role.

Despite what happened at Yale, Maryland is not cocky in the least and does not figure that it has more than an even chance, at the best, to score over the powerful and versatile Gobblers, who have in Phil Spear one of the very best backs in the Southland.

In fact, Maryland, as in most of its previous contests, doubtless will be outweighed considerably, and will have to depend upon deception to gain its ground, which is certain to come through the air as well as by land.

Intensive Drive for Maryland.

Maryland's squad went through an intensive drill yesterday that included everything, even to a little scrimmage, and all the Old Liners will do this afternoon before taking the boat to Norfolk will be to run through signals long enough to get a good warming-up.

Finnazo-Lester Bout Tops Centreville Card

Special to The Washington Post.

Centreville, Md., Nov. 14.—Joe Finnazo, of Baltimore, and Jens Lester, of Wilmington, will occupy the center of the stage next Monday night when the opening show of the indoor boxing season will be held in the State Armory here under auspices of the Centreville Boxing Club. The two popular fighters will engage in an eight-round wind-up.

The Monumental City fist flinger, a popular figure in this section, fought some masterly ring battles at Greensboro last summer, defeating Joe Borris, of Chester, Pa., a stablemate of Young Ketchel, and putting to sleep in two rounds Joe Trippe, of Wilmington. His opponent next week is a boxing partner of Trippe and the bout is expected to be a colorful scrap from bell to bell.

In the semiwind-up Jimmy Dodd, of Wye Mills, will engage Joy Schwartz, of Baltimore, in a scheduled six-round affair and K. O. Martin, of Dover, will meet Young Dunn, of Milford, Del., in another six-rounder. Four-round bouts will be fought by Young Burgess, of Harrington, Del., and Kid Lonski, of Dover, and Young Mitchell, of Harrington, and Jack Urry, of Greensboro.

EASTON HIGH WINS.

Easton, Md., Nov. 14 (Special).—The soccer ball team of the Easton High School, by defeating the High School Team of St. Michaels this afternoon by a score of 12 to 4, wins the county championship, having gone through the season without losing a game.

KIWANIANS OBSERVE NINTH LADIES' NIGHT

CARLIN GETS DISTINCTION

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
313 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The ninth annual ladies' night entertainment, staged by the Alexandria Kiwanis Club last night in the George Mason Hotel, was in keeping with the record established by this organization. Dinner was served at 6:30, with the president of the club, Elliott F. Hoffman, and the officers of the club and their ladies were at the head table, with the following special guests: Harry Kimball, district governor of Kiwanis, and Mrs. Kimball; Mrs. Mary W. Troth, president of the local Business and Professional Women's Club; C. S. Taylor Burke, representing the Rotary Club; Robert Hutchinson, of the Manassas Kiwanis, and Mrs. Hutchinson; former Representative Charles Creighton Carlin and Mrs. Carlin.

President Hoffman made a brief speech of welcome and turned the program over to Harry E. Caton, who announced that, owing to the time limit having expired for the dinner service, the waiters had gone on strike, and he would have to call on Postmaster Clinton Knight and a committee of Kiwanians to serve the salad course. Postmaster Knight, City Manager Wallace Lawrence; Dr. O. A. Ryder, Dr. R. H. Case, Superintendent of Schools R. C. Bowton, Attorney J. Randall Caton, Attorney Irvin Diener, William H. Meeks, Windsor W. Demaine, St. Clair D. Shelton and D. C. Book responded and in a few minutes emerged from the service pantry bearing trays of gifts for the ladies present. The regular waiters then returned to duty and concluded the dinner service.

The first number on the program was a series of songs by the Kiwanis Kwiet, and Irvin Diener announced the "Meester" singers were J. Randall Caton, Bill Meeks, Dr. R. H. Case, Roger C. Sullivan, F. Clinton Knight, D. C. Book, St. Clair D. Shelton, Wallace Lawrence and Urban S. Lambert.

Sky Pilot Hall was called upon to conduct a ceremony of great note to Kiwanis, and he announced that each year the Kiwanis Club of Alexandria presents a distinguished service medal to the local man selected as having rendered the greatest service to the city in the year, and this year it was to be presented to the man who had been instrumental in having legislation passed to build the Mount Vernon boulevard, former Representative Charles Creighton Carlin. He paid tribute to M. B. Harlow, whose brain child this memorial boulevard was, and William B. Smoot, the first vice president of the association formed in the interest of this movement, but stated the former has moved from the city and can no longer be considered an Alexandrian, while the latter is an invalid, and the work had been carried to completion by Carlin.

Carlin, in his speech of acceptance, sketched the various steps of the movement since its inception in 1886 by M. B. Harlow, then city treasurer of Alexandria, and the many bills and acts of Congress for the building of the boulevard, until the final triumph of the last year, giving interesting accounts of his contact with various senators and congressmen in his efforts to have the needed legislation enacted.

A motion picture taken at the Belle Haven Golf and Country Club was shown, depicting Clyde C. Lamond and Robert S. Jones in Scotch kilts and caps, playing a game of golf. A mind reading stunt was given by J. William May, as Prof. Fako. Kiwanians Robert G. Carter, D. C. Book, F. C. Knight and Louis Kane were featured in a "talkie" of their efforts to indulge in a craps game, and the intervention of Police Captain W. W. Campbell. The participants were behind the screen talking for themselves.

The Kiwanis Kwiet, with Mrs. Anna Meeks at the piano, concluded the program with several songs, and the remainder of the evening was given over to dancing.

Noted French Author Talks to Session at Virginia University.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 14.—"Admiration for America is great in the old world, but not everything of America can be assimilated by us," said Andre Siegfried, noted French author, delivering the first quarterly review lecture of the session before the University of Virginia tonight on the subject, "American Civilization and European Civilization."

"America is autonomous in every respect; Europe is no longer the inspiration," asserted the speaker. "Europe is articulate, while America is massive; Europe is diversified, while America is united; Europe is individualistic, while America accepts standards and uniformity.

"In Europe socialism thinks about dividing wealth, while in America production is deemed more easy and paying better than the division of existing wealth. In this diversity and individuality lie at the same time the economic weakness and the social and artistic greatness of Europe."

FARMINGTON CLUB OPENS DRAG HUNTS

NUMBER WITNESS CHASE

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 14.—The first drag hunt of the newly organized Farmington Hunt Club, of which C. C. Fernsell, formerly of Toledo, Ohio, is president, was held this afternoon and attracted a large field from Albemarle and adjoining counties.

The start was made near the Wells home, and the course west of Farmington led hounds and riders a merry chase over numerous jumps through the farms of Norris Watson, William Durrett and D. S. Woods and back into the Farmington property, with the finish on the lawn in front of the clubhouse.

Jack Carpenter, of Greenwood, was master of ceremonies, and Robert Thraves, of Branchlands, huntsman. Jack Rinehart was M. F. H. and the whips were Dr. J. P. Jones, Jouett Todd and Frank Offutt.

The hounds were from the kennels of Robert Thraves, who was mounted on Get Away, Jack Carpenter was on Paddy O'Spangle, Jack Rinehart on Kenridge, Dr. Jones on Silver Threads, Jouett Todd on Fancy Free, Frank Offutt on Black Cat, Mrs. Jack Jones on Vicaire, A. M. Keith on O Me, Frank Ix on Pop Corn, James M. McCready on Leslie, Ellie Wood Page Keith on Sweetie, Miss Sallie Sims, of New York, on Roxie and L. Watson on Tom Jones.

A fine view of the drag was obtained from the lawn at Clarington, home of Norris Watson. Among the spectators were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Osborne, Gordonsville; Randolph Ortman, Greenwood; Mrs. Nelson Hiss and Mrs. E. L. Ditto, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Talcott, Keswick; Mrs. Carry Jackson, New York; Mrs. William Garth, Mrs Charles Frizzell, Mrs. Clifford Hanckel, Mr. and Mrs. William Durrett, Mrs. Woods Garth and Dr. Stephen Watts.

The drag was followed by a hunt breakfast at Farmington for riders and hunt members.

VIRGINIA FARMERS ENJOY GOOD YEAR

State Report for November Shows Healthy Increase for Most Crops.

CORN YIELD COMES BACK

Richmond, Va., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Virginia's 1929 corn crop will be but slightly under 1928 production, despite early disparaging crop reports, and this year's average yield, 29 bushels an acre, is greater than last year's, the State report for November, prepared by Henry M. Taylor, Federal-State agricultural statistician, reveals.

"Most crops," says the report, "have yielded better than had been expected earlier in the season, according to reports on yields from a large number of farmers throughout the State. While the production of nearly all crops will be less than last year, prices have averaged higher, and the total value of crops this season will be somewhat larger than in 1928. Farm work progressed quite satisfactorily during October, as weather conditions were favorable for harvesting and seeding fall grains."

This year's estimated corn crop of 44,312,000 bushels, which compares with 44,715,000 for 1928, will be attained, the report states, "because the damage from the dry weather was not as serious as growers had estimated." The 1929 yield of 29 bushels compares with the average of 27.5 for 1928 and 26.8, the average for the previous ten years.

National Yield Greater.

"Corn yields are lower than last year in the northern and eastern counties, where the crop was damaged by the summer drought," says the report, "but in all other districts the yield is considerably better than last year. In the southwest the corn crop has turned out especially well, and in the southern district, although some crops on the river low grounds were injured by floods, the yields are better than last year."

With reference to the national situation, the report states, "the preliminary estimate of the corn crop for the United States is 2,621,000,000 bushels, which is 3.7 per cent above the October forecast but is nearly 8 per cent. below the 1928 crop and 4.6 per cent below the five year average production. Practically all of the important producing States report that the crop has turned out much better than had been expected."

"Preliminary estimates of tobacco yields show that the crop has turned out about as expected on October 1," continues the report. "The season was generally favorable for the growth of tobacco although in a few sections there was too much rain, certain seasons for the best development. Yields cannot be estimated accurately before the crop has been sold. However, the average yield for the State will be considerably better than last year when the crop was unusually light. The estimated production of the various types is as follows: Flue cured tobacco, 85,540,000 pounds; fire-cured, 24,300,000 pounds; Burley, 6,240,000 pounds, and suncured, 4,850,000 pounds.

Tobacco Shows Increase

"The total production is estimated to be 120,930,000 pounds, compared with last year's short crop of 104,894,000 pounds and the five-year average of 136,373,000 pounds. The average quality is reported to be 83 per cent, compared with 64 per cent last year and 79 per cent, the ten-year average. All types are above the average in quality, and the sun-cured crop is reported to be one of the best crops for many years, as weather conditions were very favorable for curing this type. The total production of flue-cured tobacco for the United States is estimated to be 769,239,000 pounds, compared with 741,011,000 last year. The production of fire-cured tobacco is expected to be 168,235,000 pounds, compared with 132,290,000 pounds in 1928. The light air cured types, largely Burley, is expected to be 324,188,000 pounds, compared with 294,419,000 pounds in 1928.

"The Virginia sweet potato crop has turned out much better than had been expected, especially on the Eastern Shore, where more than one-half of the crop is grown. September rains and favorable weather during October resulted in considerable improvement in the crop. The average yield is reported to be 139 bushels, compared with 144 bushels last year. Shipments from the Eastern shore to November 3 amounted to 5,934 cars, compared with 4,994 cars to the same date in 1928. Prices received by commercial growers have averaged higher than last year. The estimated production of sweet potatoes for the United States is 82,972,000 bushels, which is 7 per cent above the 1928 crop of 77,661,000 bushels, but 12 per cent below the large 1927 crop of 94,112,000 bushels.

"The yield of late white potatoes varies considerably throughout the State. Some growers report a yield as low as 30 bushels and others 200 bushels per acre. In the northern section dry weather injured potatoes considerably, but in the southern and southeastern sections the yields were better than last year. The average yield of late potatoes is reported to be 101 bushels per acre, compared with 95 bushels in 1928. The total production of both early and late potatoes is estimated to be 16,750,900 bushels, compared with the large 1928 crop of 21,593,000 bushels. The production of potatoes throughout the United States is estimated to be 353,977,000 bushels, which is nearly 24 per cent less than the large 1928 crop of 464,483,000 bushels. Yields are slightly larger than had been expected.

Weather Hurt Crop.

"The yield of buckwheat is reported to be 19.5 bushels, which is slightly more than the 1928 crops and slightly below the ten-year average of 19.8 bushels. The dry weather in August injured the crop to some extent. The production is estimated to be 332,000 bushels, compared with 326,000 bushels last year.

"The clover-seed crop was one of the largest ever harvested in the State. Weather conditions were quite favorable, except in a few eastern counties, and many growers who seldom save any seed have harvested large crops. The total production of clover seed for the United States is nearly double the 1928 crop and also the five-year average.

"The production of soy beans and cow peas can not be accurately estimated at this time because few crops have been threshed. Preliminary reports indicate that the yields are very poor except in the Norfolk section. Soy bean production for the United States is now estimated to be 9,450,000 bushels, compared with 8,688,000 bushels last year. The United States' production of cowpeas is estimated to be 4,780,000 bushels, compared with the short crop of 3,730,000 bushels in 1928.

"Practically no peanuts had been threshed by November 1, so growers could not accurately estimate their yields. The eastern counties of the peanut district have better prospects than other sections. The dry weather during August damaged the Spanish crop considerably. The production for Virginia is estimated to be 145,600,000 pounds, compared with 138,320,000 pounds last year and the five-year average of 120,804,000 pounds. Throughout the United States the crop has turned out better than had been expected and the estimated production of 902,330,000 pounds is about 10 per cent greater than last year's crop.

"Contrary to the usual decline during October, milk production during the past month and on November 1, the average per cow was reported to be 12 pounds, compared with 11.5 pounds on October 1 and 12.5 pounds on November 1, 1928. Improvement in pastures is responsible for the increased production of milk.

"Egg production declined during October, as is usually the case, and the November 1 average of 134 eggs per farm was slightly less than the average of 140 eggs a year ago. The average number of hens per farm was 84, compared with 88 last year.

"The supply of farm labor is reported to be practically equal to the demand. In most sections of the State there has been sufficient farm labor for all requirements throughout the season. There are some sections, however, in which farmers have difficulty in securing the necessary labor."

BAPTISTS TO WATCH PROGRESS OF PEACE

ROANOKE MEETING VOTED

Winchester, Va., Nov. 14.—To keep to the front the progress of world peace, the Virginia Baptist General Association, at its closing session here today, adopted unanimously a resolution offered by Dr. R. M. Shelburn, Danville, that "it is the sense of this association that the board of missions and education and other agencies operating under Baptist auspices in Virginia shall, in the making of their literature of propaganda for the purpose of their work, keep alive and to the front the progress of world peace to the end that our people, lest they forget, may be continually reminded of their responsibility on this greatest of all world movements."

The convention voted to meet November 18 next year in the First Baptist Church at Roanoke, with the Rev. Dr. T. Ryland Sanford, Fredericksburg, as preacher of the opening sermon, and the Rev. Dr. J. T. Riddick, Norfolk, alternate.

Today, sessions were of executive character. Denominational interests represented in reports were discussed and acted upon. Among those reporting were the Rev. C. C. Thomas, Roanoke, for Sunday schools; the Rev. R. W. L. Ball, South Carolina, speaking on the Southern Baptist cooperative program; the Rev. Dr. W. T. Waite, Richmond, presenting claims of State missions; Lee Shepard, on behalf of Baptist Young People's Union; the Rev. Dr. W. F. Boatwright, Richmond, presenting claims of Christian Education; the Rev. Dr. S. S. Hill, Richmond, appealing for the Baptist Hospital, and the Rev. Dr. A. E. Kernaham, Washington, D. C., delivering his third and final address on personal and visitation evangelism as taking the place of the old-time revival.

Women's Work Praised.

At the closing session Miss Blanche White, Richmond, reported for the Woman's Missionary Union, and an address by the Rev. Dr. John L. Rosser, Bristol, praised the work of the women. The Rev. L. C. Dickerson, Newport News, advocated greater efforts toward providing additional facilities for the Baptist orphanage. Trustees of the orphanage at Salem reported 257 children being cared for, and that the superintendent was hampered by lack of facilities. Many children who wish to come can not be received because there is not room for them.

A report on social service and temperance declared that "Baptist bodies, whether churches, associations, or conventions, are in no sense concerned with partisan politics, nor indeed, with politics at all as such, but only with the great matters of vital religion, civic righteousness and public morality." However, it said, "the fact that an issue becomes involved in politics, or that an evil may become established in government and receive sanction and license from government, does not in any degree lessen the right of the individual Christian citizen or group of citizens to appeal to their fellow citizens to join them in denouncing and suppressing the wrong and in establishing and upholding the right."

Pastors Exhorted to Fight Evil.

The convention urged pastors "to let their voices be heard again in setting forth the perils of intemperance and the menace of lawlessness."

It asserted that disappearing almshouse and slums, increased savings bank deposits, cleaning of streets from crime breeding saloons, superior efficiency and trustworthiness of workers, happier homes and multiplicity of school houses, "all attest the beneficent results of the prohibition law."

A resolution adopted after a spirited debate permits others than Baptists to serve as trustees of the University of Richmond, Baptists, however, to retain three-fifths voting power. An amendment was introduced by Calvin Moss, Lynchburg, providing that non-Baptist members of the board must be members of some evangelical church. The amendment was voted down. Under the resolution, a Jew would be eligible to membership on the board.

Wild Turkeys as Principal Game Birds Goal of Virginia

Special Plea Made by Commission Chairman to Get Hunters to Observe Laws; Each Fowl Costs $20 to Replace.

Richmond, Va., Nov 14 (A.P.).—Protection of wild turkeys, more plentiful in Virginia now than ever before in the history of the State game department, is being sought this year with the aim of reestablishing turkeys as one of the State's principal game birds, it was stated today by officials.

A special plea is being made by Maj. A. Willis Robertson, chairman of the State commission of game and inland fisheries, to hunters to observe strictly the laws and especially those concerning preseason hunting.

"It is entirely possible," Maj. Robertson said, "for us to bring back the turkey as one of our principal game birds, and with that in mind we propose to operate the game farm to increase the supply of turkeys and also to buy large numbers of half-bred birds for release.

"When a man kills a wild turkey he has the equivalent of 35 quail, and if a hunter can kill one or two in a season he should be satisfied.

"By preventing all preseason hunting on turkeys, releasing birds in sections where they are virtually extinct, providing buckwheat, rye and similar food crops to take the place of chestnuts which are no longer available, and exercising due and reasonable restriction in killing during the open season, we can bring back turkeys in large numbers in Virginia.

"To do so, however," Maj. Robertson continued, "will require a high type of cooperation on the part of all citizens, and therefore it is really up to the citizens of the State."

Maj. Robertson pointed out that the commission can not purchase at $20 each enough turkeys to supply the demand of preseason hunting and open season "game hogs."

The commission also is planning to secure information on the prevalence of wild turkeys and quail through reports of game wardens and hunters. Hunters throughout the State are requested to send a card or otherwise communicate with the commission concerning supplies of these two types of game birds found in their sections.

It was pointed out that the increase or decrease of wild turkeys is very largely dependent upon human protection, even more so than in the case of quail, and that the present tendency to abandon some farm lands to grow up again in timber is a factor in favor of increasing the numbers of turkeys.

The breding season this year was considered to have been excellent for wild turkeys.

The total number of turkeys killed in the season of 1928-29 was reported as 6,204. To replace them at $20 a bird would require $124,000, officials noted.

$1,000 BOND IS SET IN DOVE RUM CASE

Prince Georges County Election Chief's Son to Face Baltimore Court.

GRANGE ASKS ROAD WIRE

Raynor E. Dove, of Forestville, deputy game warden for Prince Georges County, yesterday pleaded not guilty before United States Commissioner J. Frank Supplee when arraigned on charges of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor. Dove waived a preliminary hearing and was held on $1,000 bond for trial in the United States District Court at Baltimore.

The arraignment was the result of a raid made early yesterday morning on a shed situated on Dove's property at Forestville by Federal Prohibition Agents L. W. York, P. V. Fleming and M. E. Thompson. The agents told Commissioner Supplee that they found 114 gallons of white whisky, 30 gallons of colored whisky, a 16-ounce bottle of caramel coloring and 8 cases of gallon jars.

Dove is the son of George S. Dove, chairman of the board of supervisors of election of Prince Georges County, and a brother-in-law of Henry Morris, Prince Georges County member of the Maryland House of Delegates.

Several weeks ago a load of alleged liquor was captured by Prince Georges County police, who say the driver told them they couldn't arrest him because the "liquor belonged to Raynor Dove." The driver is now serving time in the county jail in default of fine.

Pomona Grange of Prince Georges County yesterday adopted a resolution asking that the roads of the county be made safe by placing wire fences and guard rails on all dangerous curves and along bad drops. A committee was appointed to take the matter up with the county commissioners. Members of the committee are Summerfield D. Hall, W. F. Mulligan and K. Blanford. The county grange met at Beltsville in the Grange Hall.

Alexander Gude, Brice Bowie and J. E. Hogue were appointed a committee to cooperate with the Prince Georges County Community Council in its campaign against billboards along the highways of the county. The master of the grange, John Edelkamp was authorized to join with a committee from the Montgomery County Grange in selecting a suitable place for the 1930 meeting of the Maryland State Grange. The two granges will invite the State grange after a meeting place is selected.

The meeting also was featured by recitations by Miss Alice M. Morton and Miss Elizabeth Seidenspinner; vocal solos by Mrs. Pomeo Perry, Miss Sarah Wingertner and Miss Louise Hurley; readings by Mrs. E. L. Smith and a stunt act by J. E. Wolfe. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture was the principal speaker.

Jack Schroth, of Captiol Heights, yesterday was acquitted on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and fined $25 on a charge of impersonating an officer by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Capitol Heights branch of Prince Georges County Police Court. Schroth told the judge he was an undercover man for the Federal prohibition unit.

The charges against Schroth were preferred by Thomas Richardson, also of Capitol Heights, who told the judge that he was parked in an automobile on the road near Largo with a party of friends when Schroth drove up and told them to move on. Richardson demanded his authority, whereupon Schroth is alleged to have shown a badge and to have exhibited a pistol slung in a holster at his side.

Campbell was arrested Monday on the Marlboro pike by State Policeman W. T. Booker. He is at liberty on $1,000 bond.

The Prince Georges County commissioners have named a committee for the conversion of the old stage road near Collington into a county road. The committee includes Ben Meaner, J. F. Peach and Garland Arnold. The commissioners also have accepted a bid of $150 for a gravel pit owned by the county on the Marlboro pike between Forestville and the District line, according to James C. Blackwell, clerk to the county commissioners. The resignation of J. Cyril Millikin as dog tax collector for Bowie District has been accepted.

Caesar L. Aiello, prominent Hyattsville attorney, has been appointed auxiliary liaison officer by Carl W. Walsl, commander of Snyder-Farmer Post, No. 3, American Legion, of Hyattsville.

The following committees also have been named by Walsl, the first named being chairman: E. J. Cannon, Orion R. Butler, Charles Turner, James E. Ott, Dr. Robert McCullough, John A. Johnson, J. Moses Edlavich, executive committee; Hugh McClay, John A. Johnson and V. Allan Ratcliffe, membership; John A. Johnson, J. Moses Edlavich and Dr. McCullough, relief; Caesar L. Aiello, James E. Ott and John N. Brooks, entertainment; John Henry Hiser, V. Allan Ratcliffe and William J. Keefe, athletic; E. J. Cannon and Edward A. Fuller, jr., publicity, and William J. Keefe, house committee.

SHERIFF ON STAND IN REBELLION TRIAL

ONE JUMPS $200 BOND

Marion, N. C., Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Sheriff Oscar F. Adkins, of McDowell County, took the stand late today in superior court, here, as the first witness in the trial of Alfred Hoffman, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, and four others charged with rebellion against the State and conspiracy to riot and related details of strike disorders which led to the charges.

First of the incidents the State questioned him about was an attack by strikers from the Marion Manufacturing Co. mill on a group of workmen who were attempting to unload several cars of cotton and coal in the mill yard on July 17.

Sheriff Adkins said he was called to the scene and a group of strikers surrounded him. Wes Fowler, one of the defendants, told him: "You have played hell by coming here," Adkins said. The sheriff said the strikers threatened him, and Fowler said his (Adkins') gun hasn't got any nerve at the handle of it."

Del Lewis, Lawrence Hogan and J. Hugh Hall are being tried jointly with Hoffman and Fowler.

Three Days for Jury.

Practically the first three days of the trial were consumed in selection of a jury. The body was completed this afternoon. More than 100 veniremen were called from Rutherford, an adjoining county, before the 12 men were selected. The jury is composed of eight farmers, three textile mill workers and a filling station operator. They are J. A. Peeler, farmer; John F. Taylor, farmer; R. R. Scruggins, filling station operator; J. D. Weeks, jr., farmer; L. P. Rollins, textile mill worker; C. A. Toms, farmer; Gordon McDaniel, farmer; P. H. Poole, textile worker; Frank Allen, textile worker; John Prady, farmer; Howard Williams, farmer, and J. O. Leadbetter, farmer.

A sixth man, Will Russell, was indicted with the five now on trial, but he failed to appear in court for trial. His bond of $200 was forfeited.

Disorders were sporadic here most of the summer, following textile strikes in three mills, and caused Gov. O. Max Gardner to send National Guard troops here to aid in preserving order. The strikes in the two Clinchfield mills and the Marion Manufacturing Co. mill were called by the United Textile Workers of America, a branch of the American Federation of Labor.

Arbitration settled the strikes in September and troops were withdrawn. Operatives walked out of the Marion Manufacturing Co. mill October 2, charging the mill had violated the arbitration agreement.

Objections Are Frequent.

A riot followed in which the six men were fatally wounded.

Sheriff Adkins' testimony was interrupted frequently today by objections from the defense. He said a striker struck R. W. Baldwin, president of the Marion Manufacturing Co., with a stick during the disorders July 17, but this portion of his testimony was ruled incompetent by Judge G. V. Cowper, presiding, when the sheriff was unable to identify the man he said struck Baldwin.

Eight sheriffs' deputies were indicted by the grand jury yesterday for murder in connection with the slaying of the six men in the October 2 riot. Solicitor J. W. Pless today announced he would seek to have their trials moved to another county. Arguments on the motion for change of venue were set for next Saturday.

CREW IS ARRESTED IN W., B. & A. DISPUTE

Long Controversy Over Left Turn in Annapolis Will Have Day in Court.

TEST CASE IS PLANNED

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 14.—Climaxing a long controversy between municipal authorities of Annapolis and officials of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad over failure of the latter to comply with a city traffic ordinance which prohibits trolley cars or other vehicles making a left turn at Church Circle from West street, the crew of a train that arrived here at 9:30 this morning with passengers from Washington and Baltimore was arrested by city police in front of the postoffice just after making the left turn. This action will test the validity of the city ordinance as regards rights enjoyed by the railway under a 25-year franchise that does not terminate until 1932.

The men arrested are John T. Wes Basil, conductor, and Harry Basil, motorman, brothers, who have been employed by the railroad for many years. The arrest was technical in nature, no bond being required, and both men assured police they would be on hand for a hearing before Police Just
